THE GRAPHIC SUPPLEMENT.

The GRAPHIC this week contains an unusual amount of reading matter, some thirty-five columns, and the pressure of local news was so strong that it was found necessary to issue a supplement.

Local news will be found on every page but two, which are devoted to miscellany, and in the supplement will be found the account of the 25th anniversary exercises at the Methodist church, with Mr. H. J. Wood's historical sketch in full; the report of Rev. Mr. Worcester's lecture on the New Church, and other matter. Every village is represented with local correspondence, and our Tariff Reform friends are unusually lively. If you want the local news, you will have to take the GRAPHIC.

—Three children were on the express track near the tunnel when the 11 o'clock express came in sight on Wednesday. One of the children, who was over five years old and one of them at least would have been killed had not Mr. John Atwood run and rescued it, just before the train thundered by.

—The fine display of crackers in H. B. Coffin's window are from Kennedy's famous bakery, and not from Bent's, as was stated by an error last week. They make such a handsome appearance as to attract much attention from those passing by, and Mr. Coffin's patrons say they are fully as good as they look, which is about as high praise as could be given them.

—The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday afternoon was addressed by Rev. Mr. Lamb of the North Evangelical church. He spoke on the parable of the vineyard laborers and the value of work. The world is the field and the work is large. Next Sunday Mr. G. C. Dunn will have charge of the meeting. All are cordially invited.

—The Channing Literary class will be gin its regular meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 12, at 7.45, in the Channing church parlor, and will continue to meet at the times indicated on the tickets through the winter. Program of the course may be procured at the store of the Misses Parker. Tickets for all the evenings may be purchased at the same place for 50 cents.

—The first of the new course of lectures by Dr. Shinn will be delivered in Grace church on Sunday night. The subject will be "The Science of the Bible." The object of these lectures will be to explain the four great experiments which have been made in this neighborhood, and to show their bearing upon important principles of government, education, society, etc.

—Rev. Mr. Titus has returned from his six months' stay in Dakota and is again at his residence on Richardson street. He has resumed his studies at the Harvard Medical school, where he will graduate next summer. Another gentleman of the same name has rented a house on Emerson street, which led some to suppose that Rev. Mr. Titus intended removing there, but this is not the case.

—The marriage of Mr. Wm. L. Graves of Newton and Miss Nellie G. Learned of Dorchester took place at the residence of the bride's father, 28 West Cottage street, Dorchester, Thursday, Oct. 24th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. H. Stearns, uncle of the bride, and was witnessed only by the families and a few intimate friends. The happy couple will make their home in Malden, where good wishes of many friends follow them.

—Despite unpleasant weather, a large audience enjoyed the choral prize society given at Eliot church last Sunday evening. The choir was assisted by Miss Gertrude Edmonds, contralto, and Mr. T. M. King, tenor, the former of whom sang with the choir of J. C. D. Parker's Redeemer hymn, and the latter the "Sanctus" from Gounod's St. Cecilia Mass. Mrs. Hibbard sang with the choir Mendelssohn's "O, for the Wings of a Dove" and Mr. Thayer sang "Hail, Anthem" by Steiner. It is hoped that these choral services will be of frequent occurrence.

—The Newton Natural History society will hold its usual monthly meeting in Eliot Lower Hall, Monday evening, Nov. 4th, at 7.30 o'clock. Dr. Frisbie will read a paper on Planet Formation and the Life History of the Earth, and there will be reports of observations by Geo. L. Chandler, S. E. Warren and C. J. Maynard, and presentation of specimens of great interest. The public are cordially invited. An annual payment of one dollar by those willing to help the public work of the society will be appreciated by the officers.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hyde celebrated their golden wedding a week ago last Wednesday, rather quietly, at their daughter's residence in Worcester. Owing to the health of Mrs. Hyde the celebration was a quiet one, and their many Newton friends will regret that it was not possible to help them celebrate such an important anniversary at their home in Newton. Mr. Hyde received a handsome gold-headed cane from friends in Worcester, and his associates at the Newton bank presented him with a very comfortable extension easy chair. Mr. and Mrs. Hyde have received many congratulations over the happy occasion, and they will receive many more when their friends learn that congratulations are in order. They represent the first settlers of Newton by direct descent and they have always enjoyed the honor and respect of the people of Newton.

—An interesting bit of local history is connected with the old Brackett house on Waverly avenue, which is to be sold at auction tomorrow. It was built by Col. Joseph Ward, a distinguished revolutionary patriot, in 1791, according to a date cut in one of the stones of the cellar, and which is still visible. Col. Ward was a man of large property, although he was reported to have spent a great deal of it in helping the government in its fight for freedom, and at the time of its erection the house was one of the show places of Newton, both from its commanding situation and the elegance (for that time) of its fittings and furnishings. Col. Ward was born in 1737, married in 1764, and died in Boston in 1812. His wife was Mary, daughter of John Jackson, who lived in Concord in 1820. He was one of the most prominent residents of Newton, and the local histories devote a good deal of space to his history. The land was owned by John Jackson, one of the original settlers of Newton, who came here in 1689, and Col. Ward's farm comprised about 70 acres, and extended from Waverly avenue to Centre street, including the site of the old house. The house was built by Col. Ward, and the estate and the old house, which were in the hands of the family, were sold to the city in 1887, and how long they lived there, we have not been able to discover. Col. Ward's portrait was taken in the city some years ago, and may be seen in the public library. It is said that he was not a direct ancestor of the Wards now living in the vicinity, but was related to their ancestor who lived in Newton in the 18th century. The house has such a historical value, that it is hoped it can be preserved by a removal to some other locality. It is still in better condition than many modern houses, as in Col. Ward's day it was built for the future and not merely for one generation.

—Rev. Mr. Spaulding's next Lecture.

The next lecture in Mr. Spaulding's course in the Channing church parlors will be one of the most interesting of the series. It will take place next Wednesday evening, Nov. 6th, and will show the modern theatre goer how the ancient Romans amused themselves, describing the theatre, amphitheatre and circus, and the various sports and games which made up a Roman holiday. The stereopticon views include illustrations of Roman theatres and amphitheatres with many beautiful colored views from ancient frescoes and mosaics and modern paintings. The Colosseum will be fully described and illustrated.

—Rev. Mr. McCullough's Resignation.

At a special meeting held at the Newton Baptist church Friday evening, Oct. 25th, the following letter of resignation was read:

Dear Brethren and Friends:—Circumstances over which I have no control compel me at this time to offer my resignation as pastor of this church, to take effect Oct. 27, one week from to-day.

For a number of weeks I have been unable on account of ill health to do the necessary work of the church; my physician advises me to change locality, hoping by so doing that I may be fully restored to health. Scarcely a year ago I came to you hopefully, tremblingly, believing God had directed you in your choice and in my decision. I can think so. In his providence He seems to be leading us now to different fields of labor. I have found you kind, forbearing, sympathetic.

Whatever you have seen in me that is Christlike give the Master the credit, but whatever unchristlike hold me responsible for and not the Master.

May the God of peace be with us and keep us, and bring us without the loss of one to our Father's home in my prayer.

L. P. McCullough.

The church passed the following resolutions:—

Whereas, Our beloved pastor, Rev. J. P. McCullough, has, by reason of impaired health, felt compelled to tender his resignation as pastor of this church. Therefore,

Resolved, That as a church and as individuals, we sincerely regret the necessity that calls for this action after so short a pastorate among us, since, short as it has been, we have learned to know his sterling worth and purity of character as a Christian man, his wisdom and his work as a pastor in gathering the lost into the fold of Christ, and his unselfish devotion to the great work of his life.

Resolved, That we regretfully accept his own interpretation of the will of the Lord, that "He called him to this field and now calls him away," and hence accept his resignation in the same spirit as that in which it is tendered, praying and trusting that the Lord will so lead him and his loved ones, and ourselves as well, that all things may work together for good, according to his promise.

Resolved, That we recommend to the society to continue his present salary to Jan. 1st, 1890.

Resolved, that we gladly bear witness to his earnest, self-sacrificing work for the Master among us, and are grateful that the Divine approval has been so significantly manifested in the seals of his ministry seen in the number of rejoicing converts he has led into the baptismal waters.

Resolved, that our heartfelt sympathy and love is extended to him and his family, with the hope that the needed change of climate may bring renewed strength for service, and that the abundant promise of his pastoral work in the past may be more than fulfilled in the future, as the strength of his yet early manhood ere the later years that God may grant him shall have passed.

A Brilliant Reception.

The beautiful residence of Mrs. D. G. Rawson, Vernon street, Newton, was the scene of a brilliant gathering of prominent society people last evening, upon the occasion of a reception tendered to her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Rawson, who have just taken up their residence in Newton. The interior of the house was very tastefully decorated with rare plants and cut flowers. The musical numbers were finely rendered by an orchestra. Over 100 invitations were sent out, and nearly 500 guests were present.

Among prominent people present were noticed: Maj. and Mrs. Rogers, Brookline; Mr. and Mrs. John Wales, Longwood; Dr. Julian A. Mead and Mrs. Mead, Watertown; Mrs. Blake, Mr. Geo. F. Wood, Miss Mabel Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hatch, Mr. James Longley, Boston; ex-Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ellison, Mr. Eben F. Ellison, Miss Ellison, ex-Alderman and Mrs. Samuel Powers, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Coburn, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Cobb, Mr. M. Cobb, Miss Lucy Cobb, Mrs. C. B. Lancaster, Misses Lancaster, Mrs. Albert Brackett, Mr. Arthur Brackett, Mr. Louis Farlow, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitman, Mrs. Huxton, Mrs. G. E. Huxton, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hall, Mr. E. W. Converse, Mr. James Converse, Mr. Horace Soule, Mr. Andrew Cobb, Mr. Wells Holmes, Mr. U. C. Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Emerson, Miss Mamie Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Colby, Mr. J. C. Chaffin, Miss Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Petersley, Mr. Bert Potter, Miss Potter, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. March, Jr., Miss Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Woodman, Mr. Horace Edmonds, Miss Millie Woodford, Mrs. Lincoln R. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holbrook and others. During the evening an elegant collation was served by Weber of Boston.

A New Choral Society.

Several weeks ago the GRAPHIC stated that a project was on foot to organize a vocal society in Newton. This project has been carried out, and the plans of the society are now made public. The association is to include a chorus of active membership, limited to 100, and an associate membership. Rehearsals will be held weekly during the winter, commencing next week, and two or more concerts will be given each season, one at least being given with orchestra.

It is proposed to devote the rehearsals to the study of standard works of the cantata form. A new feature which it is proposed to introduce will be an interval of from 10 to 20 minutes between the two parts of the program at the concerts, thus giving members an opportunity to leave their seats and to meet one another.

Applications for either active or associate membership will now be received at any time. It is to be distinctly understood that this society is to be continued to any one village of Newton, but that it is to include the entire city. The fees of active membership are two dollars per annum, all music being furnished free of expense to the chorus; the fees of associate membership will be five dollars per annum, the payment of which will entitle the member to four tickets to each concert, to admission to all rehearsals and meetings of the society, and to a voice in the management of affairs. Active members will each receive one ticket for each concert.

Those desiring to become enrolled as members are cordially invited to communicate with either of the undersigned, care Box 146, Newton. Any inquiries sent to this address will be promptly answered.

ARTHUR W. THAYER, Director,
J. WALLACE GOODRICH, Pianist.

Patronesses: Mrs. J. Sturgis Potter, Mrs. Henry Brooks, Mrs. E. T. Eldredge, Mrs. Lucius G. Pratt, Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Thomas Nickerson.

At Mr. Doyle's conservatories in Cambridge, formerly the old Hovey place, may be seen this week one of the finest displays of chrysanthemums in New England. Among other rare white varieties now in full bloom is the Mrs. Alpheus Hardy, a flower which has received medals whenever exhibited from the leading horticultural societies of this and other cities.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

WABAN WANTS POLICE PROTECTION AND MORE STREET LAMPS.

Both branches of the city government met Monday evening. In the board of aldermen, Messrs. Johnson, Chadwick, Childs and Harbach were present and Mayor Burr presided.

Mayor Burr announced the resignation of Alderman Hamblen from the board of health, which meets in the afternoon and therefore is very difficult for business men to attend.

A communication from the board of health recommended the abating of the nuisance on Clinton street, Ward 2, and asking for an appropriation of $650, to be expended by the board of health under the wet land act.

Alderman Childs introduced an order granting the appropriation but as two-thirds of the board were not present, he withdrew it.

The overseers of the poor handed in their quarterly report, stating that on the 1st of the month they had a balance of $3,063.

Mary Galway gave notice of intention to build a house 20 by 26 with ell 10 by 12 feet, on California street.

J. W. Mitchell gave notice of intention to build house 27 by 36 with ell 8 by 16 feet, on Chestnut street, Ward 5.

L. R. Spear and others asked for six street lamps on Irving street.

Residents of Waban called attention to their isolated condition, with lack of police protection, which laid them open to burglaries, and stated that the insecurity caused great anxiety among those residing there and kept desirable residents from coming to settle. A large number of burglaries had already occurred there, and ladies had been insulted while going home through the streets after dark. They urged that proper police protection be afforded them and especially a police patrol at night. Referred to committee on police.

Conrad Decker and others stated that they were citizens and tax payers, who paid for all the conveniences, but they were without proper street lights, and asked that lamps be placed on Dudley, Greenwood and Brookline streets, that their section might compare with the rest of the city. Referred to lamp committee.

Alderman Harbach from the highway committee reported favorably on the laying out and grading of Sewall street from Prince street, westerly; Kimball Terrace from Otis street southerly and the street running from Station street to institution, and the error of his ways and that he will no longer deny the law. I think that a sentence of imprisonment, under the circumstances, will result in injury to the temperance cause in this city. If the sentence is pressed it will make votes for license.

Mr. Robinson—"What is your ground for that belief and why do you think that he will keep his promise any more than previous promises given which he has not respected?"

Mr. Follett—"If I did not sincerely believe that he would keep his promise made under oath, I certainly should not appear in his behalf. I believe that he will keep his promise and the error of his ways and that he will no longer deny the law. I think that a sentence of imprisonment, under the circumstances, will result in injury to the temperance cause in this city. If the sentence is pressed it will make votes for license."

Mr. N. T. Allen was next called by Mr. Powers. He said that he was a friend to the temperance cause, although he felt great sympathy for Duane on account of his family. The citizens of Newton are in favor of sustaining the no-license law, and as a law abiding citizen will not endorse their views. It is possible that the law may be sustained if the case is disposed of agreeably to the petition of the defendant's counsel. I am willing to leave the case to the discretion of the court.

Mr. Robinson—"What would be your opinion, Mr. Allen, if you were aware that Duane had been 4 times convicted and that his place had been raided by the police a number of times recently, and that he had admitted that he sold liquor right along?"

Mr. Allen—"I consider a second offense worse than the first."

Mr. N. T. Allen was then called by Mr. Powers. He thought that Mr. Robinson evinced a spirit of vindictiveness in handling the case.

Mr. Robinson, in reply, said that the charge was not true. Mr. Powers, he said, was true to the interests of his client and he should be awarded a position at the bar if he failed in his duty in that respect. I occupy the same position, he added, and I am endeavoring to be true to my oath and true to the interests of the commonwealth. Could I act upon my sympathies, I would say to the open doors and let Duane go scot free. I have a duty to perform and I must see to it that the facts are brought to the attention of the court. I possess no spirit of vindictiveness in this case and I say amen to the proposition to leave this matter of sentence to the discretion of the court.

The cross examination was then continued. In reply to Mr. Robinson Mr. Allen stated that it was the sentiment of the law and order league that the law should take its course. He was not aware that the league had recommended sentence of imprisonment.

J. H. Nickerson, the first witness, said that he had known Mr. Duane for some 8 or ten years. He had a very respectable family and was generally regarded as a law abiding citizen aside from his illegal liquor selling. In my commercial dealings with Mr. Duane, I have found him to be a very honest and strictly honest man. I should certainly credit his promise to refrain from engaging in the business in the future and I am in favor of the disposition of the case suggested by the defendant's counsel.

Mr. Robinson—"Suppose that he had been previously convicted and still continued to sell?"

Mr. Nickerson—"Such facts would militate against him, yet I believe that there are few men who are beyond the point where they would refuse to reform."

Mr. James T. Allen was next called upon. He said that he believed in temperance. I have known Mr. Duane, he added, ever since he lived here and I have found him to be a square man, one whom I would not be afraid to trust. So far as the disposition of the case is concerned, I believe that the granting of his petition will fully meet the ends of justice. Punishment is merely resorted to for future security, and the law is in reality but the embodiment of common sense. Mr. Duane gives his sacred promise that he will hereafter give up the business. That is really all the law requires and I feel assured that the promise made will be kept.

Mr. A. C. Mudge endorsed the views of the previous witness. He thought that public sentiment was in favor of such a disposition of the case.

Officers Libby, Quilty, Ryan, Soule and Fletcher were called by Mr. Powers. In reply to defendant's counsel they stated that they had never seen any drunken men about Duane's place or premises, although in the case of two officers men had been arrested for drunkenness in

MICHAEL J. DUANE SENTENCED.

FINED $100 AND COSTS AND THREE MONTHS IMPRISONMENT.

The case of Michael J. Duane, who pleaded guilty to the charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance, came up for sentence in the police court room last Saturday morning. There was quite a large gathering present, a great deal of public interest having been concentrated in the finding of the court. Mr. Samuel L. Powers appeared for the defendant and the government and law and order league was represented by Hon. Charles Robinson. The defendant's counsel presented an affidavit subscribed to by Duane, under oath, pledging his word to give up the business of illegal liquor selling in the future. It was accompanied by a petition, requesting that the case be placed on file. Several gentlemen testified in relation to Duane's good character, aside from his engaging in the illegal liquor business, among them Messrs. N. T. Allen and James T. Allen, principal and associate principal of the English and Classical school, W. J. Follett, A. C. Mudge, James H. Nickerson, president of the First National bank, West Newton and Henry H. Hunt, a former member of the common council.

Mr. H. H. Hunt, the first witness called, said that he had known Mr. Duane for ten years and had always found him to be trustworthy, honest and straightforward. "I believe," he said, "that the ends of justice will be subserved by disposing of the case, agreeably to the petition of the defendant's counsel, and I feel confident that Mr. Duane is sincere in his promise to give up the business."

Mr. W. J. Follett said in substance: "I have known Mr. Duane 6 or 7 years and have always found him to be an honest citizen. I never knew of anything in his conduct open to criticism, aside from this case. It seems to me that justice demands that the illegal sale of liquor should be stopped, but it certainly does not demand the persecution of a man. I believe that Duane will keep his pledge, and, consequently, the purpose of the law in stopping the illegal sale, so far as his case is concerned will be accomplished."

Mr. Robinson—"What is your ground for that belief and why do you think that he will keep his promise any more than previous promises given which he has not respected?"

Mr. Follett—"If I did not sincerely believe that he would keep his promise made under oath, I certainly should not appear in his behalf. I believe that he will keep his promise and the error of his ways and that he will no longer deny the law. I think that a sentence of imprisonment, under the circumstances, will result in injury to the temperance cause in this city. If the sentence is pressed it will make votes for license."

Mr. N. T. Allen was next called by Mr. Powers. He said that he was a friend to the temperance cause, although he felt great sympathy for Duane on account of his family. The citizens of Newton are in favor of sustaining the no-license law, and as a law abiding citizen will not endorse their views. It is possible that the law may be sustained if the case is disposed of agreeably to the petition of the defendant's counsel. I am willing to leave the case to the discretion of the court.

Mr. Robinson—"What would be your opinion, Mr. Allen, if you were aware that Duane had been 4 times convicted and that his place had been raided by the police a number of times recently, and that he had admitted that he sold liquor right along?"

Mr. Allen—"I consider a second offense worse than the first."

Mr. N. T. Allen was then called by Mr. Powers. He thought that Mr. Robinson evinced a spirit of vindictiveness in handling the case.

Mr. Robinson, in reply, said that the charge was not true. Mr. Powers, he said, was true to the interests of his client and he should be awarded a position at the bar if he failed in his duty in that respect. I occupy the same position, he added, and I am endeavoring to be true to my oath and true to the interests of the commonwealth. Could I act upon my sympathies, I would say to the open doors and let Duane go scot free. I have a duty to perform and I must see to it that the facts are brought to the attention of the court. I possess no spirit of vindictiveness in this case and I say amen to the proposition to leave this matter of sentence to the discretion of the court.

The cross examination was then continued. In reply to Mr. Robinson Mr. Allen stated that it was the sentiment of the law and order league that the law should take its course. He was not aware that the league had recommended sentence of imprisonment.

J. H. Nickerson, the first witness, said that he had known Mr. Duane for some 8 or ten years. He had a very respectable family and was generally regarded as a law abiding citizen aside from his illegal liquor selling. In my commercial dealings with Mr. Duane, I have found him to be a very honest and strictly honest man. I should certainly credit his promise to refrain from engaging in the business in the future and I am in favor of the disposition of the case suggested by the defendant's counsel.

Mr. Robinson—"Suppose that he had been previously convicted and still continued to sell?"

Mr. Nickerson—"Such facts would militate against him, yet I believe that there are few men who are beyond the point where they would refuse to reform."

Mr. James T. Allen was next called upon. He said that he believed in temperance. I have known Mr. Duane, he added, ever since he lived here and I have found him to be a square man, one whom I would not be afraid to trust. So far as the disposition of the case is concerned, I believe that the granting of his petition will fully meet the ends of justice. Punishment is merely resorted to for future security, and the law is in reality but the embodiment of common sense. Mr. Duane gives his sacred promise that he will hereafter give up the business. That is really all the law requires and I feel assured that the promise made will be kept.

Mr. A. C. Mudge endorsed the views of the previous witness. He thought that public sentiment was in favor of such a disposition of the case.

Officers Libby, Quilty, Ryan, Soule and Fletcher were called by Mr. Powers. In reply to defendant's counsel they stated that they had never seen any drunken men about Duane's place or premises, although in the case of two officers men had been arrested for drunkenness in the immediate vicinity. It was generally understood that liquor was sold there, contrary to the law. Officer Fletcher said that upon the occasion of the last raid Duane told him that the officers came too late and that they would have found liquor there had they visited his place a week earlier.

Letters were then read from Mr. A. D. S. Bell and Geo. H. Jones, recommending the clemency of the court and the placing of the case on file.

Mr. Robinson then presented the records of previous convictions—April 14, 1880; August 25, 1881; April 10, 1882; March 3, 1882.

The defendant's case was then summed up by Mr. Powers, who urged the clemency of the court in granting the petition. He alluded to Duane's family and the fact that the children had been well educated. He also spoke of the testimony in Duane's behalf and asserted his client's honesty in his solemn promise to give up the business.

Mr. Robinson closed for the government. The prosecution of the illegal liquor dealers, he said, was necessary and in accordance with the expressed wishes of a large majority of the citizens of Newton. The good order and security of the community demanded the enforcement of all laws and the punishment of the offender. He dwelt upon the persistent violation of the law by Duane and urged the full penalty, arguing that it was necessary in order to stop the illegal liquor business in Newton.

At the conclusion of the argument, Judge Kennedy briefly reviewed the case and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. He also sentenced the defendant to three months in the house of correction. An appeal from the sentence was taken and Duane furnished bonds for his appearance in the supreme court.

Our Girls as Successful Women.

A wealthy woman recently gave $200,000 to establish a summer resort for poor mothers and their children. God bless her; this is only one instance among thousands where woman has conceived and executed grand ideas. Women are rapidly entering every branch of the useful arts, and aspiring to every money-making employment. "What shall we do with our girls?" is no longer a difficult problem for men and fathers to solve. Some one has said "It takes a woman to set a hen;" and so it does. The most successful poultry raisers are women. We have in mind a woman who has for years raised finer poultry and got more eggs from her hens at less expense than her male neighbors. Practical men, let your girls engage in the poultry industry, as many are doing. Give them a fair share of the profits, and they will soon convince their fathers that girls are mighty handy persons to have about the old home. With the aid now offered any person can make hens lay even in cold weather. Out of twenty-four gold coin premiums offered last winter for best results, one third were won by the women who used Sheridan's Condition Powder to make hens lay. For example Mrs. Henry Baker, Holliston, Mass., won $10 and got from 18 hens during the three months' trial 1329 eggs; Mrs. L. J. Wilson, Northboro, Mass., got 3243 eggs from 100 hens. Mrs. Edwin Brown, East Greenwich, R. I., from 35 hens got 2494 eggs; Mrs. E. Barry, from 25 hens got 2629 eggs from 32 hens; Miss Ada L. Ross of Mr. Sterling, Ill., from 15 hens got 886 eggs; and Miss Maggie Cronshaw of (Middleton, Va., got 2000 eggs from 26 hens; each of the last five ladies also won a $5.00 premium from I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass. Every person who sends this firm now $1.25 for a can of Powder, and desires it, can have his name entered as a competitor, if the premiums are again offered. For 50 cts. they will send two 25 cent packs of Powder; for $1.00 five packs postpaid; six cans for $5.00, express paid; a large can of powder, also one year's subscription to Farm-Poultry monthly, both sent post paid for $1.50. Sample copy of paper 5 cts. Send stamps or cash. Testimonials sent free.

THE IMPROVED SYSTEM OF PROPELLING STREET CARS.

A new system for developing and utilizing steam for power, without smoke, cinders, noise or escape of steam, at much less cost than by any other known method for obtaining and maintaining power. There is no failure nor uncertainty in its operation, and it is absolutely safe. For street cars and other service requiring portable power, it has no equal. Secured by U. S. letters patent. A prominent mechanical engineer says that the possibilities of this invention have not been equalled by any recent invention—except possibly the Bell Telephone and Sawyer-Mann for electric lighting. The Steam Storage Power Company has been organized for the development and introduction of this system throughout the New England States—which territory is owned exclusively by it—with a capital of $200,000—par value shares, $10—and is having a Power Car built by the Pullman Palace Car Co., which will be exhibited in Boston and vicinity in September. The first issue of certificates will be from the office of the company, 34 Broad street, after August 1. Subscriptions may be made for the stock at par—payable 25 per cent. cash, 25 per cent. 30 days, 50 per cent. 60 days—to an amount not exceeding $50,000.

"I believe, Mr. President and gentlemen, that we are entering into one of the most important epochs, so far as commercial affairs are concerned, that we have seen in many years. I believe that we are to open new avenues for commercial greatness. I believe that the Senatorial committee of which Senator Hoar is at the head, and which is discussing our relations with Canada, indicates the spirit of the times. I believe that within the next few years you are to see closer relations with Canada, closer commercial relations with the South American Republics. I do not wish to be considered too enthusiastic, but I am a manifest destiny man. I do not know whether it will come within your lifetime or mine, but I believe Canada and perhaps the southern portion of this country to the isthmus is to join the great republic founded by Washington and his associates. I believe that these people are first to extend their commercial relations and widen the markets for you and the commercial men of this country. Stagnation we cannot endure. It is progress ever, and when we see any country upon our borders that does not have an exchange of commodities with us we shall certainly endeavor to have a policy which will bring them into our fold as our customers. (Great applause.)"

HERBERT RADOLFF.

One year ago Herbert Radolff, the notorious secretary of the Home Market Club and circulator of forged quotations, was shouting himself hoarse in favor of high tariff. But in the Boston Globe of Oct. 21 he declares in favor of free wool from So. America, using precisely the same line of argument that President Cleveland used in his famous message, so that it would appear that the ex-secretary emulates the sofa-fountain and has opinions of all flavors on tap to suit his customers.

Of course the value of the opinions of such persons as Mr. Radolff is absolutely nil, and his performances ought to have no weight with the public. Nevertheless he was very active and influential in the campaign which fastened the "robber tariff" on the United States for another four years, and was effusively thanked for his distinguished services by the Home Market Club and other organizations. He is now sending out quotations. Probably this notable desertion of the high tariff cause will be a signal to a swarm of keen-scented political adventurers who consider it a duty to be on the winning side. In the long run, however, a reform is never helped by hirelings, interested only in the flesh-pots.

The Club and the Campaign.

The secretary has received numerous inquiries in regard to the attitude of the Club in the election of Representatives to the General Court. The people of Newton this year have the pleasant task of choosing two from among six, any of whom would represent the city worthily. We notice with pleasure that papers and individuals who generally have found nothing good in Democracy are outspoken in commendation of Messrs. Hutchinson and Merchant as men of unquestioned integrity, of great capacity, and of unusual energy. Both are members of the Tariff Club and many of us will be glad to aid in their election. On the other hand some of us feel that in state elections the Temperance question comes first and that the Prohibition candidates need our sympathy and our votes. Again, there are some who are very willing to give Mr. Gilman a second year, and find satisfaction in sending one who has served Newton as well as Mr. Ranlett has to a place where he can serve the whole state. In short the Club is not in the campaign at all—but we mean to vote everyone of us for the best man. What are we for? The Duke of Wellington, when he was asked what a soldier needed, said: "A good pair of shoes." "What else does he need?" "A good pair of shoes." "What further should he have?" "A good pair of shoes." In like manner we emulate the sturdy soldier and have but one answer to all questions:—"Tariff Reform," "Tariff Reform," "Tariff Reform." When the day comes to vote for or against a honest, unequivocal reform of the Tariff all men shall know how and why our ballots are cast.

Conviction and Courage.

Within pleasant walking distance of the Garden City stands a small shop with some forty or fifty busy mechanics within making—well, no matter what. The "Tariff Reformer" has been so frequently frightened into silence by the charge that he is nothing but a "doctrinaire" that he haunts mills and factories, and is getting his second best suit grime. The other day he wandered into the shop mentioned above, and the proprietor went with him through every room, and explained to him every process. The pleasant inspection over, of course the inevitable talk followed. At last! Here was a real protected manufacturer. A man whom the Tariff kept alive. One whose raw materials would be but little cheapened by a reform. One whose shops must be closed if the enormous duty which shuts out English competition is removed. An honest, well-to-do, working manufacturer. An inventor, too, who had astonished and puzzled English manufacturers. Just one of those of whom mention was made last week, skilful, energetic, and enterprising. One who needs no help and asks no help. He sees that the world is wide. He knows that if a reform of the Tariff, or that awful Chimera, Free Trade, should close a shop or two, or should even destroy an industry, that new opportunities would open before him on every hand. He knows it and says it. Here are his words:—"I think that the reduction of the Tariff on my goods would be a serious disadvantage to all manufacturers of them in this country" while raw materials could not be much cheapened. However if we could have free trade and it should knock me out altogether I am broad enough to think that it would be a great thing for this country." These are the words of a man who needs his yearly work for his yearly living. If ever he should move to Newton the Club would claim him for his courage, and for his convictions, though he is a Free Trader.

AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCES OF THE NEWTON METHODIST CHURCH.

The event in church matters this week was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Centre Street Methodist church, Newton. The exercises commenced Sunday evening with the Sunday school anniversary observances, and quite a large number were present, although the conditions of the weather were not favorable.

The program was initiated with an organ voluntary, followed by responsive Scripture readings by the Sunday school classes, invocation by pastor and the presentation of the report of the Sunday school historian, Mr. E. W. Gay. The report contained many interesting reminiscences, pertaining to the organization and development of the Sunday school. It was organized at the same time as the church, the first officers being Henry Thrall, president; Thurston Priest, vice-president and Francis M. Trowbridge, secretary. Mr. Trowbridge was also treasurer and Mr. E. W. Gay, librarian, and the school met in Union Hall, on the site of what is now Cole's block. It began with six teachers and 36 scholars. The school met in Union Hall till July, 1869, then for three months in Channing church, now Armory Hall, and then in the Baptist church, corner of Washington and Hovey streets, until Sept. 20, 1867, when the first session was held in the present church. At that time there were 83 pupils with nine teachers. Two years later the school had increased to 117 pupils, and in 1875 to 152. The superintendents have been Henry Thrall, Thurston Priest, G. F. Kimball, A. I. Benyon, W. Warren, A. S. Weed, Rev. W. E. Huntington, J. W. Barber, D. F. Barber and G. M. Weed. A feeling tribute was paid to those connected with the school who have since passed away. The report was a very interesting one and we regret that a lack of space prevents our giving it entire.

After the reading of the report, the congregation united in the rendering of the hymn, "O God Our Strength." Brief addresses were then given relative to the school's history by Messrs. D. F. Barber, H. J. Woods, J. W. Barber, J. T. Paine and Rev. Andrew McKeown. A quartet rendered the beautiful hymn, "There is a Land of Pure Delight," preceding an interesting address by Prof. C. C. Bragdon. At the conclusion of the address, the congregation sang "Swells the Anthem" and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Andrew McKeown, pastor of the church.

The Use of Spotters.

Auburndale, Oct. 28, 1899.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

In your comments, in last issue, on "the trial of the Auburndale druggists" you criticize the employment of detectives, or "spotters," as you choose to call them, in obtaining evidence. It seems to me you mistake when you say "most people look on them—the spotters—with pitying contempt." There has for a long time, existed in the minds of a large proportion of the citizens of this town, a conviction that one of the druggists, at least, if not both, was selling intoxicating liquors illegally, and that to a considerable extent. It was to ascertain whether this conviction was well-founded that these men were employed, for as we all know those who buy liquor for drink will not tell where they got it. And it seems to me that fair-minded people generally will say it was right and proper and that the detective's profession is right and honorable so long as, in this case, he does not use deception in obtaining evidence. In reply to a question by counsel for the defense, Mr. Smith, the chief witness, said frankly that if there had been any extenuating circumstances favorable to the accused, he would have so stated. This point seems to have been omitted by your reporter, and I think only fair to the "spotter" that it should be given.

J. B. CHAPIN.

A Case in Point.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

Your remarks on the use of "spotters" last week hit the case exactly. The whole thing can be best illustrated by what happened at a prominent drug store in this city on a recent Sunday. A man came in with what appeared to be a prescription and in great haste asked the clerk to put it up. The proprietor happened along and noticing the peculiar wording of the prescription, which was not in legal form, began to question the man. The whiskey, he said, was for a very sick man in another ward, and it was wanted in a great hurry. On being further questioned, he did not recall the street on which the man lived, nor his name. Asked why he did not go to the nearest drug store, he replied that the man's wife wanted him to come where he did. Asked where the doctor lived whose name appeared, he could not say, and in fact under such severe questioning he became confused, and the proprietor recognized him as a "spotter." The man heard some very plain talk from the proprietor about the sin of lying and forging, and deceitfulness generally, and left without exercising any of his "detective" qualities. If the proprietor had not happened to be in, an unsuspicious clerk might have filled the order and there would have been another case in court.

A "detective" is an honorable name, and few people would apply it to a man who resorted to such arts as these. In the Auburndale cases, if the current reports are correct, the "spotters" were equally sparing of the truth in the tales they told the druggists, and by which they succeeded in obtaining evidence. One of them pleaded in excuse that "the end justifies the means," which has been well characterized by prominent theological writers, as an argument of the Devil's own invention, and as leading to the gravest immorality. Truthfulness is as great a virtue as temperance, and to teach the young that lying is justifiable at any time is as great a crime as teaching them to drink. We have heard it gravely advanced as an argument, that men whose occupation is that of corrupting legislatures, could not be very bad men, because they did not drink rum. Are we to have a new moral dispensation, in which rum is the sole evil, and the whole scheme of morality set forth by Christ to be given up as unsuited to our day? The endorsement of the methods employed by these "spotters" looks like it.

The worst feature about catarrh is its dangerous tendency to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying the blood.

Mr. Brackett's Prohibition Record.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

Interested politicians in our city are mischievously engaged trying to convince Republican Prohibitionists that Candidate Brackett is all right on this great question which so stirs our state and nation to-day. Now I deny such statements and unhesitatingly announce, without fear of contradiction, that he is as wrong as far as can be on this question.

While a member of the legislature of Massachusetts every time that prohibition, or indeed any measure proposing more stringency in even license laws appeared, he unblushingly voted with the brewer, distiller and saloonist. During his eight years in the legislature upon twenty-seven different bills introduced to prohibit or restrict this infamous traffic in intoxicants, he did not even dodge but voted every time just as the saloonists wanted him to do. Because in Arlington where he resides he has voted no license what more has he done than distillers, saloonists and those who use their study socially have done who every year that they don't want saloons in their own town or city but want them in Boston and everywhere else. Is this fair? Isn't it supremely selfish? And this is the only Prohibition record this candidate has.

This boasted temperance man, when the local option bill, under which he has voted no license, was pending in the legislature of 1877 he voted against it by voting not to engross it. He's a heavy drinker, a temperance man, and only restrictive feature in the present license law of our State, under which now that it is a law, he would gladly sell a saloon to his home nor in his own town. This is consistency with a vengeance.

F. H. PARTRIDGE.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of the Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and after using third bottle, and am able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middleton, Decatur, Ohio, says:

"I had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Arthur Hudson's Drugstore.

One Fact

Is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

To-Night and To-Morrow Night,

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

We give two letters in regard to the trial of the Auburndale druggists, which illustrate the difference in public sentiment in regard to the use of "spotters." One side believes that any measures are justifiable when employed against illegal liquor-sellers, or that "the end justifies the means," as one of the spotters pleaded, when hard pressed by the opposing attorney, and the other that honesty in all things is the best policy. One correspondent states that no deception was used by the "detectives," as he calls them, and the other that the false stories they told the druggists about themselves and the way they established friendly relations with the druggists was deception. It is an interesting controversy and shows that people must agree about the meaning of words before they can argue with any satisfactory results. The chief object of all, however, should be to advance the cause of temperance in this city, to raise public sentiment to a more elevated plane, to cause the great majority of the people, who are outside of the law and order league, to have a higher respect for law and its strict enforcement, and if this has been done by the methods used in the case in question, then good has been accomplished. It is of little benefit to punish one or two offenders, unless it results in a greater respect for the law, and for those most active in enforcing it. The moral sense of the community must not be offended, or harm will follow. This is what makes the work of the police so salutary, in breaking up the illegal liquor selling in this city. They go about their work openly, without resort to detectives, and while they keep a strict watch over suspected places, they make no effort to tempt the dealers to violate the law, or to incriminate themselves. Public sentiment endorses their action, and it also endorses the action of the Newton Centre residents, who had a conviction that liquor was being sold illegally by a druggist. They carried their convictions to the board of aldermen, and the result was that the druggist lost his license. This seems to us much the better and more effective way, and it dispenses with the use of "spotters," against whom many otherwise sensible and honorable people have a strong prejudice.

NEXT Tuesday comes the State election, and it has been the quietest campaign that Newton ever knew. The men who are always in politics have not made much of a stir, and general apathy has seemed to control them. The prohibitionists alone have had enterprise enough to get up a rally, and the other parties have confined their efforts mainly to explanations of the workings of the new ballot law. The terms of "regular ticket," "scratchers," and so on are out of date, as every voter will have to mark up a ticket to suit himself. Some of the regular politicians are apprehensive of a general chaos, but the Newton voters will probably have no difficulty in carrying out their wishes, and the best man will of course get a majority of the votes.

The organization of a vocal society in Newton, particulars of which are stated on our first page, will fill a want which has been long felt by our music-loving city. Few cities can boast of more musical talent than it is our fortune to possess, and this talent will now have an opportunity of developing itself. Mr. Thayer, who will conduct the chorus, is well known as one of the best chorus directors in New England, and under his baton the club must reach a high artistic standard. It should be a matter of pride to every citizen of Newton to do what he can towards encouraging this plan, and we bespeak for the director a hearty response, financially and musically.

MAYOR FISHER of Waltham has vetoed the order granting a location to the Newton Street Railway Company on Newton and River streets, because the best interests of the city would not be subserved. The company still has a location on Main street to Watertown. Evidently when a street railway company plans to run through three distinct municipalities, it will have no end of trouble before matters are finally arranged, and any but a very persevering company would get discouraged over all the complications involved.

It is fortunate that the street light committee made a good contract with the Gas Company, as judging from the petitions for new lamps, they will more than have use for all their appropriation. At the rate we have gone this year it would not take long to have every street in the city brilliantly lighted. There is nothing like having a first class business man like Alderman Johnson at the head of a committee, to show how well the city's and citizen's interests can be looked after.

THE WATERTOWN ENTERPRISE is now entering on its 41th volume, and as it is some sort of an offspring of the GRAPHIC, we are glad to note its prosperity under its new management and its growth in circulation and advertising patronage. It is a very lively paper and ought to be liberally sustained by the residents of the old town across the Charles.

A special meeting of the board of aldermen will be held this evening for the purpose of confirming the election officers appointed by Mayor Burr at the last meeting of the board.

ART LOAN EXHIBITION.

SOME OF THE MANY ATTRACTIONS AT THE AUBURNDALE METHODIST CHURCH.

Gems of Art from the Old World will be exhibited at the Methodist church in Auburndale next week. This collection will offer a rare opportunity to the student of art, while in the curios there will be that to attract those to whom the pictures might not so strongly appeal. These curios represent practically every country the wide world over, notable among them being a Russian "Icon" which is to the Greek Catholic, as to sacredness, what the Crucifix is to the Roman Catholic. It is the figure of the Madonna with the child in her arms, all but the painted faces of the two and one hand of the Madonna which is thrust in to sight, being of gilt. It is set also in a gilt frame and encased in wood, and covered with glass. This sacred image has the power of performing miracles.

Among the paintings to be shown, chief stands a masterpiece by George L. Brown, kindly loaned from the private gallery of George C. Folsom, 38 Bromfield street, to whom we are also indebted for a second Krusman Van Elten, a delicious bit of Autumn scenery, and a beautiful fruit piece by E. C. Leavitt. Mr. Brown, fond as he was of Venetian scenery, painted this subject but this once, but one might wish he had painted it over and over. It is a Bird's-eye view of Venice from the Campanile, the foreground, the entrance to the Grand Canal and Santa Maria della Salute in the middle distance, the shipping and docks dimly outlined beyond these and San Giorgio and the lagoon stretching along far away, miles and miles away in the mist. The effects are Claude Lorraine, the picture is Brown's at his best, and what more can be said?

Many Newtonians will be glad of an opportunity to study the chief work of our gifted young townsman, Mr. Henry Orme Ryder of Auburndale. "Old Farm-houses in Brittany" is the title of the picture of '89 by Mr. Ryder, a student in Paris for the last three years. This picture has just come from the exposition at Chicago. The Chicago Tribune speaks of it as "exquisitely refined and delicate in treatment." The trees "against a rather pale but luminous sky are extremely lovely and poetic in effect. There is even a suggestion of Corot in the beautiful clear light and free air about them." This is high praise but the picture had already won hearty commendation from some of the best French masters, Berard, Pelouze, and Bernard, an eminent French critic, said, on its hanging in the salon: "By an American artist who shows himself to be a very skilful landscape painter." "The Old Farm-houses in Brittany" is an excellent picture, with great cleverness of execution. The coloring is excellent. Mr. Ryder shows himself to be a faithful interpreter of nature.

It came within three votes among the forty judges in the salon, of getting the coveted "Honorable Mention," and was hung in an excellent position "on the line." As a young artist Mr. Ryder has had remarkable success in selling his pictures, and has gone back to his work in France.

In the works in oils and water colors, together with etchings, by the late A. F. Bellows, lovers of true art will find a rich field of study, as also in the "Es Steint Geschieben" by Prof. O. Goldmann of the Art School of Berlin, which three years ago. A monk of mediaeval time sits among his heavy tomes. One large book rests on his knee. He has found in it perhaps some problem of doubt to which his worn forefinger is unconsciously pointed. But his face and keen eyes are fixed to the crucifix hanging by the crated window of his cell. His countenance is lighted with joy; doubt is dispelled in ecstasy of faith. One sees at first only the student and the enthusiast, but the details of the pictures are carefully painted and worthy of attention, especially the old leather bound volumes.

"Moonlight in Jersey" by Krusman van Elten, is another genuine treasure and like all his pictures a portraiture of a favored scene. On the left is a group of trees heavy with foliage against a cloudy sky through which the full moon breaks lighting up a shallow stream. A belated traveler with his dog wends his way towards a rustic bridge, beyond which is his cottage with welcoming lights in its windows, and hospitable suggestions from the smoking chimney. Duly seen in the distance against blue hills is the church spire and roofs of cottages. It is a picture full of tenderness and poetic suggestion. Mr. Van Elten's pictures are restful as well as original. Born in Holland his many honors have been received from various Academies of the Netherlands, as well as from the highest sources in this land of his adoption. His pictures are owned by royalty as well as by our own merchant princes. It is impossible more than to sample the exhibit to be furnished, but it is safe to say that seldom if ever before, has so notable a collection of genuine gems of art been seen in Newton, and the occasion truly becomes one of general and well-nigh public interest.

THE FESTIVAL OF DAYS.

The entertainment which the ladies of the Woman's Club of Newton Centre have been planning so busily for the past two months in aid of the Playground will be given in Associates Hall, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 12th, and Wednesday afternoon and evening, Nov. 13th. There will be all the attractions usually found at fairs, such as flowers, music and refreshments, but the chief feature, from which the festival takes its name, will be a series of tables for each day of the week, containing articles particularly useful on those days. The ladies of the club have prepared a dainty volume of home receipts for the Saturday table, which they will offer for sale under the attractive title, "Our Village Cook Book," and in connection with the Thursday table a Russian tea will be served. Further details next week. One thousand dollars is about all that is needed to put in order the land recently secured for the Playground, and as the benefits arising from its use will not be local, but will be shared by all the village we hope that the citizens of Newton by their presence will aid in making the Festival of Days the financial success it deserves to be.

Conservative investors will be well repaid by examining the carefully selected 7 per cent. Mortgages on Denver City Real Estate and the rich productive irrigated farms of Colorado offered by the Security Investment Co., 35 Congress street, Boston.

She had a wide circle of friends to whom she was endeared by the many loving attributes of a Christian gentlewoman.

—Another narrow escape may be recorded at the Walnut street crossing last Saturday afternoon, when a lady crossed the tracks in front of the 4.30 outward bound express. She barely succeeded in clearing the track as the train dashed by. The necessity for another gateman becomes more apparent every day, and steps should be taken at once to secure additional protection to prevent loss of life.

—Mr. W. S. Slocum was one of the speakers at the meeting of the Boston Marketmen's club. He said that he was one of those legislators at the State House last year, who, it is said, was influenced by the terrible lobby. He noticed, however, that several good measures were carried by the Representatives in spite of the lobby. The Legislature might justly go to the people for their approval on a large majority of its acts.

—The Woman's Guild met with Mrs. J. N. Allen on Central avenue, Tuesday night. There was an excellent attendance, notwithstanding the unpleasant weather, as foreign papers of special interest were to be given. The program was opened by a piano solo by Mrs. W. F. Kimball, reports by the secretary, Mrs. Chaloner, Mrs. Geo. Cooke, the treasurer, and Mrs. Allen, chairman of the charitable committee; Mrs. Sylvester then gave a written paper on the “Battlefield of Gettysburg.” Mrs. Noyes followed with a song of “The Season,” charmingly rendered; then came the much anticipated pleasure of the papers by Mrs. George W. Morse and Mrs. W. F. Richards. Mrs. Morse has spent so much time in Europe and her observations are so keen and comprehensive that her paper on “Life in Italy” was very clearly drawn, as, indeed, any phase she had chosen to present would have been. She gave more especially a glimpse of the common people; the peasant, priest and soldier, making the picture of the Italian people, groupings, but having no time to devote to the literature of the country, which it is hoped she may be induced to do another time. Mrs. Richards gave a pleasing account of recent travels in the Sandwich Islands, which not only from the able manner in which it was told but by the accompanying illustrations was made very interesting. The next paper was given by Mrs. Nov. 12th. The Guild fair occurs Nov. 20th and 21st, Wednesday and Thursday.

—Charles Murphy, the 6-year old son of Charles Murphy, residing on Murray street, was the principal in an unfortunate accident last Sunday afternoon. It is the old story of a boy and a revolver in which the little fellow narrowly escaped death. It seems that the Murphy boy and a companion, Thomas Alfred, aged 15 years, were playing in a shed in the rear of the house of Alfred's parents on Murray street. Alfred had a revolver and was amusing himself firing it off, with the idea of sending the bullet through the exterior wall of the shed. A cartridge discharged from the revolver, and the bullet, passing through the wall, struck the Murphy boy in the head. The bullet entered just over the right eye and passed out through the head. When Alfred discovered the result of his foolish act, he was badly frightened. His father, who was attracted to the scene of the shooting by the outcries, sent his son at once for Dr. Hunt, but the boy was so unwell that he was consequently failed to get to the physician. He secured the pistol and went to Burrough's pond where he threw it into the water, according to his usual habit. In the meantime, Dr. Woodman was summoned and attended the little sufferer at his parents' house, where he had been taken immediately after the accident. The wound was a serious one, but will not, it is thought, result fatally, as the present condition of the Murphy boy gives excellent hope of his ultimate recovery. The serious nature of the accident should be a warning to boys who aspire to tinker with firearms, the use of which in their ignorance may result in death and the anguish attending the loss of life.

According to the statement made by the Manning boys, they had been in the habit of stealing doves, and a few evenings since entered the office of Capt. Baker at Auburndale in a spirit of mischief. —The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Ayer, Prince street, was the scene of a fashionable gathering Tuesday evening upon the occasion of the wedding reception. Mr. and Mrs. Ayer have just returned from Europe, where they spent their honeymoon, and during their absence a beautiful new house, designed by Mr. Ayer, has been completed. The event partook, therefore, somewhat of the character of a house warming. The Ayer dwelling is one of the finest and most costly in this locality. The interior treatment is very tasteful and effective. The upper rooms are arranged in suites, finished in light shades and tints, with furniture and decorations of the prevailing colors. The parlors and drawing rooms are tastefully furnished. The staircases are of massive polished oak, daintily carved from the work of “Prophesies.”

Dumplings with Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be dainty and wholesome, and may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

RECIPE.—One quart of flour; thoroughly mix with three teaspoons of Royal Baking Powder and a small teaspoon of salt; rub in a piece of butter or lard the size of an egg, and then add one large potato, grated in the flour; after the butter is well mixed, stir in milk and knead to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; break off pieces of dough large enough to close over four quarters of an apple (or other fruit as desired) without rolling, and lay in an oiled tin (steamer) and steam until the fruit is tender. Bake if preferred.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes more economical. Royal Baking Powder is specially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.

The Methodist Church Celebrates its Anniversary.

Report of the Exercises and Full Text of Mr. Woods' Paper.

A most delightful occasion was the celebration by the Centre street Methodist church last Wednesday evening, Oct. 30 of its 25th anniversary. The six original members still living and eight of its twelve former pastors were present, with former members from the Newton Centre, Newtonville, Auburndale and Watertown Methodist churches, making with the home people a congregation of over two hundred. After a pleasant hour of social greeting and renewing acquaintance, the pastor, Rev. Dr. McKown, extended in behalf of the church a cordial welcome to all, and introduced Mr. Edwin W. Gay, one of the original members and president of the board of trustees, as chairman of the evening, who called on Rev. Dr. W. R. Clark to offer prayer. A bountiful and elegant supper was served in the gallery which has been lately transformed into a ladies' parlor and dining-room, adding greatly to the conveniences of the church. Mr. H. J. Woods, historiographer of the church, read a carefully prepared and well-written sketch of its history from the first, recording as note-worthy that there had never been a discord in the society. Speeches from former pastors and members, interspersed with fine music by the church quartet, followed. Mrs. Rogers, Huntington and Gould, and Revs. Leonard and Nichols, and Hon. Alden Speare giving interesting reminiscences and offering congratulations in words tender, affectionate and humorous.

Rev. Dr. G. W. Shinn of the Episcopal church offered fraternal greetings. Rev. Drs. Calkins of the Congregational church and Spaulding of the Unitarian were also present. A charming characteristic letter from Dr. Studley was read; the one regret of the evening being that Dr. Fred Woods and Rev. Samuel Jackson, former pastors, were obliged to leave for the train before they were reached in the call for speakers in the order of the pastorate. It was a delightful gathering, full of Christian joy and fellowship, and will long be a pleasant remembrance to this happy church. Following is Mr. H. J. Woods' sketch of the church:

Twenty-five years to a young person looking forward seems a long time, but to some of us old "young" people looking backward, it seems but as yesterday when it is past and as a watch in the night.

In the beginning of the year 1860 there was but one Methodist church in Newton and all the Methodists in the town were divided between the church at Upper Falls and at Watertown. There had been a class here held in the house of Bro. Gay, father of our Bro. E. W. Gay, corner of Pearl and Bacon streets, and also at Newtonville, and in the year 1860 the Newtonville church was organized. The first record of a movement to organize a society here was after class meeting Nov. 10, 1863, when there were present Bro. Priest, Thrall, Mosher, Paine, Trowbridge and Gay, and a committee was appointed, consisting of Bros. Skinner, Priest, Gay and Thrall, to see about hiring Union Hall, where Cole's block now stands, which was occupied by the Baptist society, who were building their church corner of Washington and Hovey streets. At another meeting, after class meeting, Dec. 8, 1863, being present Bros. Skinner, Thrall, Priest, Mosher, Paine, Trowbridge, Sanders and Gay, and Sisters Gay, Mosher, Toomey and Trowbridge, the committee reported that the hall could be obtained about the first of February, or as soon as the Baptist move out, for $75 for the first year, and light and fuel would cost about as much more, and Dr. Cobleigh, editor of Zion's Herald, could probably be engaged to supply the pulpit for $700. They had received subscriptions amounting to $700 which could easily be increased to $850 or $900 if necessary. After a long discussion as to the ability of the church at Watertown to lose so many members and so much financial strength without seriously crippling the church, it was voted "That the cause of Christ and Methodism called for a church at Newton Corner and it was deemed prudent and best that a society be formed if the consent of the New England Conference could be obtained," all voting in the affirmative except one who did not vote at all. Following this there was a conference between the Newtonville and Watertown churches, when Dr. Sargent, Presiding Elder of Lynn district, Rev. H. Baker, Rev. J. L. Hanford, D. L. Hucks, T. Priest and A. F. Gay were present. The Presiding Elder's decision was given adversely and the meeting adjourned.

It is not much wonder that the church at Watertown should oppose the movement, as the church at Newtonville was only three years old and they could ill spare such men as formed the nucleus of this church movement, and as Dr. Sargent truly said it would leave three very weak churches, but the young society felt the moving of the spirit of colonization strongly and decided to consult Dr. Cobleigh, who in turn recommended a consultation with Dr. Haskall, Presiding Elder of Boston district, who appointed a meeting with the committee at Zion's Herald office Jan. 4, 1864, and as a result of this meeting he advised them to take letters from the Watertown church and proceed at once to organize a society. About this time Bros. T. Priest and A. F. Gay were appointed a committee to petition the Annual Conference of which the following is a copy: "We, the undersigned, residents at Newton Corner, members of the M. E. church, being desirous of establishing a Methodist society in this place and having secured subscriptions to the amount of $600, and having made suitable provision for an audience room, respectfully request that Newton Corner may become a regular station in the N. E. Conference of the Methodist church and that a minister may be appointed to this place the ensuing year," and then follow five reasons why the request is made. Bros. Thrall, Priest and Gay were appointed to attend conference and present the petition. As a result Newton Corner became a regular station and Rev. J. C. Cromach stationed here.

The first service was held in the hall April 17, 1864, Rev. Mr. Cromach preaching. The society was organized April 21, 1864, Rev. Dr. Sargent, Presiding Elder of Lynn district, presiding, and the pastor acting as secretary, a large representation of the church being present. The following names, whose letters had been received from the Watertown church, were read, viz.: John Fisk, Martha A. Gay, Aaron Gay, Edwin W. Gay, E. W. Mosher, Olivia Mosher, Mary M. Mosher, Thurston Priest, Maria A. Priest, James Skinner, Mary A. Skinner, Henry Thrall, Minerva Thrall, F. M. Trowbridge, Abbie A. Trowbridge, Abram Thomas and Arcthusa Thomas. Also as probationers, Emily J. Thrall, Maria L. Thrall and Minerva J. Thrall. Hannah P. Mosher was received by letter from New Portland, Nova Scotia; Mrs. Mable C. Cromach from Ipswich and Jediah T. and Winnette Paine from Truro, Providence Conference. Thurston Priest, A. F. Gay, Henry Thrall, E. M. Mosher, Abram Thomas were elected stewards, A. F. Gay clerk and treasurer, and Thurston Priest appointed class leader. Henry Thrall was elected superintendent of the Sabbath school and the new ship was successfully launched. Number of members, 21; probationers, 3; total, 24. Of this 24, six now remain with us: E. W. Gay, J. T. Paine, Mrs. A. A. Trowbridge, Mrs. Olivia Mosher, Mrs. Arcthusa Thomas and Mrs. D. C. Morgan, then Miss Mary M. Mosher.

For some reason not recorded Rev. Mr. Cromach remained only until October and Rev. G. W. Lewis, a recent transfer from the Cincinnati Conference, was appointed to the place, which he held for the remainder of the year and the two following years. "A man of fine ability and his pulpit talent commanded universal respect," is the record and we judge the young society was fairly prosperous, as at the close of his pastorate there were 39 members and 10 probationers, total, 49. The hall where services were first held being sold, an invitation from the Unitarian society was accepted to occupy their church for a part of each Sabbath and when it was no longer convenient for them to do this a similar invitation was accepted from the Baptist society, service being held in the afternoon, the Baptists holding morning and evening services. During the most of the year no meetings were held during the week except class meeting at a private house. For use of church in the afternoon $200 a year was paid, beside a bonus to the sexton. (The secretary saying he thought it proper this fact be put on record.)

April, 1867, Rev. C. S. Rogers was appointed to this charge, which he held for the remainder of the year, but to some of us old "young" people looking backward, it seems but as yesterday when it is past and as a watch in the night. We are often told that Newton is not a fruitful field for Methodism, but for our encouragement let us for a few minutes compare the past with the present. In 1860 the town had a population of 8382 and our church 106 members and probationers, almost exactly one member to eighty of the population. The city now has a population of perhaps certainly not over 24,000, and we have as reported in our last minutes 655, or one in about 37 of the population; so while the city has increased about three fold we have increased over six fold. In what goes to make our real strength the gain is still more marked. Then we paid for preacher's salary and rent $775.00, last year $825.00; then we raised for missions $21.75, last year $1812.00; then for all our benevolences $70.55, last year $3,094; total for all purposes then $845.55, last year $11,344. In view of all this we may well thank God and take courage. With the mother church at Watertown in a prosperous condition, we the daughter larger than ever before, and the grand daughter at the Centre already looking over our heads as young ladies often do we can well leave the things behind and reaching forth into the things which are before, press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

THE FORUM.

The Forum is remarkable for the number of articles by prominent men, beginning with American Rights in Behring Sea, by President J. B. Angell, of the University of Michigan; Public Opinion and the Civil Service, by E. L. Godkin, editor of the New York Evening Post, who describes the puzzling stage in the agitation for reform, both political parties preaching it and neither heartily practising it. He declares an advance of the complete reform or the fatal degradation of the government inevitable, and points out the deep meaning of the agitation; Modern Claims upon the Pulpit, by the Very Rev. F. W. Farrar, Archdeacon of Westminster; The Owners of the United States, by Thomas G. Sherman, the New York statistician. This article tells the wealth of each of the 70 richest Americans—who practically own the United States; Industrial Co-operation in England, by Prof. F. G. Peabody, of Harvard. He explains why co-operation has not yet succeeded in the United States; Municipal Control of Gas Works, by Bronson C. Keeler, of St. Louis; The Cost of Universities, by President David J. Hill; Wendell Phillips as an Orator, by Rev. Carlos Martyn, of New York; Requirements of National Defense, by Adj.-Gen. J. C. Kelton, of the United States Army; The Domain of Romance, by Maurice Thompson; Types of American Women, by Prof. H. H. Boyesen, of Columbia College.

SCRIBNER'S.

Scriner's Magazine for November contains a third African paper—a valuable addition to the notable papers of Professor Henry Drummond and Joseph Thomson; a discussion of some startling problems in International Law affecting the Mexican Army, in which Frederic Remington illustrates with fifteen drawings (from life),—Hon. Ricardo Becerra—on "The Republic of Columbia," giving a trustworthy account of the resources and the present social, economic, and political state of Columbia. Lafcadio Hearn tells what he saw and heard and felt and dreamed and mused upon in "Grand Anse." Many rare portraits of actors give added value to a paper by Laurence Hutton on "A Century of Hamlet," reviewing the history of the tragedy in America. Prof. Charles Eliot Newton tells the wonderful story of "The Building of the Cathedral at Chartres." W. Hamilton Gibson identifies for his readers the notes in "the choral of the birds" that one hears on a perfect day in early June. Joseph Pennell describes with many illustrations the old minster city of "York." Thomas W. Knox, Lucy C. Lillie, and John Elliott Curran contribute short stories, and Charles Dudley Warner concludes his bright novel of contemporary American life, "A Little Journey in the World." Wordsworth's sonnet, "The River Duddon—The Stepping Stones," is illustrated by Alfred Parsons; and Zadel Barnes Gustafson and B. R. Bulkeley contribute respectively a poem. In the editorial department, Charles Dudley Warner arranges last summer; George William Curtis speaks of what New England has done. William Dean Howells comments on an out-spoken essay concerning fiction by Senor Valdes, and takes up a strong position in regard to the nature and function of the novel in modern life.

THE ATLANTIC.

"Unless we can concentrate legislative leadership we shall suffer something like national paralysis. We have no one in Congress who stands for the nation, . . . and so management and combination must be effected in the dark areas given the place that should be held by centred and responsible leadership in the focus of the national gaze." This is the key-note of the paper by Mr. Woodrow Wilson, on the "Character of Democracy in the United States," which opens the Atlantic Monthly for November, and it is an excellent specimen of the kind of consideration of politics which makes the Atlantic so particularly valuable to thoughtful persons. Another political paper, called "The French-in-Canada," is contributed by Mr. Eben Greenough Scott. Artists and amateurs will be interested in "Allston and his Unfinished Picture,"—passages from the Journal of Mr. Richard H. Dana, and "Materials for Landscape Art in America," by Charles H. Moore, of Harvard University. Mr. James's "Fragile Muse," Mr. Byrner's serial, and the short story called "The First Mayor," by Octave Thanet, form the fiction of the number and there are, also, a half-literary, half-historical article on "Some Romances of the Revolution" (a consideration of William Gilmore Simms' novels), a paper on "The Nieces of Mazzini," and a most amusing and lively sketch on "Marie Bashkirtseff," which gives a pretty picture of this impressionable, and in a certain sense typical, "daughter of Gaul." Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

THE OVERLAND.

Some interesting reminiscences of the early editors of California written by James O'Meara, will appear in the Overland Monthly for November; Charles Warren Toddard has a paper of early life in Hawaii that will be read with much interest; "In the Prime of the Buffalo," an account of a buffalo hunt in the "fifties" by J. M. Baltimore of the Portland Oregonian will appear, and a story by Flora Haines Loughhead, said to be in her brightest vein, and illustrated with original sketches by a young artist of San Francisco.

THE NEW CHURCH.

THE FIRST LECTURE IN REV. MR. WORCESTER'S COURSE.

The first lecture of a course was delivered by Rev. John Worcester at the New Jerusalem Church, Highland avenue, Newtonville, last Sunday evening, upon the subject of the New Church. As to its outward organization; this was described as a small body, chiefly in America and Great Britain, devoted to the promulgation of certain doctrines which it believes will be of immense value in the future development of a true spiritual Christianity.

The first of these doctrines contains a rational interpretation of the Divine Trinity. The New Church is taught that the Heavenly Father's love for saving men was the life of the Lord Jesus, that he was like other men as to his inheritance from the mother, and in every respect except that the Divine Spirit rested in him without measure, that is, without the limiting medium of a human father. In every child the spirit of life limited by his father, gives it zeal to know, to understand, and to do; and at length comes forth in many powers like those of its father. In the Lord this was a Divine zeal for knowing and understanding, and for doing the works of the Infinite love. This was in conflict with the finite and perverse inheritance from the mother, and was continually overcoming and putting off its imperfections or limitations. The passion of the cross was the laying down of the last remnant of the natural life, that he might receive and bring forth the Divine life in absolute perfection and fullness; and from that time the Father and He were one, as soul and body are one man.

The Holy Spirit is not a separate person from the Lord. He breathed on the disciples, saying, "receive ye the Holy Spirit." It is therefore his own spirit, or himself as he is received by men. And so the Divine Trinity is a trine in the one person of our Lord Jesus Christ.

So in regard to the Sacred Scriptures: the doctrine recognizes to the full the limitations of the letter, taken as it is in large part from the ideas and experiences of ignorant men. And yet it teaches that it was taken by the spirit of God; and so selected and framed that, besides the beautiful and essential lessons of the literal sense, in every part it is like a parable teaching a lesson of Divine and heavenly things, in most places wholly unlike the story of the letter. The story of the creation treats of the formation of a heavenly spirit in man. The history of the descendants of Abraham contains another history of the development of a spiritual church. The Levitical law of sacrifices contains a Christian law of true spiritual worship of the Lord.

The teachings of the New Church in regard to the spiritual world were spoken of as important in many ways, but as not the essentials of the church—which consist in a true knowledge of the Lord, and a Christian life in his precepts. Swedenborg described heaven as a place in the spiritual world more than a century ago, which are an adequate cause for the wonderful changes that have since followed in the realm of human thought, for which no other sufficient cause has ever been suggested. All intelligent observers see that the change in the mental atmosphere is so great that nobody teaches now what everybody taught a hundred years ago. But while it is true, that very much that has been destroyed, there is a general lament that there is so little positive rebuilding; that there is so little positive knowledge of God, of the Divine in the Scriptures, of the life after death. Men forget that it never was promised that the City of God should spring up from the earth, but that it should come down from God out of Heaven. They believe practically that such a revelation from God is impossible. The New Church, however, says it is possible, and has already been given; and that it only awaits the reception by men in heart and life, to fulfil the glorious promise of the apocalyptic vision.

The subject of the lecture next Sunday evening was announced as the Story of the Creation, in Genesis.

SMOKELESS POWDERS.

Rapidly Coming Into Use Both for Small Arms and Artillery.

While the tremendous charges of great bodies of cavalry undoubtedly formed a leading feature of the late German maneuvers, suggesting how much is expected of mounted troops in the future, yet upon the whole the most important result effected was the demonstration of the great effectiveness of the so called smokeless and noiseless powder. It is not too much to say that the final maneuvers at Hanover, in which the Tenth corps, using smokeless cartridges, defeated the Seventh corps, provided with the ordinary black powder, shows that the new compound is a necessity for warfare hereafter. It was found that the Tenth corps almost held the Seventh at its mercy, since it could maneuver alike in front and on the flank of its opponent without allowing the latter to properly judge of the firing distances from sound or smoke, both being so slight.

To a limited extent the action of smokeless powder has become known through experiments with the new repeating arms, and also with artillery. Earlier in the year, during the maneuvers of the artillery brigade of the guards in East Prussia, two regiments, one consisting of eleven and the other of eight batteries, practiced all day long with the nearly smokeless powder, firing projectiles of different caliber. It produced at each shot "a ball of black smoke about three feet in diameter, which quickly disappeared." The accounts show that the powder left so little residue in the bore that, instead of cleaning it out after every shot, it was only necessary to pass a rag through it now and then.

In Italy recent experiments with the same or equivalent powder showed practically the same results. The new German powders made by the united Rhine and Westphalian factories are also highly satisfactory in point of initial velocity and moderate pressures.

The first general information obtained in regard to the smokeless powders was in connection with the Lebel rifle, the new small caliber repeating arm of the French, which created such an excitement a few years ago, and practically dictated reconstruction to small arms throughout Europe. At that time neither the Austrian Mannlicher rifle nor the German repeater used smokeless powder. It is understood, of course, that the words "smokeless" and "noiseless" are used in a comparative sense, as there is some noise and some smoke in nearly all these powders. It has been said, however, that the report of a single Lebel rifle can not be heard at a distance of more than twenty or thirty yards; that it may be said to make no smoke, and that the recoil is of no consequence whatever. The powder is said to be a secret compound of gun cotton and cullodion, and its exact composition is perhaps the only secret now remaining in regard to the Lebel rifle.

The Germans began the use of the Duttinhofer semi-smokeless powder, and have also made imitations of the French powder as nearly as it can be found out. The Russians have tried a new powder, made by the Ochotenski factory, in imitation of the Duttinhofer, and its manufacturers insist that it is superior to the latter in ballistic properties; that it has a little higher initial velocity, weight for weight, with less pressure on the bore. This may be the reason why the Russians have come to the use of the small caliber, which could only have the required efficiency with one of the new compounds, as otherwise the bore would foul too rapidly.

The English also have obtained a smokeless and noiseless powder, invented by the well known artillery, Capt. Noble, of the Elswick works, at Newcastle-upon-Tyne. A British military authority says that its use has almost been decided upon, both for small arms and for machine and quick firing guns.

It speaks of the powder as "a curious, grayish looking material, in long threads or a whipcordlike form, presumably from the shape it assumes under hydraulic pressure. Its action is most startling. At 300 yards' range not a sound is heard when a volley is fired with it, and only a faint haze arises, which is almost imperceptible, while a shower of bullets is seen to fall upon the targets, an effect produced seemingly without a cause." Careful experiments will be made with it at Lydd. In their quick firing guns the British at Shoeburyness have used the Chilworth smokeless powder with great effect, obtaining a very high initial velocity.

In rapid fire cannon, as in magazine small arms, the value of smokeless powders is obvious, because the peculiar advantages of these weapons might otherwise be largely counterbalanced by smoke.

Of all the new powders Schultze's is perhaps the best known. Nearly or quite all appear to depend on the union of nitrous compounds of some sort with other substances. Some will not keep in all climates, and some give out an unendurable odor. Their introduction will perhaps call for some new studies in tactics, as certain movements now depending on the cover of smoke can not hereafter rely on this protecting mantle. But just at present the tactical considerations seem to be less important to our own country than the procuring of powders as efficient as the new ones which are finding favor in Europe.—Washington Special.

Stripping the Ocean Greyhounds.

The recent order of the British admiralty directing that all the subsidized merchant steamers intended for use in time of war shall strip themselves of yards has been complied with by all the subsidized vessels sailing out of New York. Not only the British vessels, but those of other nations, are accepting the new order of things, and all appearances point to the doing away with spars of all descriptions aboard the great liners. The vessels entering the port of New York coming under the recent order of the British admiralty belong to the White Star, Cunard and Inman lines.—Philadelphia Times.

The Old Love Was Best.

John Keel, who lives on the edge of Tennessee, not far from Hopkinsville, Ky., courted pretty Lucy Walker, a neighbor's daughter, and married her in 1846.

The couple lived together for thirty years and raised a family of four children. All the children married and moved away. The old couple became lonely, and they got a young lady named Jane Hunter to come and live with them.

Miss Hunter was about 20, bright and attractive. It was soon evident that Mr. Walker was much attached to young Miss Hunter. His wife grew jealous and accused him of falling in love with the girl. He frankly admitted it and said he would marry her if he did not have a wife already.

Mrs. Walker left her husband and soon afterward obtained a divorce. The old man and the young woman were then married and came over the line into this country to live.

They bought a farm about three miles from here, says a Hopkinsville special, and lived together apparently very happy for twelve years. At the end of that time they disagreed and separated, the second Mrs. Keel, like the first, obtaining a divorce. The old man went back to Tennessee, where the wife of his youth had remained faithful and alone.

His heart turned again toward her when they met, and he proposed that they be remarried. She agreed. Last Wednesday the wedding occurred, and they began life where they were first married, forty-three years ago.

The Corpse Ran Away.

A Baltimore dispatch to The Chicago Herald says: A telephone message to the Central station last night conveyed the information that a man had been killed in the Baltimore and Potomac tunnel, and requested the presence of a coroner at Union station, whence the body had been taken. The corpse was covered with mud and dirt and was stiff and rigid. Police Sergt. Schultz was becoming impatient over the non-arrival of the coroner, and walked to the door to see whether he was coming. When he returned, the bench was vacant and the corpse was walking out of the door. The sergeant started after his subject, but the latter, seeing him coming, made haste to escape. Finally the policeman reached him and insisted on his returning until the coroner should arrive, but the man refused in the most positive manner to let a coroner go to work on him. He was a live man and therefore not under that official's jurisdiction. The sergeant came to the same conclusion and allowed the corpse to go. It was afterwards ascertained that the man's name is James Lacy, and that he fell from a freight train and lost consciousness for almost an hour. He had been temporarily paralyzed by the shock.

Rapid Railroad Construction.

An invention which promises to revolutionize the present method of railroad construction was put to a practical test recently by George Roberts, the inventor, in the presence of about three hundred railroad experts. The machine worked beyond the expectations of the inventor, the men laying at the rate of two and one-half miles of track per day, and twelve men doing the work of seventy-five by the old way. It handled ties and rails of the heaviest kind—used in constructing mountain roads—with the greatest ease, placing them rapidly and accurately in position. The machine is so constructed that it can be used on any ordinary flat car. All construction material is moved on rollers from the rear to the front, where the machine takes up the rails and ties, laying them very rapidly on a steep and difficult grade. Its great success has caused the Northern Pacific to secure the use of the first machine, and the inventor is now arranging for building two more machines to cost $1,200, and the inventor receives a royalty of $50 per mile.—New York Telegram.

Electrical Water Power.

If the project relating to a new canal at Rheinfelden, Germany, be carried out an enormous stimulus will be given to electrical engineering, since the power rendered available through the construction of this canal will amount to not less than 11,000 horse power, and will have to be transmitted electrically to Basel, Sackingen and other distant places. The plans are ready, the capital is available, but the concession has not yet been obtained. If it is obtained in time work will begin in the coming autumn, and the whole undertaking will be completed in 1891. The length of the canal is 14 miles; its width, 165 feet, and there will be erected a turbine house containing twenty-three turbines, each of 750 horse power. Each turbine will drive its own generator. The pressure adopted will be sufficiently high to enable the distribution of power to be effected economically within a distance of fifteen miles. The power of the turbines being 17,000 horse power, a total of 11,000 horse power will be available to the consumers.—Exchange.

A New Article of Commerce.

A few weeks ago Mr. Iderton, of this city, left for a visit among relatives in England. Mr. Campion, the real estate man, gave him a horned toad to present with his compliments to a brother of Mr. Sellers, his partner. A letter just received from Mr. Iderton says that he has not only had a jolly good time, but thinks he has discovered a new source of revenue for San Diego county, and especially for his friend Campion. He found Mr. Sellers' brother at Nottingham and presented him with the horned toad, which was a great curiosity in that country. To possess the handsome "varmint" became the desire of several of Sellers' friends, and a lively bidding ensued, and the result was that Sellers disposed of it for the snug sum of £10—$50—and writes for more toads. Campion says that until real estate picks up he will go into the toad business, and he has about 500 of the product stored, and expects to start a large shipment of English gold toward San Diego in the near future.—San Diego (Cal.) Union.

WOMEN AT OXFORD.

What Has Been Done in the Past Ten Years for Their Benefit.

The association for the higher education of women in Oxford has just celebrated its tenth year of organization, and is well pleased with the progress made. There are now three halls for women students in Oxford—Lady Margaret, Somerville and St. Hugh's. The life at the different halls is the same in its broad outlines, although each one has its special characteristics. Each student has one room, which is used at night for a sleeping room and in the daytime for a sitting room and study. The daily routine of life at the college begins with the chapel bell at 8 o'clock; breakfast at quarter past 8. Students linger in the library to chat and read the daily papers for half an hour or so after breakfast, but by 9:30 o'clock most of them have gone off to read in their rooms, or to lectures in the town.

These are given either at the rooms of the association for women's education, or at the men's colleges. The examinations at Oxford are known as "pass," or "honors." The standard of the former is estimated to correspond with that of "moderation." The "honors" examinations either aim at a standard analogous to the men's honor examinations—as in the case of literature and modern languages—or are identical with them, as in the case of the classical, mathematical, natural science and modern history schools. Most of the teaching for the "pass" examinations and for the two first "honor" schools is given by university lecturers and tutors at the association rooms. For the last four named "honor" examinations, the women students attend lectures at the men's colleges, and read privately with university tutors. Honor students are admitted to the Bodleian library.

Lunch at the halls is an informal meal, which begins at 1 o'clock. The afternoon is mostly devoted to walks, tennis, boating on the Irwell, and other amusements. Four o'clock is tea time, and the festive time of the day in the halls. Tea parties are frequent, and guests come from without as well from within the halls. At such entertainments "shop" is tabooed by etiquette. The time between tea and dinner is given to work. Another half an hour after dinner is devoted to social purposes; after that comes evening prayers, and work begins again, to be carried on for a period long or short, according to the discretion of each student. Cocoa parties at 10 o'clock is a form of dissipation that finds favor with the Oxford girls. The students at the different halls meet at lectures, and have a debating society which holds fortnightly discussions alternately at Somerville and Lady Margaret halls. There is also a tennis match between them every term. Each hall has its own societies—literary, musical, political and historical.—Boston Traveler.

A Dog That Prints a Paper.

Printing presses are usually run in this country by steam power, by water power, electric motors, and by main strength and awkwardness; but the machine that grinds out The Plain City Dealer is run by dog power. A large wheel about ten feet in diameter and about two feet in width is connected with the drive wheel of the press by means of a belt. Cleats are placed about a foot apart on the inside of the wheel, where "Joe," the journalistic dog, walks his weary round and thus causes the wheel to revolve. Joe has run the press for about five years, and has faithfully earned his hash every week. It is now about time for him to die and go where good dogs always go, and the proprietor of The Dealer is casting around for another canine. Part of Joe is shepherd and the rest is common, every day dog.—Columbus Evening Post.

The Old Commodore.

Commodore Vanderbilt made $100,000,000, beginning with no money and very little education. He could write his name, and that was about the extent of his scholastic acquirements. His name, which was good for any amount on a check, was not much to look at. He could not pronounce the letter V, and always called himself Wanderbilt. A new clerk at the postoffice greatly annoyed him by looking for his letters under the W's. "Don't look among the W's; look among the V's," said the millionaire. At the age of 80 the commodore was a match for the whole street. He opened all his own letters, dictated his answers on the margin; spent an hour in transacting business involving many millions, and then went to his stables. He was very proud of his horses, and liked to lead the road—and he generally did.—Exchange.

A Magnetic Well.

The Artesian well in Cordele, Ia., is a wonder. After going down into the earth for about 450 feet, the contractors struck what was seemingly a strata rock of quicksand. Leaving the pipes all in the well over night, they found the next morning that all the piping was heavily charged with magnetism. A small nail laid on the side of the pipe will not fall off. The needle on a surveyor's compass is attracted by this current at least ten feet from the mouth of the well. The magnetic current is so strong that the power of the engine, together with all the pipes they have been able to put on the piping, will not draw it from the well.—Chicago Herald.

Smallest Baby in Connecticut.

Christopher C. Andel is the father of the smallest mite of humanity in New Haven, and in all probability, in the state. His only child is a baby boy that is 17 days old, and weighs two pounds and five ounces. The boy is about eleven inches long, but very thin. His arm is about twice as thick as the stem of a clay pipe, and his fingers are so slender that it is difficult to institute a comparison. At birth the babe weighed only one pound and twelve ounces. Mr. Andel is a contractor at Mallory, Wheeler & Co.'s lock shop, and is a good sized man. His wife is below the average size, but is a strong and hearty woman.—Hartford Times.

WHAT THE GOOSE BONE SAYS.

It Will Be an Open Winter, If There's Any Truth in the Bone's Story.

Henry Stillman, of Woodstock, is the goose bone prophet of eastern Connecticut. He gets his bone from a goose that is hatched in May, and when Henry Stillman is bending over his goose bone to read the future each fall all Windham county is hushed, and it hearkens to the prophecy. Wiggins and De Voe, and even Uncle Daboll, of Groton, who has been getting out "almanacks" yearly for the past 117 years, may do very well fumbling with the weather during the rest of the year, but when the first fall wind comes piping over the hills, and the "frosts" is on the punkin," then Henry Stillman sits down with the goose bone, and something happens that is "tolerably sartin."

Mr. Stillman consulted the bone last week, and his prediction has been published orally all over the eastern end of the state. Prediction is a weak, narrow word to apply to the proclamation, for Mr. Stillman doesn't predict; he determines. It is going to be an open winter, he says, and "that settles it," says Windham county.

The magic bone, hanging by the side of Mr. Stillman's kitchen chimney, and by which he ciphers out the season, shows a row of dots around its shank, and those dots announce what the temperature is going to be. The darker the spots the colder the weather is the reading of the bone. Then there are circular marks which divide the bone into the three winter months, December occupying the space between the first partitions. January the next apartment and February the remaining one. Mild, regular weather will prevail in all the months, and it will be milder than even that of last winter. There will be few days on which running water will freeze. The coldest weather will be in the latter half of January, when there will be some frosts of considerable severity.

"Near the point of the bone," says the seer, "is a marked discoloration, indicating that the first day of winter will give decided intimation of the season's change." Christmas will be a green one, but it will be wet and cold. January will step in warm and sunny, but soon it will turn cold, though not very cold. The coldest day will be Jan. 27. There is going to be a "reg'lar old time Jiniwary thaw," and February will have a "thaw spell," too. October will be a cold, disagreeable month, with heavy rains and snows. There will be an early spring, but February will melt into March in a disastrous thaw, in which the features will be swollen mountain streams and terrible floods.

Faith in the goose bone is invincible in this part of the state, and each year many farmers are wont to take one from the May goose, and it is dried and hung in the front hall or against the chimney in the kitchen. There it dangles until spring in the next year. The best bone is taken from a goose that has a trace of wild blood in its veins. But not every one can read a goose bone as Henry Stillman is able to do it.—Willimantic (Conn.) Letter.

Natural Gas.

Natural gas as a fuel has been in use about fifteen years. There are now employed in its transmission for fuel purposes 27,350 miles of pipe mains. In Pittsburg alone there are 500 miles, and the consumption of gas there represents an annual consumption of 700,000 tons of coal. The head of a Pittsburg gas and oil firm said recently, during a discussion of this question: "Eastern people are still afraid that natural gas will play out. So far there is no indication of it, though when we first commenced to use it in Pittsburg four or five years ago—that is, using it generally—there were many people who did not look for it to last more than six months or a year. Now that it has been in general use for several years and the supply keeps right up, there is not much apprehension at home, but I meet it everywhere outside. The science of natural gas is not fully understood yet, and no one can tell how long it will last."—Exchange.

Child, Wife, Mother and Widow.

About a year ago Joseph Bloedel, a 17-year-old boy, of Huntington, W. Va., ran away with Agnes Jarvis, aged 11, the daughter of a well-to-do South Carolina farmer. Agnes, being unusually large for a girl of her age, and seeming older, consequently, than she really was, had no difficulty in prevailing upon a minister to unite her in marriage to her boy lover. Since then they have lived together happily until last Friday, when Joseph died, very unexpectedly, of typhoid fever, just as his child wife was giving birth to a girl baby. And so, before she is quite 12 years of age, Agnes Bloedel is wife, mother and widow, all three. A remarkable occurrence, surely.—Exchange.

Cutting Down Expenses.

The czar has been cutting down family expenses at a great rate lately. The grand dukes and grand duchesses who have lost a third of their incomes under the new dispensation are in an awful funk about it. Poverty stares them in the face. They will be forced to keep less establishments, to drop less fortunes at cards, and to forego the joy of strewing emeralds and diamonds at the feet of favorite ballet dancers and prima donnas. It is going to be a very hard winter in Russia's toploftiest social circles, but the czar had to economize in state expenses in order to keep the army of nihilists at bay. It is expensive work preventing assassination.—Boston Herald.

Just Like Human Beings.

A Canadian farmer named Woodtree went into the stall the other day to feed his old horse, and was so bitten that his life is despaired of. He had owned the horse nineteen years, and had never known him to even show his teeth before. Horses are just like human beings in many respects. You may get along with a man all right for twenty years, and then get knocked down for joking him about the color of his nose.—Detroit Free Press.

She Popped the Question.

Judge Burr performed a marriage ceremony of a rather remarkable character. The groom was Horace Warner, aged 21 years, and the bride Mrs. Annie Brown, a widow of 55. The bride has been living with her daughter and son-in-law, John Gibbons, on a farm in Dakota county, and the groom has been employed by Gibbons as a farm hand. Gibbons and his mother-in-law, to whom the farm belonged, were wont to quarrel often and violently, and the widow reasoned that, if she could get married again, it would be an easy matter to run the farm without Gibbons, and she could get rid of him.

She cast her eye about her in search of the proper man for a future husband. It rested on the young and healthy Horace Warner. She proposed to him secretly and he accepted. He was delegated to inform Gibbons of the match, for the widow, who had known his wrath, feared to speak. While hitching up a team of horses to go to the timber land for wood at daylight, young Mr. Warner plucked up courage enough to tell his employer all about it.

Gibbons flew into a rage and threatened to shoot Warner if he did not give up the idea of marriage with the widow. The whole conversation was overheard by Mrs. Brown, and when Gibbons had done swearing vengeance and gone away, she slipped up to the side of her intended and suggested that Warner, instead of driving to the woods, should drive to the city and she would come with him. Mounted on a farm wagon rigged for hauling wood, he in his overalls and she in a gingham gown, they eloped. They had no trouble in getting a license, and were man and wife thirty minutes after their arrival. A few hours of shopping and gazing at the city sights sufficed for their honeymoon, and they went back to the farm prepared to face the wrath of the son-in-law and his wife.—St. Paul Cor. St. Louis Republic.

To Put Out Theatre Fires.

The protection of theatres from injury by fire has taxed the ingenuity of inventors ever since playhouses were first constructed, and all kinds of devices have been tried to provide for the safety of audiences, with more or less success. Last night an exhibition was given in Mason street of an apparatus invented by District Engineer J. W. Reagan, whose headquarters are at the house of Engine 26, which promises far to excel anything of the kind ever adapted to the uses of the stage. It is very simple in its construction, being what might be termed a brass nozzle, formed like the burner of an ordinary kerosene lamp, with three apertures two and one-half inches across.

Through these apertures (which in a lamp would contain the wick) fan shape streams of water can be ejected to a height of about seventy feet and of a width nearly as great. This contrivance will be first placed in the Tremont theatre. One will be placed immediately under the proscenium arch, and that alone will be sufficient to throw a spray of water so dense as to prevent the fiercest fire from passing through it, as it will completely cover the whole space occupied by the front of the stage. For more perfect protection there will be one placed on each side of the proscenium arch, about half way from the floor of the stage to the top of the proscenium. With three great bodies of water thrown in as many different directions across the stage it is believed that it will be a matter of impossibility for fire to leap across it.—Boston Herald.

Inside of the Melon Was a Snake.

"Last week I purchased some water-melons from a countryman and sent them home. After I had eaten all the melons but one, and having an appetite that demanded more, I placed this one on the table and cut it. Imagine my surprise, if you can, when I found that there was no heart to the melon, but it had a smooth opening on each side. By placing the two halves together I could see that the space was made by something round. I began to look around to try to discover what could have made the place, when right under my nose, on the table, lay a small snake. Of what species was it? I don't know. It was of a light green color, about sixteen inches long, and had a horned head. I never saw or heard of one like it before."

"How can you account for it getting into the melon?" was asked.

"Can't do it. The rind of the melon was perfect, and it could not have crawled through it. The nearest I can guess at it is this: It must have been a very small snake when the melon was in bloom, and when it developed into a small melon the snake went into it."—Athens (Ga.) Chronicle.

Thrown Into the River by an Elephant.

A Cairo, Ills., special to The Philadelphia Press of recent date says: "While a circus was unloading its paraphernalia from a small steamboat and barges at Metropolis one of the elephants showed a great disinclination to go ashore. Several of the employees seized poles and began a systematic course of prodding, which threw the beast into a terrible rage. His long trunk was suddenly twisted around the body of his nearest tormentor, the man was raised high in the air and cast unceremoniously into the Ohio river thirty feet distant. The excitement was great, and by the time the elephant was ready for another installment the men had all scampered out of danger. The regular keeper having come to the rescue the maddened animal was quieted, and the two marched ashore without accident. The man was unhurt and swam ashore."

The Smiths at a Wedding.

A wedding in which all the theators were Smiths occurred at New Martinsburg, this county, yesterday. Mr. Alvin Smith, of Iowa, arrived yesterday, and in the evening was united in marriage to Miss Orpha Smith, Rev. David Smith, of this city, officiating, a young lady named Smith acting as bridesmaid. The young lady's mother's maiden name was Smith, and her father is a blacksmith.—Washington (O.) Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

A SLAVE BOY'S STORY.

Strange Vicissitudes That Led Him from Central Africa Down the Congo.

A letter from the Congo tells the story of a slave boy from Central Africa who, by a series of strange vicissitudes, has recently come into the possession of Mr. Holman Bentley, the well known missionary, and is now living on the river near the west coast. The boy's name is Kayembe, and he lived near the Congo, about 1,600 miles from his mouth. A while ago a large party of Arabs from Nyangwe and their Manjema slaves attacked the village adjoining that in which Kayembe lived. They heard the shooting and saw the marauders seizing women and children. Then they fled into the jungle, and the Arabs, coming over to the deserted town, burned it to the ground.

It was three days before the villagers ventured to return to their ruined homes. All was quiet then, and they spent the days tilling their fields around the place where they had lived. At night they slept in the jungle, as they feared a night attack. They were not without fear for a moment, but they still lingered around their fields because their food came from them.

One day, after they had led this wretched life for about three months, a gang of slave hunters suddenly rushed upon the village, beating their drums and firing guns. Kayembe's father threw a spear at one of the slavers, wounding him in the shoulder. The wounded man then shot the father dead and cut off his hand as a trophy. Kayembe dashed into the jungle with several men after him. They caught him, and he was dragged away with other prisoners to neighboring villages, where the slavers killed the men and captured many women. The little children whom many of the women carried in their arms were snatched away from them and thrown into the bushes, there to perish miserably. Some of them, however, were struck dead or were stunned by a blow from a stick. Others who attempted to follow their mothers were struck with switches and driven back.

In about ten days the slavers, with their captives, reached Nyangwe, and the poor people were soon scattered far and wide, their owners taking them in all directions. Kayembe's master took him 300 miles down the Congo, where he sold him to a Zanzibari. Soon after the boy had an attack of dysentery, and his new master, thinking he would die, sold him for a song to a Housa soldier in the service of the Congo state. The soldier took him 900 miles further down the river, to Leopoldville, where Sir Francis de Winton set the boy free and put him in charge of the Baptist mission.

He has learned the language of the lower Congo, and Mr. Bentley writes that he is a bright and interesting boy. But the tragic events in his old home are graven in his memory. He wants to return to his own country when it is safe to do so, and the missionaries have promised him that when they are able to start a station far up the Congo, where he came from, he shall go there with them.—London Telegram.

California's Growth.

Forty years ago the harbor of San Francisco was filled with a great fleet of ships that were lying idly at their anchors. They had brought cargoes of men and merchandise, but they could find no cargoes to carry away. Many of these ships never left the port. They were hauled up to the land, and the hulks furnished temporary shelter for hundreds of pioneers. Today the docks are lined with a great fleet of merchant ships—a larger number of sailing vessels, probably, than can be found in any other port in the Union. These ships are nearly all discharging or taking on cargo. There is hardly an idle ship in this harbor among seaworthy vessels. Aside from wine, wool, ores and lumber, there will be a million tons of wheat for transportation to foreign markets. The ox teams no longer plod a weary way across the continent. But nearly every day a train load of fruit is sent to the Atlantic states, and these shipments will be rounded up with the largest citrus crop, save that of Florida, ever produced in the United States.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Drank from All the Glasses.

An eye witness at Spa relates as follows: During his stay at the Kurhaus the shah one day wanted to take some refreshment, and a member of his suite ordered a glass of punch a la Romaine. The waiter, who had probably received similar orders from some of the other guests, though of inferior rank, appeared before Nasr-ed-Din with a tray containing a dozen glasses of the beverage. The shah, smiling, took a glass, drank half of the contents, and then took a sip out of each of the other eleven glasses, so that the waiter could not now hand them round to the rest of the company. His majesty thus tried to make it plain to the waiter that a shah is not to be placed on a level with ordinary mortals in the matter of serving.—Dusseldorf Anzeiger.

Parted Forever by Bleached Hair.

A young woman who has been visiting Saratoga for the past three years, and who has, it is said, an income of $3,000, has left that town, leaving about $1,000 worth of debts, so goes the story, and one broken heart in the breast of a young man who "clerked it" in a Broadway shop during the past season. It is reported that the cause of her sudden departure was the fact that he failed to agree with her regarding the color of her hair, which is said to have been bleached.—Albany Express.

Tombs Found at Nimes.

An important discovery has been made in the environs of Nimes. Some workmen engaged on excavations for the construction of an aqueduct have hit upon a couple of Gallo-Roman tombs, which are to be removed to the local museum. Meanwhile it has been decided that the surrounding ground shall be carefully searched, it being thought that it may contain other antiquities of a rare and interesting character.—Paris Cor. All are cordially invited to the meeting.
—The muddy condition of the city water is the general subject of complaint, and it is to be hoped that the repairs at the reservoir will soon be finished, if that is the cause of the trouble. —The opinion seems general that the Australian ballot system possesses many commendable features, and citizens of all shades of political thought endorse it and prefer it to the previous system of voting. Everybody seemed pleased to escape the

The next rehearsal will be held in Eliot Lower Hall next Wednesday evening, instead of Thursday, at 7.45 o'clock. All singers of this city are cordially invited to join the active membership of this society. —Mr. U. G. McQueen has just completed the two double houses for Mr. Emerson, on the corner of Pearl and Emerson streets, which will be of very attractive appearance, while visitors are surprised at the beauty of the finish and the convenient arrangement of the interior. What Newton especially needs is houses that can be rented at a moderate price, so as to attract new people, and in this respect Mr. Emerson has set an excellent example. The houses are as attractive both outside and in as houses of the kind in the city. It is to be hoped that more of such houses will be built in the coming year, as there is a great demand for them.
—At the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crosby, 8 Eldridge street, Tuesday evening, the wedding of their niece, Miss Helen F. Morgan, and Mr. M. Albert Frazer. The ceremony took place at 7.30 o'clock, and was witnessed only by the family of the young couple. Rev. Paul B. Hornbroke, pastor of the Channing church, officiated. The bride wore a white faille frock costume, V shaped, with a garniture of duchesse lace, the usual long train, veil and diamond ornaments. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. After the ceremony a reception for the families and intimate friends was held, quite a number being present from Boston, Brookline, Belmont, the Newtons and other places. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mansfield, the florist, with pink and white chrysanthemums, while in the hall were placed a variety of potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. Frazer received under a horn of plenty, composed of snail and wreathed with white chrysanthemums. The usher were Messrs. John F. Crosby, Newton; C. Phillips, Watertown; Miles Barrows, Watertown; Storck Jones, Bemis Station. The presents were numerous and valuable and included many rare articles, silver, rare china and glass ware, bronzes, and the usual variety of gifts, ornamental and useful. At the conclusion of the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Frazer departed for Belmont, where they will reside in a beautiful new house which has just been completed.
—Mr. J. Lowrie Bell of Washington, D. C., general superintendent of the U. S. railway mail service, has ordered the establishment of a new postal car route, to run from Boston to Boston, via the Newton circuit railroad, taking in all the Newtons and Brookline. The scheme has been in contemplation some time and the new route is recommended by Mr. Shepardson, chief clerk of the eastern division of the U. S. railway mail service, with headquarters in Boston. The mail has been left entirely in Mr. Shepardson's charge and he is now making the necessary arrangements for carrying out the project. This new postal car route will result in radical changes in the arrival and departure of mails in all the Newtons in Newton and Brookline. It will be of great advantage in the rapid transmission of mail matter, especially in this city, with its numerous postoffices scattered through the several villages. Under the present mail arrangement a letter mailed from Newtonville to go to Newton, a distance of one mile, must first be sent with the Boston mail to Boston, and then forwarded to the Newton circuit railroad. Nearly all the mails in the postoffices in Newton and Brookline will be made up for the new postal car and will be assured on the car, all letters sent and South to be forwarded from Boston direct. The postal car will be started as soon as it can be fitted up by the Boston & Albany Railroad Company, which is being done during the present month. Under the new arrangement the latest New York mail will reach the Newtons about 3.30 p. m.

Hovey's Conservatories in Cambridge.
The title Hovey's Conservatories is as familiar as a household word to all old residents of Cambridge; for a half century or more these gardens and nurseries were noted not only in Cambridge but all over New England, as the leading establishment in their line. About two years since Mr. Wm. E. Doyle for several years the leading florist in Boston, became the owner of that part of the property known as the Hovey nurseries, and since then has made a great many improvements, having rebuilt and thoroughly restocked them with probably the largest and finest collection of palms and tropical plants, ferns, etc., to be found in this section of the country; also with a fine collection of Chrysanthemums, Cyclamen, Azaleas, Lilies, Freesia, Begonia, Orange trees, etc. The show of Chrysanthemums and Cyclamen is particularly fine and well deserves the praise bestowed on it by all visitors at the nurseries. The several departments are in charge of experienced men and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Mr. Doyle has recently made another large purchase of the late Hovey property of some seven acres; this will give him one of the largest and best equipped establishments in the country. At the Boston establishment, 43 Tremont street, can always be found a choice assortment of flowers, floral pieces of original designs for weddings, parties, festivals and funerals.
The Newton election returns are given in full on the second page, and will prove an interesting subject for study. Outside the vote for governor, the Republican candidates received about the usual Republican majority. In 1888 the total vote was 3,901, with 739 plurality for Ames, and in 1887 the total vote was 2,444, with 1,119 plurality for Ames. This year the total vote was 2,723, nearly 300 more than in 1887, and the plurality for governor has fallen to 274.

NEWTON CLUB RECEPTION.
LADIES' NIGHT ATTRACTS A NOTABLE COMPANY OF SOCIETY PEOPLE.

The club-house of the Newton Club was the scene of a brilliant gathering Wednesday evening, upon the occasion of the annual ladies' reception. The fair sex was well represented and the company comprised the prominent society people of the city. The social festivities began shortly after eight o'clock and the rooms were then well filled with members of the club and its fair guests. Baldwin's orchestra rendered an excellent musical program and the West Newton Glee Club, comprising Messrs. Rogers, Warren, Faince and Norr, gave several vocal numbers. It was an effective vocal combination and the selections were finely given, the voices blending harmoniously. The committee of arrangements consisted of Messrs. W. J. Follett, J. Rev. Mr. Spaulding's Next Lecture.
The closing lecture, on Wednesday evening Nov. 13, will treat of Greek Sculpture in Rome. Mr. Spaulding's views of the masterpieces of ancient sculpture are of unusual excellence. These will be supplemented by a number of colored views of mythological and other paintings. The lecture thus becomes a study of ancient art and classic mythology.
Now that the state election is over, it is time to be thinking about the city election. So far no opposition has been discovered to the re-nomination of Mayor Burr, who has given us a clean and efficient administration, and has been especially vigorous in enforcing the liquor law. There is no doubt of his re-nomination and about as little of his reelection, according to the old custom of giving the mayor two terms.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

AN ALL NIGHT SESSION WAITING FOR WARD THREE.

The board of aldermen met Monday night to receive the returns, with Mayor Burr in the chair and all the members present except Aldermen Pettie and Childs, who are, curiously enough, the members of the committee on elections. Before the last returns were in, the other members could not help admiring the wise foresight of the two missing ones.

The first returns came in from Precinct Two, Ward Two, soon after 9 o'clock, and were followed by Precinct Two, Ward Five. Then there was a wait of an hour, when Ward Six turned up, followed directly by Precinct One, Ward Two, and then by Precinct One, Ward Five; Wards One, Seven and Four followed about 11.30, and then followed a weary wait until nearly 3 o'clock, for the returns from Ward Three, over which the counters were wrestling in the City Hall. The unfortunate counters had a hard struggle, and first it was the ballots and then the counters, that secured an advantage. The counts sent out kept up the hopes of the aldermen by reports that they had finished all but about a hundred ballots, and would report in ten minutes. Then came news that a mistake had been found, and the counting had begun over again, until finally the aldermen had told all their choicest stories and most of them went to sleep. Mr. E. L. Pickard, who is always much interested in the result, dropped in occasionally to cheer them up, and during the evening a Spartan lunch was served in the assessors' room. The few spectators who dropped in during the evening had all left before the Ward Three counters finally triumphed over their difficulties, and Mr. Cate's hacks were summoned to carry home the city fathers.

THE ORDINARY BUSINESS.

A hearing was given on the application of the Gamewell company for permission to locate a 200 horse power boiler and engine on Oak street, Upper Falls. Mr. Price appeared for the company, but no one objected and the license was granted.

Mayor Burr appointed Wm. A. Leonard and Richard B. Conroy police officers on the permanent force, as both had served the probationary term satisfactorily, and both were confirmed.

Citizens of Newton Highlands petitioned for a patrolman in that village; referred to the police committee.

J. W. Brown gave notice of intention to build house on street near Institution avenue, and F. E. Hamblin a shed for wagons on Channing street. R. O. Evans was granted license to build a carriage and store house on Fayette street, 36 by 20; D. S. Farnham asked for license to build stable 24 by 34 on vacant lot near Centre and Beacon streets; referred. Residents of Washington Park asked for concrete sidewalks on west side of Park Place.

J. W. Kimball, H. F. Ross and about 60 others asked to have Austin street extended to Greenwood avenue, after the plan of T. H. Carter, as they deemed it very important to have a direct street on that side of the track, leading to West

Newton; referred to highway committee.

James F. Meary asked for 2 street lamps on Alden Place, off River street, and residents of Kenrick street asked for lamps on that street to the Boston line.

Alderman Hamblin reported from the Citizens committee, on petition of Francis Jones and others, for abatement of guarantee of 10 years, for laying of water mains, that as the usual time was five years, they should be released after paying a five year's guarantee.

Alderman Harbach from the Highway committee, reported favorably on petition of H. B. Day, for the laying of a Berkeley street to the Robinson land, and an order was passed for hearings before the aldermen Dec. 3rd, and Dec. 9th before the common council.

Alderman Chadwick reported from the fire department committee favorably on the proposition to give the permanent members 24 hours leave once a month, and recommended that the practice be adopted after some four weeks, to enable the details of the plan to be settled. As it is now the men only have leave of absence for their meals, and seems only reasonable to give them 24 hours off once in a month.

Alderman Chadwick also reported favorably on the petition of John Jones and others for a fire signal on California street, in the vicinity of Faxon and Crescent. As there is no money for such a signal now, the committee recommended that the $200 necessary should be included in the estimates for 1890, and recommended the same to the committee on finance.

An order was passed for the exchange of the electric wagon of Horse No. 7, Upper Falls, for one more suitable for the purpose, at an expense not to exceed $100.

Alderman Hamblin reported from the Claims committee in regard to the claim of H. Carter for damages on Alston street, that two or three years ago an agreement was entered into by the Highway committee, that they would fix up Alston street and that Messrs. T. H. & H. Carter should pay $200. The work was not done satisfactorily, they claimed, and refused to pay the money. The committee recommended that on the payment of the $200, the gutters should be paved and the street put in satisfactory condition.

Complaints were made from Precinct Two, Ward Two, that the ballot box worked unsatisfactorily, part of the time refusing to register, and again registering twice for one vote. In Precinct Two, Ward 5, it was reported that the box had to be abandoned and the smaller one used. The city clerk was instructed to report the same to the Secretary of State.

After numerous recesses, about 3 o'clock the Ward Three returns were read, and the city clerk was instructed to confer with the election officers in regard to the slight errors in the returns and have them corrected. The board adjourned to next Monday night.

Board of Health.

Mayor Burr presided at the meeting of the board of health on Monday afternoon. Messrs. Pettie, Fuller, Wiswall, and Agent French were present. After the reading of the records, a petition from prominent business men of Upper Falls was received asking for the same privilege in the disposal of house offal as other parts of Newton. Mr. Pettie said the names signed to the petition were very well known, and that it would be advisable for the board to consider the petition. He moved that the agent be instructed to ascertain what was required and instruct Mr. Mague accordingly. The motion passed. An application from Robert S. Harrison for permission to use one room of a vacated basement for a kitchen was granted.

A communication was received from T. H. Carter submitting a new plan for obviating the Clinton and Murray street trouble, by running the waste through the land of Mr. Chaffin. A petition from N. G. Allen and others, to abate a nuisance of damp land, lying between Grove and Hancock streets, was received and the petitioners given leave to withdraw. Mayor Burr had drawn up a petition relative to the defective sanitary arrangement in a school house at Chestnut Hill. The building had been given up until the nuisance could be remedied. Agent French had visited the place and submitted a detailed report, stating the real need was suitable water closets. Mr. Pettie moved that the attention of the building be instructed to put in suitable water closets, which was carried. The bills for October were read and approved. A communication from Mrs. W. M. Lisle of Perkins street was read, stating that Mr. Lisle intended building there, and French said the house was in bad condition at that time thus abating the nuisance which the board had found. Mr. French said Mr. Lisle had received due notification of the action of the board but nothing has as yet been done.

On motion of Mr. Pettie, Agent French was instructed to call the attention of Mr. Lisle's agent to the necessity of prompt action. A letter was received from Mrs. Hovey of Irving street, regarding the back flow caused by the high brook level on Mr. Rand's land, she wishing to build on the land obstructed. Mr. French said the brook was in bad condition and the board decided that it could be remedied under the wet land law.

With regard to the smoke nuisance, the agent said, Mr. Lucas thought there were others in the vicinity as bad, and knew of no way to abate it. If he could be shown some effectual remedy, he would be willing to adopt it. Mr. French had examined a method which would cost about $200, which was in use at the Continental Clothing House, Boston. A cloth filter showing the wretched condition of the city water in some houses, had been handed in to the board. Mr. Wiswall saw no way of remedying the evil, which was probably caused by the city being obliged to pump the water directly through the pipes, but the real cause can only be conjectured.

The board then adjourned on motion of Mr. Pettie.

THE IMPROVED SYSTEM OF PROPELLING STREET CARS.

A new system for developing and utilizing steam for power, without smoke, cinders, noise or escape of steam, at much less cost than by any other known method for obtaining and maintaining power. There is no failure nor uncertainty in its operation, and it is absolutely safe.

For street cars and other service requiring portable power, it has no equal. Secured by U. S. letters patent. A prominent mechanical engineer says that the possibilities of this invention have not been equalled by any recent invention - except possibly the Bell Telephone and Sawyer-Mann for electric lighting. The Steam Storage Power Company has been organized for the development and introduction of this system throughout the New England States - which territory is owned exclusively by it - with a capital of $200,000 - for value shares, $10 - and is having a Power Car built by the Pullman Palace Car Co., which will be exhibited in Boston and vicinity in September. The first issue of certificates will be from the office of the company, 34 Broad street, after August 1. Subscriptions may be made for the stock at par - payable 25 per cent. cash, 25 per cent. 30 days, 50 per cent. 60 days - to an amount not exceeding $50,000.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

"Every advance towards a free exchange of commodities is an advance in civilization; Every obstruction to a free exchange is born of the same narrow, despotic spirit which planted castles up on the Rhine to plunder peaceful commerce; every obstruction to commerce is a tax upon consumption; every facility to a free exchange cheapens commodities, increases trade and production, and promotes civilization. Nothing is worse than sectionalism within a nation, and nothing is better for the peace of nations than unrestricted freedom of commerce and intercourse with each other."

JOHN SHERMAN.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton, Mass.

E pur se muove.

"The world moves nevertheless," and the movement in Massachusetts against unjust taxation will go on after the election as before. At the moment of writing we know nothing of the result, but it is safe to say that thousands of Republicans have cast their ballots for Mr. Russell, as a moral protest against the dissembling attitude of the Republican party upon the Tariff Question. The Tariff Reformers everywhere are coming to the conclusion that in listening to promises of "reduction of unjust and unnecessary taxation" from the Longs and Lodges, they have lent ear to

"Juggling friends
That palter with us in a double sense;
That keep the word of promise to our ear,
And break it to our hope."

"The world moves," but it moves slowly; and as men pass from one opinion to a higher and better one they sometimes linger in queer transitional conditions. The present position of our iron manufacturing governor illustrates the principle. Vice-president of the Home Market Club, a Republican Governor of Massachusetts, and at the same time a petitioner for free coal and iron ore! It carries us back to anti-bellum days when Whigs and Democrats ruled and were ruled. Two worthy gentlemen, one of each great party, stood upon the street corner discussing the questions of the hour. "There," said the Whig, "comes a Democrat," and he pointed down the street to an approaching individual whose unsteady walk betokened "license." "Oh, no!" said the Democrat, "that must be a Whig by the way." When the unknown and unclassified reached the corner and was questioned as to his party opinions, he straightened himself up and stammered forth:—"I'm a Wh—Wh—Whig; but I've all the symptoms of a De—De—Democrat." So with our honest governor; he is a Protectionist, but he has all the symptoms of a Free Trader.

The world moves, and Newton and the Newton Tariff Reform Club must move too. We have had at the head of the column for some months a little pass word, namely "A Tariff is a Tax." But in this mad onward motion of the earth and the earth's opinions, not only have we ourselves but our most unequivocal foes have likewise come to accept as axiomatic what we all once thought subject for discussion. To-day we fling a new banner to the breeze; and that banner may be no fear lest there is reason in it. Every Protectionist in Newton who believes in the promotion of thought, the progress of truth, the unity of the nation, the advancement of our industrial enterprises, the welfare of all our people; every protectionist, we say, who has at heart these great objects, cannot use a in forwarding them more efficaciously than by sending it to the Secretary. We shall do our work anyhow; we give you the opportunity of helping if you will.

A STRAW.

SECRETARY NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

MY DEAR SIR:—

In reply to your's of the 20th I am glad to join the Tariff Reform Club, altho I am a manufacturer; or perhaps better because I am a manufacturer and I see the absolute necessity of modifying our present list of duties. Enclosed find $1.00 in payment of membership fee.

Yours truly,

Yankee Enterprise.

It is not so many years since the fine wooden clippers from the shipyards of Bath, Me., cleft the waters of every ocean of the world and were the source of much true American pride. But in these better days of iron, the Bath shipbuilders have struggled to hold the merest footing in the industry of iron-shipbuilding.

Their distress is created by fearful odds against them in the tariff taxes extorted by the country they have done so much to build up. But the men who go down to the sea in ships are, by nature, men of pluck and perseverance, and the sea-captains, sailors and shipbuilders of Bath "never say die." If the world wants iron ships, iron ships it shall have. If lumber and the axe have had their day, they will still play manfully with iron and coal.

But greedy Pennsylvania practically forbids coal to Bath either from her own overflowing mines or from the neighboring British Provinces. In this emergency the Bath shipwrights turn again to their old friend, the ocean. They have notified for many years that after heavy deep-disturbing storms, great lumps of coal, sometimes weighing 100 pounds or more, come ashore in certain inlets of the coast of Maine, and they have formed a strong company to test the practicability of wresting the precious carbon from the bosom of old ocean at their very doors. Borings and shaft sinking are about to commence and such genuine Yankee Enterprise deserves to succeed. But, what if the prize is won! Will Pennsylvania allow New England to benefit by it? If they are consistent, Messrs. Cameron, Quay, Randall, Carnegie & Co., backed by the U. S. Government, whose policy they have controlled, will strive to levy a tax of 75 cents on every ton of coal brought in from that foreign territory, the Ocean, so that New England competition may be crushed out forever. If they do not make the attempt, it will be because since the President's Message in 1888, by Grover Cleveland, they do not dare.

MUSICAL MATTERS.

THE SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

Four weeks have passed since the advent of Mr. Arthur Nikisch upon the concert stage in Boston, and those weeks have served only to strengthen our first impression of the man, as stated after the first concert. As a program maker, Mr. Nikisch is a success. One or two critics, from whom we have learned to expect a certain amount of fault-finding, as a matter of course, have received themselves of a certain number of words upon the subject; but for our part we can see nothing to grumble at. However a program may look to us on paper, we must hear that program under Mr. Nikisch's direction to see everything in a new light. The fact of our new conductor's having broken many of the traditions with regard to works of the classic school which have been held sacred by conductors for many years, has led to a series of weekly essays upon the exceedingly harmful tenets of "Ueber das Dirigieren," with dire predictions as to the future of music. Judging from the work the orchestra is doing, however, we do not expect to be called upon to assist in the burial, figuratively speaking, of our Symphony Orchestra, at least not this year. The wood-wind band particularly, although but one change has been made since last year, is doing wonderful work, having obtained that precision and unanimity, which, up to this year, it has always lacked.

To-morrow evening we are to have an interesting historical program, consisting of three symphonies, beginning with Haydn and concluding with that master piece of symphonic form, Beethoven's symphony in C minor. The program follows: Symphony in G major, Haydn; symphony in G minor, Mozart; symphony in C minor, No. 5, Beethoven.

NOTES.

The Bostonians will begin their home engagement at the Boston Theatre next Monday evening. The repertoire for the first week is: Monday evening and Saturday afternoon, "Pygmalion and Galatea"; Tuesday evening, "Suzette"; Wednesday evening, "Mignon"; Thursday evening, Offenbach's "The Poachers"; Friday evening, "Fatinizta"; Saturday evening, "The Bohemian Girl."

"The trustees of the Ruth Burroughs room announce that, after having been closed for some weeks for the first time since it was dedicated, the room is now again open for use. By the kindness of Messrs. Chickering & Sons, who have for so many years given the room rent free, and furnished it with two grand pianofortes (for the Ruth Burroughs fund supplies the library only), this is made possible, they having voluntarily come forward and offered to continue to do this and thus make alive and glowing this beautiful privilege just as it has existed and thrived for 16 years."

The following will be the program at the second appearance here of Otto Hegner, the latest arrival in the prodigy list, which occurs to-morrow afternoon, at the Hall:

Quintet, (B flat) Mendelssohn Quintet Club; aria, "Paul and Virginie," Mrs. Pemberton-Hincks; sonata, op. 53, Beethoven, Otto Hegner; adagio and finale from Quintet, Quintet club; Bolero, "Carmen," Bizet, Mrs. Pemberton-Hincks; "Berceuse," by Grand Polka, Chopin, Otto Hegner; rondo, from quintet, Weber, Quintet Club.

We note in a recent paper that a new song has been published, entitled, "Please sell no more drink to my Father." It is indeed pleasant to know that the educational advantages afforded by the Symphony Orchestra and like institutions of Boston are so helpful to our American composers.

This is an age of arrangements; we saw a list a short time ago which included no less than thirteen arrangements of the ancient Wedding March from the "Sommerachts Traum." We are not positive, but think that one was included for guitar and tympani.

Rheumatism
Is undoubtedly caused by lactic acid in the blood. This acid attacks the fibrous tissues, and causes the pains and aches in the back, shoulders, knees, ankles, hips, and wrists. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive cure for rheumatism. This medicine, by its purifying action, neutralizes the acidity of the blood, and also builds up and strengthens the whole body.

Card of Thanks.
If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which come to him daily from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair-sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle than to pay for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

The combination of ingredients found in Ayer's Pills renders them tonic and curative as well as cathartic. For this reason, they are the best medicine for people of costive habit, as they restore the natural action of the bowels, without debilitating.

For all Throat and Lung Diseases take Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr.'s Cough Cure. It has cured thousands. All druggists, 50 cents per bottle.

Notice is hereby given to all persons to present themselves for registration, and that the Registrars of Voters will hold sessions for the registration of voters, including women duly qualified, and to correct and revise the Ward Lists, upon the following dates and at the places hereinafter named:

Newton Centre—Associates' Hall, Pleasant street, 3 to 5 o'clock, from 7 to 8:30 o'clock, P. M. SATURDAY, NOV. 9.
At City Hall, from 2 to 5 o'clock, P. M., WEDNESDAY, NOV. 13; FRIDAY, NOV. 15; WEDNESDAY, NOV. 20, and SATURDAY, NOV. 23, from 9 A. M. to 12 M., from 2 to 5 o'clock, and 7:30 to 10 o'clock, P. M.

No names can be registered after 10 o'clock P. M., NOVEMBER 23.

All persons whose names are not on the Voting List must appear personally before the Registrars of Voters on either of the days above mentioned, presenting a receipted tax bill of 1888 or 1889.

All naturalized citizens must present their final papers when they register.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

The names of all persons not assessed in 1888, are taken from the voting lists, but such persons can be registered by applying in person to the Registrars at any session held for registering voters, and presenting a receipted tax bill for 1888, provided they are otherwise qualified.

Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year, and in the city of Newton six months prior to December 3, 1884, and who has paid a State or County tax assessed upon him either in 1888 or 1889, and who shall be able to read and write, shall have the right to vote at the City election, to be held December third, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

EXTRACT FROM STATUTES CONCERNING VOTING BY WOMEN.

"Every woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excluded by article twenty of the amendments to the constitution), who has resided within the state one year, and within the city or town in which she claims a right to vote, six months next preceding any election of school committees, and who has paid by herself, her parent, guardian or trustee, a state, county, city or town tax assessed upon her or her trustee in this state within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections, for members of school committees."

Any woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, may, on or before the first day of October in any year, give notice in writing accompanied by satisfactory evidence, to the assessors of a city or town, that she was on the first day of May of that year an inhabitant thereof, and that she desires to pay a poll tax, and to furnish under oath a true list of her estate, both real and personal, not exempt from taxation, and she shall thereupon be assessed for her poll, not exceeding fifty cents, and for her estate, and the assessors shall, on or before the fifth day of October, return her name to the registrars of voters or board charged with the preparation of the list of voters of the city or town in the list of the persons so assessed. The taxes so assessed shall be entered in the tax list of the collector of the city or town, and he shall collect and pay over the same in the manner specified in his warrant.

The names of women may be placed upon a separate list; and when the name of any woman has been placed upon the list of voters of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this state within two years next preceding any election provided that the facts relating to residence shall be furnished to the registrars each year prior to the close of registration."

It is therefore necessary for each woman who desires to remain her name on the list, to inform the Registrars of Voters before the close of registration of her continued residence in this city, and if the taxes upon which her registration is based have been paid in any other place, in the State than Newton, her receipted tax bill must be shown to the Registrars.

LESSONS OF THE ELECTION.

The chief lesson of the recent election in this and other states is that the Republicans can not afford to give over the nomination of candidates to the politicians, but that they should put their best men forward. Instead of the usual twenty-five or thirty thousand majority in this state, the candidate for governor gets less than six thousand plurality, and that was mostly obtained in Boston, from wards usually strongly Democratic. There are various explanations for this, but these new allies do not help the average respectability of the party. The feeling that tariff reform is necessary to the business interests of the state may have had something to do with it, and the course of the national administration, in giving over the offices to state bosses, and falling short of the high standard set by ante-election pledges, also had much influence not only here, but in Iowa and Ohio. The first General Harrison's administration had much the same experience, and the emphatic protest of the people will be heeded if the administration and its counsellors are wise. The mere fact that it is an off year will not account for the remarkable change in the voting since a year ago. More is expected of the Republican party, from its high standard in the past, its historical devotion to principle, and to the carrying out of the wisest and best policy, and it will not do to fall below what is expected of it. The political leaders should cease their sneers at President Eliot and others who have left the party, and devote their attention to a careful study of the reasons for this defection of the better element, and so shape the course of the party that it will be possible for them to come back. This will be much wiser policy than the making of political deals and bargains, to gain voters who are influenced by self-interest and not by principle, and it will be patriotism also, which the politicians seem to have forgotten. There is no disgrace in a defeat, but there may be in the causes that led to it. If the lessons of the recent election are heeded, then the temporary defeat will have proved to be a blessing in disguise.

No high-principled Republican can feel much sorrow at the defeat of such a man as Foraker of Ohio, or of Mahone in Virginia, as both of them are unworthy to hold the chief office in a great state. They were Republican candidates, unfortunately, but they represented their own selfish schemes for personal advancement, rather than the principles of their party. It may be good partisanship to endorse everything that goes under the name of one's own party, but it is not good policy and it is not patriotic. Ohio has plenty of good men, such as Senator Sherman, who are not Forakers and the state will be benefited by his removal. As for Mahone, he was repudiated by the better class of Republicans in his state, and his alleged control of the federal offices there has contributed to the general dissatisfaction in the Northern states. His campaign was waged for selfish reasons, and there was little to choose between his methods and those of his opponents. He was so recently one of them, that methods that would disgust a life-long Republican, seem only natural to him. The party will be improved by the defeat of Mahoneism and what it represents, both in Virginia and in Washington.

If Republicans look at the case aright, there is nothing to discourage them in the recent election, as they only show that the party must put forward its best men, and be true to its noblest principles in order to win.

THE NEW BALLOT LAW.

Nothing but praise of the new ballot law is heard in Newton. It was found to be remarkably simple in its workings, and very few had any trouble in marking and casting their vote. The secrecy about the affair was so novel as to be a delightful change, and the ward rooms throughout the city were so quiet and orderly as to be in marked contrast to former years. The usual array of ticket peddlers and workers were conspicuous by their absence, the floor was not littered with waste ballots, and those who were present talked in subdued tones, and the voter had no chance of being disturbed. The same reports come from other cities and eventually the people have caught on to the new law with great unanimity.

A very few voters, who were voters before 1867, appeared and had to have their ballots marked, and in one ward two faithful Democrats were drilled on the capital D in Democratic until they could recognize it anywhere, and so passed in and successfully crossed off their ticket. A great many tickets were cast with only the first one or two names crossed, both by Republicans and Democrats; some marked all their candidates when only one should have been, and in other ways there was some confusion evidenced in the minds of the voters. Still, the returns show that most of the voters succeeded in carrying out their intentions, and the success of the law on its first trial showed its excellence.

The only serious trouble was in the counting, which was rather burdensome, but the returns came in in about the usual order, although later than usual, and the one ward that is always late rather outdid itself in that line. Still, another year the counting could easily be a good deal simplified, as the practical test proved, although of course a certain degree of expertness is needed if quick returns are looked for. Probably it will be found necessary to raise the pay of the officials, on account of the longer service required, but so much is saved in other ways by the law, and it has proved such a very desirable reform, that the city can well afford to make the increase.

The next trial of the law will be in the city election, for which the ballots will be printed by the city clerk, and at that time the experience of Tuesday will probably enable all the returns to be in before midnight.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Mr. Raymond L. Bridgman of Auburn, the statehouse reporter of the Springfield Republican, has an article on the Speakership in his paper, which should be attentively read by both the new and old members of the coming legislature. He recalls the course of Mr. Barrett as Speaker, and shows that he was neither a competent nor creditable official, and that most of the criticism directed against the last house, for disorder and inefficiency, was due to Speaker Barrett's inability to preserve order, his lack of skill as a parliamentarian, his arbitrary and contradictory rulings, and that the load thus laid upon the party injured it in the last election. He has also injured the party by depriving it of able men, whom the state needs. They worked hard, and gave their time freely, and then were included by the public in the sweeping condemnation of the house, and got little credit for what they had done. Such men will not be caught again, and Mr. Bridgman refers to one of the most valuable members, who refused a renomination for this reason, alluding probably to Mr. W. S. Slocum. Does any one doubt that if he had been elected Speaker last year, the result of the recent election would have been very different? It was for this reason, also, that many Newton Republicans voted for the Democratic candidates, believing that in this way they would most effectively prevent a repetition of last year's proceedings. But it was hardly necessary to go to such an extreme as this; Mr. Gilman was a member last year, and such an intelligent business man as he could not fail to perceive the cause of the troubles in the house. It is not probable that he would vote to bring about a repetition of them, and Mr. Barrett belongs to the best element in our politics, and can be depended upon to vote conscientiously and intelligently. The campaign has already begun, and Mr. Barrett is now said to be soliciting votes, but the best interests of the state and the party call for his defeat. Personally he is an able and likable man, and a very successful publisher, but he is not fitted for the speakership, and it would be only a kindness to keep him out of it. The failures of a first term would be readily forgotten, but those of a second would not be. Mr. J. Otis Ward seems to be the leading candidate of the opposition, and seems to be as well-fitted for the place as Mr. Barrett is the opposite.

If free delivery is extended to all places having 5,000 inhabitants, as proposed by Postmaster-General Wanamaker, then several more wards of Newton ought to come in to enjoy the benefits of the law.

A young man in New York has gone insane from smoking cigarettes. He made a regular business of it and had been in the habit of smoking six packs a day. No wonder he went insane.

ONE hundred years ago Washington passed through Newton on his way to Boston, but as there were no local papers then the record of his visit is not preserved.

THE women who wish to register, so that they can vote in the coming city election, will be interested in the notice from the board of registrars on the third page.

—If the ladies who have promised articles for the Universalist Art Sale of next week, Nov. 13th and 14th, will kindly send them as soon as convenient to Mrs. W. H. Mendell or Mrs. W. F. Kimball, they will confer a favor.

—Last Sunday evening the first of a series of talks was held in the Universalist vestry on "Finding Self." The sermon attracted a large attendance but the evenings are to be of such practical interest that it is hoped all who can will avail themselves of the opportunity. Sunday evenings at 7.30.

—Contributions to the Guild Fair, in aid of the Cottage Hospital, were sent to Mrs. H. D. Kingsbury, Mrs. D. S. Simpson, Mrs. G. B. Macomber, Mrs. A. Wellington, Mrs. W. L. Chaloner. It will be a favor to the committee if they are sent at earliest convenience of the donors.

—The Rev. Mr. Worcester's lecture last Sunday evening at the New church chapel was a complete success. The subject of next Sunday evening's lecture is "Adam and the Garden of Eden." The services begin at half past 7 o'clock and are open to all who may desire to attend.

—Miss Crawford gave two unique recitations at the Goddard, Tuesday evening. Her audience ran the gamut from smiles to tears under her recitation of "The Sweetest," while in a general and comprehensive manner, her recitation of "The Sweetest," recounted the pranks of the mischievous schoolgirl or told that exquisite story of little Paul Dombey passing beyond. Her magnetic voice, her simple, effective manner, her noble and touching recitation, evinced the highest cultivation and in her youth and talent there is large promise for the future.

—On Tuesday evening at the Goddard Mr. Ernest Boyden opened the series of "Talks by business men," to be given during the winter. His subject, "Architecture," while in a general and comprehensive manner, he touched upon the architectural and the desirable points of utility, fitness and beauty emphasized. Some of the perplexities of the architect were put in an amusing light as he told of the time he acted as a model-builder of a $20,000 house for $10,000. The central design represented a maiden reclining against a tree, whose luxuriant foliage forms a graceful canopy. The colors are combined with artistic taste and the figure of the young girl is brought out very naturally.

Mr. Boyden gave an admirable paper on architecture and Mrs. Dearborn's witty allusions called forth hearty applause.

—Rev. R. A. White preached Sunday morning from the text, "Ye have compassed this mountain long enough; turn ye northward." Whether it be the business man compassing the mountain of business, swinging in that orbit and all his thoughts centered within that circle; the clergy with their special set of ideas and doctrines—moving too often when too narrow a limit—since the pulpit had the right and the privilege of touching upon any and every subject of vital interest; the mother making home the mountain about which all her thought and hopes clustered—though it was a noble work—might enlarge her circle; or the individual making his vision the mountain which narrowed his vision and kept him from turning northward or climbing upward, the line of reason, the line of Emerson or the Bible, or any other grand and good work should not be too confined. As far as possible the individual life should be deep and strong and wide, not held within narrow bounds or selfish limitations but pure and free with the purity and freedom of a progression leading toward the divine life.

—A conference of visitors was held at the house of Mrs. N. H. Chadwick, Newtonville, on Thursday afternoon. A large number of cases were discussed and acted upon. McCormick, Washington street, corner Boylston street, Boston. Artistic and satisfactory work guaranteed. As there are no stairs to climb all would do well to call and examine his high class studio work.

THE OLDEST CITIZEN DEAD.

COL. GEORGE SHEPARD DIES AT THE AGE OF 92 YEARS.

Col. George Shepard of West Newton died at Westboro Saturday evening. He was the oldest resident of Newton, after the death of Mr. Seth Davis, having been born June 11, 1797, at Hartford, Conn. At the age of 21 he removed to Northampton in this state and went into the hat and cap business. He was married there, and held the office of selectman and other position of trust. Since his removal to Newton, nineteen years ago, his wife died, in 1872, and he leaves two children, Charles W. and Miss Julia Shepard. He won the title of Colonel from the fact that he commanded four companies of artillery in the western part of the state, and when Lafayette visited this country, the companies paraded in his honor, under Col. Shepard. He became a mason, Aug. 2, 1826, in Jerusalem Lodge, Northampton, and is said to have been the oldest mason in the country. In politics he was originally a Democrat, but became a Free Soiler in the first days of the agitation, and was very much interested in the movement.

He had never used spirituous liquors or tobacco, and was a great admirer of life and good health. He and Mr. Seth Davis were great friends and when he was 82 years old they walked to Boston and part of the way back, Col. Shepard accepting the challenge of Mr. Davis. A long, useful and honored life has ended, but his memory will long remain among his friends.

—Rev. Mr. Lamb is out of town for a few days.

—Hallow'een was celebrated in royal style by the boys of this village.

—The night school held at the Jackson school house is well patronized by young and old.

—Leslie Moriarty has given up his position at the fish market and assumed a good one at the electric light station.

—A couple of weddings occurred last week and it is stated that a number are to follow about Thanksgiving time.

—The social given at the North church by the young people last Friday evening, was well attended and pronounced a decided success.

—Persons wishing to transmit money to England, Ireland or Scotland for Christmas, may buy drafts for any sum at Mr. Hudson's store, Bridge street.

—Scarlet fever is quite prevalent about Silver Lake. Timothy Kelley has lost one child with it and has another sick; several other families have one or two down ill.

—J. L. Ballentyne, superintendent of the Nonantum mills, has been sick and unable to attend to business during the past week, but it is hoped he will soon be about again.

—The laws of the state do not grant a license to persons to peddle jewelry and yet there is a man peddling it throughout this village every week under pretence of selling perfumery, etc.

—Mr. William Bowen of California street met with a very painful accident last Saturday. While working on a steam pump one of the pipes burst, scalding both of his arms quite severely.

—J. B. Murphy has a fine assortment of dress goods made by the Nonantum Worsted Company, said to be the equal of any imported. Also remnants at very low prices, see advertisement.

—"Long delayed is come at last." Work has begun on California street and the worst section of the village is being changed into a good one. It is fifty-two feet wide and if properly graded and sidewalks made will be one of the best in the city.

—The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Congregational church met on Thursday afternoon. At their last meeting they had listened to an informal address from Miss Norton, of the Women's Home Association, who told of the work among the poor whites of the South, and among the Mormons. The latter, while they claim to be friends, are really enemies to our government and our institutions; yet they are growing in numbers and influence, and now have a flourishing church in Boston. For poor children in a school in the South the society is now working, and in December is to have a sale of aprons and fancy articles, the profits to go into the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society. The ladies passed a vote of thanks to Mr. George Chamberlain, who is soon to leave, for his aid so kindly rendered in heading and marking and sending off their barrels of clothing for Home Missionaries for several years past. A basket filled with second hand clothing is soon to be sent to a home missionary in Dakota, who will distribute the garments among the needy of his flock.

—The Art Loan Exhibition has been the topic of interest at Auburndale this week. The number attending has been large, and enthusiastic. The value said to be the equal of any imported. Also remnants at very low prices, see advertisement.

THE STORY OF A ROSE.

BY AGNES B. ORMSBIE.

"Come in here, you little rascal!" cried Dr. Packard, fiercely, seizing by the collar a boy who was peering through the picket fence of the doctor's brilliant garden. The boy was dropped trembling upon the office steps, while the big, burly doctor went about among his flowers, cutting a huge bouquet. These he gave the culprit, exclaiming, with equal sternness: "There, take that home and put it into water! Quick! Start your heels!" Then he stood upon the steps, chucking to himself to see the bare legs of the frightened urchin fly up the street.

This garden was Dr. Packard's latest plaything and pride. "No fun in cultivating good ground; nothing to doctor!" he had said when he blasted out the scraggy, worthless limestone ledge, cropping out in his office door-yard, filled in rich soil and made the ledge gay with vigorous, blooming flowers. Roses a dillies, pansies and fuchsias, feverfews and hollyhocks, geraniums and heliotropes, phloxes and sweet-williams, verbenas and carnations, morning-glories, climbing over the door of his office, and sweet peas and nasturtiums, winding in and out the low fence—all responded to his cares and blossomed with a perfection and an abundance rarely seen. Nature was in her most grateful mood.

Here it was his delight to startle and to reward the children who were drawn to the spot by their love of flowers. He would rise up unexpectedly from behind the hedge of vines and demand in awful tones: "Does your mother like plants? Well, take her that, you scamp," giving the boy a pink or geranium or fuchsia, and added in still sharper, gruffer tones: "And see to it that you bring back the pot!" If the boy was not too frightened and did not run away, leaving the pot on the door-step, his courage was rewarded with yet another plant.

One day in June the doctor was out, walking up and down his garden paths, pulling up a weed here, picking off a faded blossom there and looking with keen pleasure at many a lovely flower. Glancing up suddenly from his bed of perpetual roses, he saw a young girl looking wistfully over the fence.

"What flowers do you like best, my child?" he asked, with a curious change from his usual brusque tone.

"Oh, roses, sir," she answered. "They are the loveliest of all, I think. We have a yellow rose that climbs up to the eaves of our house, and another white one that comes up to my window, and many pink ones out in the garden. But they live out all winter, and are not like those," she said, nodding towards the doctor's roses.

"Come in and see them," said the doctor, "and go around all you like."

The young girl thanked him and went quietly around, touching some of the flowers gently, faintly smelling the perfume of many and noticing each. But she stood longest by the rose-bed. The delicate color came and went in her cheeks, and her pretty blue eyes shone with excitement and delight.

Doctor Packard watched her silently while he went from bed to bed, cutting many blossoms. These he gave to her. Her eyes opened wide with surprise. She thanked him gravely but simply while her happy face spoke yet more eloquently. As she turned to pass out the gate the doctor called to her.

"Wait a moment, here, take this rose. I grew it from a seed. It won't blossom for me, perhaps it will for you. Give it a good chance. Let me see the flower when it comes. And here's a book," he continued, "that will tell you how to feed it."

Turning to go again, the girl saw a gray-haired, bent man on the other side of the street, walking slowly.

"Oh, Father!" she called, "see what beautiful flowers I have, and a new rose, too! The doctor gave them all to me."

Mr. Carter's grave face lighted up as he stepped across the street.

"Indeed they are beautiful, my child. The doctor knew what would please you best. Let me carry the rose for you. It will get good care, sir," he added, turning to Dr. Packard.

"This is your girl, Joe?" asked the doctor.

"Yes, this is my Lucy, the last of the six," he answered, a tender, sad smile passing over his features.

"Better set her out in the garden. Throw away her books! Let her dig; let her make mud-pies again! Keep her out-of-doors! Let her come in only to eat and sleep!" said Dr. Packard with a threatening scowl, quickly followed by a nod and a laugh toward Lucy.

"This will be a nice place for my rose," said Lucy to her father that evening.

"I've made a little hollow right here in my own bed, so that the wind can't blow the pot over, and then, too, I won't forget to water it when close beside my mignonette and heliotrope. Three sweet flowers all in a row! Won't it be lovely when the rose blossoms, for I am sure it will; and, Mother, see! I can see it the first thing in the morning right out of my own window."

Mrs. Carter sat on the porch knitting, but her eyes followed fondly the slight figure of her child as Lucy ran around from bed to bush, and the mother answered with gentle smiles the girl's enthusiastic outbursts of delight in her newest treasure. Mr. Carter drove a long stake down beside the new rose and tied it securely while Lucy eagerly watched every movement.

"Oh! I am sure of a blossom soon, dear Father; and what color do you suppose it will be? Pink or red, I hope. And what color, velvet heart! We all like that color best, don't we?" she asked, turning affectionately to each parent, while the pale face shone with innocent delight and anticipation.

Then she picked a large bunch of the hardy roses which the modest garden grew, and, sitting down beside her mother, began to arrange them.

"When I am a little larger and stronger—I am a good deal stronger than I was, am I not, dear Mother?" she interposed, sitting up very erect for the moment.

Not waiting for an answer, she went on breathlessly—"When I am older I am going to spend all my time growing flowers. You'll give me more beds, Father, and I will sow the seeds and tend and water them, oh, so carefully! I'll have many, many roses out here in the garden, and then in the winter I'll have the tea and the hybrid roses, Dr. Packard's book tells about, in the house. I can grow many of them from a few roots which I can buy for the first start, you know."

"Then I'll sell them and their blossoms. I have heard ever so many people say that they wished there was some place in the village where flowers could be bought, and Mrs. Browne, you know, sent to Boston for roses for her party. I could sell roses for such things, and make up lovely bouquets. Then I'll give all the money to you, Father, and help you pay Mr. Browne the money you owe him. When I had earned enough, perhaps, I could have a little glass house right here, and then I could grow more flowers, and we three would live together always in this little house and be so happy, and my roses would help you both. I am sure my new rose will blossom, and with it I am going to begin being useful."

Lucy smiled to herself over the rose-embowered castle-in-Spain, and burying her face in the cluster of roses said, with a sigh of childish ecstasy: "They are like a glimpse of Heaven!"

The few hundred dollars, which Lucy's father had as yet been unable to pay on their cottage, was the source of constant worry and trouble to both her father and mother. Industrious and saving, they had always been burdened too heavily to succeed. Narrow means had always been their lot, and illness and grief their frequent guests. From a little toddling child Lucy had shown a sweet, thoughtfulness for them, and had been companion and comforter in a measure far beyond her years. She was full of childish delights and games, yet the visions of caring for her parents in the coming years were often before her and made her sad and grave.

The summer days passed by quickly, and Lucy's rose grew luxuriantly. The tall stalks were covered with abundant leafage, but there were no blossoms. But Lucy's care and faith did not waver, and when the frosty nights of late October came her father transplanted the rose into a larger pot and brought it into the house. Lucy's daily watching and tending it, and the rose tree spread its green leaves and drank in the sunshine and the warmth all through the snowy weather, but gave no grateful response of bud or flower.

Its gentle care-taker did not thrive so. A slight cold taken in early October could not be shaken off. The sorrowful father and mother watched her daily failing and slipping from their loving grasp. The delicate flush on the cheek deepened into a crimson, the white skin grew yet whiter and the slender figure drooped like a faded flower. Dr. Packard visited the house daily and sadly shook his head.

"Lack of vitality, Joe. Nothing to build on. Too much soil, too little body. I—I cannot save her!" But with Lucy Dr. Packard was always jolly, and made her bedside merry with jests and bright with flowers. She confided to him her hopes, her faith in her rose and her visions and plans, which grew brighter as her own sweet life ebbed away. To please her, the doctor bought a rough plain of a little green-house and made out a list of plants and flowers for her to begin with.

The rose-tree stood in Lucy's room and she spent hours gazing at its fresh green boughs. With the doctor's help she cut off many slips and pleased herself trying to root them in boxes of sand, calling them her rose's little children.

Slowly but surely she came. It was a warm May morning. The chamber was filled with the song of birds and the perfume of the apple-blossoms floating in at the window. A light breeze fluttered the leaves of the rose-tree. Suddenly Lucy rose up in bed, exclaiming: "Oh, Father! Oh, Mother! See! see the roses! Red blossoms on my own rose!" A slight gasp followed, and the sobbing parents knew that the soul of their child had blossomed into immortal beauty.

After Lucy's death life in the cottage was outwornly the same. Wearily the father went to his work, more bent and grave in aspect. Silently the mother performed her household tasks and gathered about the summer evenings in their garden. The flowers their child had loved were remembered one by one; but the barren rose received the tenderest care. It was as luxuriant as ever but had ceased growing almost entirely, while the rose's children, the cuttings Lucy had planted, took vigorous root and grew so rapidly that they bade fair to outstrip the mother-plant.

The autumn came at last and the roses were again sheltered in the house. No promise of buds was given, but the lonely father and mother could not part with their child's rose.

One evening in the early summer of the next year the father said with trembling lips: "Look! there are buds on our Lucy's rose!" Slowly the odds grew, and when at length the perfect rose unfolded what a glorious one it was! Deep, dark-red with leaves of richest velvet, and magnificent in size and fragrance.

And after that perfect, until the rose tree was covered in radiant beauty, as if all the love and care that had been bestowed on it had turned into a garland.

Mr. Carter joyously cut some of the largest flowers to carry to Dr. Packard. As he went with them a hard-featured man stopped him.

"Oh! I say, Carter," said Mr. Browne, "you'll have to pay the rest of that mortgage soon. I think I've been pretty patient—it must be seven years or more that it's been running. Business is business, you know, and I want the money to use."

The sight of the bunch of roses was now like a stab to the father's heart. How to raise the money he knew not. Blinded and benumbed he stumbled into Dr. Packard's door.

"Lucy's roses," he said, brokenly, and sank into a chair and hid his face in his hands.

"These roses grow here?" demanded a hearty voice. "They are magnificent! Such color! Such form! Got any more like 'em?"

"Yes," absently answered Mr. Carter; "the bush is covered with them."

"Good! I must see them," and before the amazed father knew it, he was standing the way home with Dr. Packard, and the stranger following.

"This is truly wonderful," said the stranger, who was a friend of Dr. Packard's and a city florist. "I want to buy it."

"I cannot sell my child's rose," answered the father.

"If our child were here and could speak she would be eager to sell it," said the mother, who had stood silently by.

"You know her dearest wish was that her rose should help us. We love the rose for the blessed memories. It brings us back to her always."

"You have several young plants," of this same rose?" asked the florist.

"Yes, about twenty," replied Mr. Carter.

"Well, I'll give you fifteen hundred dollars for those, and you send me all the cuttings that you can make grow, and you can keep the bush. But, understand, you are not to give away or sell a single cutting. My right is exclusive." So it was settled. Mr. and Mrs. Carter still live in "Rose Cottage," as it is called. Lucy's roses bloom everywhere in the neat door-yard. The dark red flowers are freely given away, although a cutting can be parted with; and never a sick-room in the village but has its bouquet, carried there by Lucy's gentle mother.

Dr. Packard's garden still flourishes, and he still frightens the ever-increasing number of small children with his old energy; while on the florist's counters are seen large, glowing heaps of the Lucy Rose, the favorite of the world of fashion and wealth.

IMPRESSIONS OF DeQUINCEY.

When first I read a passage from DeQuincey in a collection of miscellaneous essays I felt a necessity to close the book for a while in order to adjust my mind to his peculiar manner of expression. I thought, here is a writer with whom I must become acquainted; a writer invested with a high literary power, who launches at once into an ocean of thought and is apparently unconcerned whether he goes or where he ends. I saw before me a man of exquisite bearing, with an eye that pierces deeply into the hidden secrets of social life, with an ear singularly acute in its detection of unfinished paragraphs. There was a full assurance of a wide and comprehensive mind in the very first passage I read, so firm was the expression, so masterly the diction. But utterly unable to gauge the real power of the writer, and to approach his point of view, I was at last obliged to turn to some other of the essays where the writer not only exhibited the object aimed at, but held in plain sight the gun out of which the projectile would appear.

This first impression of DeQuincey was indeed profound. I longed to understand better and to feel with more vividness the presence of the man, and to be able to define the peculiar qualities of his genius. I perceived something spiritual, something philosophical and critical in almost every line; and together with these distinct qualities there was some subtle essence far too refined to measure, pervading the whole. This was like a fine mist that escapes the hand, but yet can be felt when blown by the wind against the face. To feel this mist, then, speaking metaphorically, it was necessary to pass on rapidly into DeQuincey's works. But when I saw more than twenty volumes, the solid projection of this man's mind, lying in a row upon a shelf, my first and most natural impulse was to abscind, lest, in removing the first volume the whole series would come tumbling down upon my head. Like a boy first experimenting in a chemical laboratory, I was eager to open the mysteries of these stored forces, to know the range of their power, but afraid of a disaster, or at least of getting my fingers burnt. And so with great caution, and with all the power of discrimination I could command I selected from the extensive writings one volume which appeared to contain no subjects essentially philosophical, theological, or political. Here I did not look for an exposition of DeQuincey's erudition, but simply for a free display of his powers as a literary artist, and clue to his character as a man.

To read DeQuincey with entire appreciation one should walk into a quiet grove where only a gentle breeze plays far among the tops of the trees, where the stirring world of events is banished by distance. Here, freed from all distractions, you may taste the peculiar charm of his meditations. The swell and flow of his thought, the slow rhythm of his phrases, keeps time with the majestic sway of the tall trees. So unheeded will the hours slip by, that nothing but the sun itself will call you home—unless, indeed, it is a cramp from long sitting, or a flashing remembrance of a dinner or supper awaiting you.

DeQuincey is not altogether considerate of your time. Much as he himself values this dearest of all possessions, he aimed never to condense his thought—not even for the mere sake of utility, but ever to expand it. His reverberation of a single idea will often run his imagination into speculations of unwonted length. He seems never to exhaust a subject. In his handling it rebounds in fresh angles, twists and whirls, always ascending into a higher, more etherized element. You know not whether you are going, neither does he himself see any boundaries beyond. You do not feel that all he offers at the end of his chapter he had when he began; but just the opposite. He looks into a wild region of possibility and spontaneously creates whilst he advances. His intellect is an engine of tremendous vigor, and his subtle power of analysis and refined perception of truth and analogy lead him always into the more remote and intricate branches of every subject in hand. But however wide and extravagant his digressions, however partial his treatment of his subject, one could not well say, "My dear DeQuincey, I would that you were more considerate of my time," but with more truth of heart one would say, "My dear sir, I never enter into communion with your bounteous and impassioned thought, but I am enriched in mind and uplifted in spirit, and it is with great reluctance that I take leave of your chapter."

One faculty DeQuincey has of keeping the deepest subject out of the mire of dull discussion. He somehow saves himself from becoming tedious in instances where all progress seems to depend upon sheer intellectual power and scholarship. The very vivacity of his argument would seem sufficient to keep the student alive to all the changing forms of opinion and revolving aspects of the truth. But it is not altogether the vivacity and heat of the intellect that sustains the interest of the reader; it is somewhat through the communication of some rare personal quality of the writer revealed in his style that carries the reader along with such constancy. The language has much the spirit and intensity of high poetic expression, and therefore must captivate. It is not enough to have an idea and get it expressed, but also to see that the manner of expression embodies one's highest ideal of excellence. This evidently has been the guiding rule of DeQuincey's, and from his own confession we learn that he never wrote with ease or rapidly however buoyant and spontaneous his thought, but proceeded only by intense labor, often spending long intervals upon the construction and recasting of a single sentence. Durability and excellent finish ought certainly to result from such a method of procedure. But we are told by Professor Hill in "Our English" that "DeQuincey's rhetorical flights—admirable in their way as they are—find more critics than readers nowadays." Undoubtedly DeQuincey indulged his talent and power in this way far too much. But he argued that, in its degree, the artifice and machinery of rhetoric afforded a legitimate basis for intellectual pleasure as any other. What ever may be said of his excess in this respect we are sure that the beauty and richness of his thought and the unsurpassed wealth of his language will not be cast into oblivion simply because his style is now so varied with the models of today. And it is a question with some whether the present standard of style is established upon principles no longer to fluctuate. People demand a plain, conversational tone in writing as though it were amply adapted to the very highest purposes of art. Imagine one conversing in the language of Milton! We are told to subordinate manner to matter, which is excellent advice; but DeQuincey shows us instances where the manner and matter are one. "A man," he says, "who has absolute facts to communicate from some branch of study external to himself, as physiology, or anatomy, or astronomy is careless of style; or, at least, he may be so, because he is independent of style, for what he has to communicate neither readily admits, nor much needs, any graces in the mode of communication; the matter transcends and oppresses the matter."

But he who has to treat a subject, such as Cicero called questio infailli, where everything is to be finished out of his own peculiar feelings, or his own way of viewing things (in contradistinction to a questio infailli where determinate data from without, already furnished the main materials) soon finds that the manner of treating it not only affects, but varies, and in a very great proportion, is the matter."

We see that the proper function of style is to shed the peculiar qualities of the writer's thought; and that in proportion to the writer's compass of diction and skill in finding true expression for his thought will be found those intrinsic and inevitable qualities which are purely individual. No one would willingly barter his own individuality for the seeming advantage of possessing through imitation the peculiar excellence of another's style; for even success in this imitation would result in producing not the artistic but the artificial.

The faults of DeQuincey's method of dealing with a subject are especially conspicuous to those who are exacting in their requirements of a writer. After announcing the ground where he intends to take you, he proceeds to investigate the country for miles and miles around, and when he has made you acquainted with vast stretches of country you never dreamed of, when you have crossed muddy streams, gotten over fences, leaped ditches, climbed hills, and have been brought before the most impressive and glorious of prospects—prospects that will linger on your memory to the end of your days—you are then treated through a long, tedious, and uninteresting starting ground, perhaps fatigued, but at any rate too full to stop for any consideration of the particular point in view. To an impatient reader this course is far from satisfactory. As for myself in many respects I am satisfied. DeQuincey labors as much to supply omissions and to correct errors as he does to give direct light on a subject; and since the direct light which at the outset we expect can be had perhaps from various other sources we ought to feel particularly grateful for the light offered us, which, indeed, is given as a special privilege.

What DeQuincey says of philosophy is surely true with regard to his own writings. "The purpose of philosophy," he says, "is not so much to accumulate positive truths in the first place, as to rectify the position of the human mind, and to correct its mode of seeing."

A much better test of a sound philosophy than the number of the premises and conclusions which it proposes, is the quality of those which it proposes. By raising the station of the spectator, it will bring a region of new inquiry within his view."

DeQuincey's literary power is shown perhaps at the best advantage in his geographical writings. Even where he is long and painful, witty and sarcastic, the fibre of his intellect is never relaxed; and as a result the reader is constantly stimulated to finer thought. His essays on Shakespeare, Pope, Lamb, Wordsworth, Dr. Parr, and Conversation are among the richest productions in English prose.

MILBENEDICT.

Two kinds of lamp-chimneys: one breaks; the other does not. Which do you think your grocer or glassman would rather sell?

If you buy the breaker, you're buying all the time. If you buy the not-breaker, he may not live to sell you another. You know him—which do you think he'd rather you'd buy?

The one that doesn't break is called the "pearl-top" and looks like this  the top of it; made by Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh.

A Letter From Druggist Keyes.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

As a druggist and a citizen of Newton, I wish to express to you my feelings and make a statement in reference to my position regarding the action of the so-called Law and Order League of Abundant.

In Oct. '82, I came to this place and entered the employ of Mr. C. Sargent Bird, who then carried on the drug business in the same building now occupied by the writer. After a clerkship of some three years, I purchased Mr. Bird's interest here, and since that time have conducted the business in my own name. It has been my intention from the first to conduct my business in a straightforward and legitimate manner; whether or not I have done so I leave to the judgment of every fair and unprejudiced person who knows anything about the subject, to decide. It is strange, however, that there are a few in every community who stand ready to stigmatize an apothecary as a "rum seller," "the vendor of a nefarious traffic," etc., even before the reins of government are well in his hands or he has had the opportunity to assert himself. It should be understood that an apothecary must, by reason of his duty, have to do with alcoholic spirits so long as he remains in the business. Liquids containing a greater or less per cent. of alcohol are used almost entirely as a menstruum for extracting and holding in solution the active principles of the majority of drugs used by the medical profession. The same holds true of kind and the intoxicating principle of all liquors. It is deemed unnecessary to refrain from the use of drugs as a person is found to require them, and yet the judicious use of drugs is turned into the abuse of them in some instances.

It is a necessity that there should be a place in every community where the public can obtain drugs and medicines. It is also necessary for the public good that there be a place where liquors can be obtained. No one thinks of depriving an apothecary—providing he is a competent one—of the use and sale of drugs and medicines. Why then should he not be allowed the right to the sale of alcoholic for proper purposes. Few persons realize the responsibility placed upon the apothecary. He has to meet the demands of all classes of people. The public deem him an imperative necessity when they are in need of his services or goods, and wonder why he does not stay in his store 24 hours in every day and 365 days in every year; but if he makes a mistake, be it in the substitution of one drug for another, or if through any misrepresentation, or otherwise, he sells liquor to one who is afterwards found to have abused it, then he is fallen upon with all the fury and fire of war—nothing is too bad to say about him, no epithet too mean to apply to him.

Are not druggists men? and is it not to be presumed that they are endowed with as much intelligence as the average man following other lines of business? Why then should they not be treated with the same fairness with which other men are treated? Is it less reasonable to suppose that an apothecary will not sometimes be the victim of deception.

I have been called in question for my non-compliance to the letter of the law. It is with the greatest difficulty and inconvenience that any apothecary, however good his intention may be, can conform strictly to the requirements of the present law. It is not practical in every instance. If Mr. A., a man of well known respectability, finds it more convenient to order alcohol, for use in his house, by telephone, shall I say, no; I can't let him have it because he is not here to sign for it? But if I send it to him and he chooses to take advantage of my kindness, I am fued for a breach in the conditions of my license, published as a "rum seller and a disreputable man."

Several months since a Mr. Davidson came to my store, stating that he was a representative of the W. C. T. U., asked for information concerning my business, and if I would let him see my liquor voucher. I handed him the book for his inspection—a thing which I did from courtesy, not from obligation; I answered his questions, talked with him freely upon the subject. On being asked if I made everyone sign the voucher, I told him I did, and that in every instance I did not and I explained my reasons for so doing. Mr. Davidson to all appearances accepted the situation and went away satisfied. Now Mr. Davidson, as one of the prime movers of the local Law and Order League, turns about and uses means to trap me on the very point which I freely and courteously told him I was weak as regards the letter of the law. Is this justice? Is it in the interests of public good? If you please, is this a manifestation of that Christian spirit of which Mr. Davidson would be so wordily an exponent? There is a class of people who complete not only a class of druggists, because as they say, he requires a man of known respectability to sign a voucher, while sometimes others he does not. The contrary appears to be true in this case.

Because I have required the signature of the persons whom I knew little, or whose appearance was questionable, and not in every instance required it of a man of life-long record of temperance or sobriety, I am denounced as a "rum-seller" and a "disreputable man," even brought into court and fined. This is the reward bestowed upon an apothecary for discriminating in his sale of liquors. Perhaps Messrs. Henry, Davidson, etc., would like me to adhere more strictly to the wording of the law, while at the same time, I double or triple my liquor sales! I can do so and these gentlemen cannot help themselves. This, however, I am not disposed to do. I believe there is a moral side to this question, and I am not the man to intentionally injure my brother for pecuniary gain. If I cannot earn a livelihood by fair and honorable dealing in my business, then I will leave or try some other business, more to the ideas of these gentlemen. If the Law and Order League had the good of the community at heart, they ought to give the apothecaries their encouragement and support, rather than do what they can to injure their reputation and business. Because my store happens to be so arranged that my dispensary room is separated from my main store by a partition, and because I chance to have leading off from my laboratory, a neatly fitted up office and library, I can see no just reason why that fact should detract anything from the respectability of my establishment; or because Rev. Mr. Knox, Prof. Bragdon, Mr. Ashenden, or any other gentleman is seen going into or coming from such rooms, it by no means follows that these gentlemen have been in to partake of alcoholic spirits. I wish the public to understand, first, that I am a temperance man, not only in principle but in practice, and second, that my laboratory is no bar-room. I have known some people, so two-faced that they will shun my store as though it were a pestilence, "because he sells liquor"; but these same persons are too good to go to a liquor store, buy their liquor and carefully bring it home with them or have it sent to them by express. "Oh, consistency, thou art a virtue." If the Law and Order League desired such evidence as the gentlemanly Mr. Cates of Charlestown furnished them, if they had asked me I might have given it to them at a less cost. While this experience has taught me a life-long lesson, I still contend that the action of the so-called Law and Order League has been wholly unequalled for and unjust; and I am confident that the community will bear me out in my assertion.

Respectfully,
ELLIOT W. KEYES.

FOUR GREAT EXPERIMENTS.

REV. DR. SHINN SPEAKS OF ONE OF THEM IN GRACE CHURCH.

"Four Great Experiments which have been made in this neighborhood, and how they have turned out" is the general title of a course of lectures by the Rev. Dr. Shinn, in Grace Church, on the Sunday evenings during November. The topic of the first, which was delivered Nov. 3rd, was "The Founding of a City after the Model of the Hebrew Commonwealth." The lecturer began by a reference to the historic interest which belongs to the district included within 20 miles of Boston, and then spoke of Newton as being in a sense, a witness of the Four Great Experiments, viz: The Founding of a City after the Model of a Hebrew Commonwealth, The Establishment of a College for the propagation of the Christian Faith as that faith was understood by the Puritans, The Conversion of a Pagan Nation to a Christian, in kind and the intoxicating principle of all liquors. It is deemed unnecessary to refrain from the use of drugs as a person is found to require them, and yet the judicious use of drugs is turned into the abuse of them in some instances.

Much of the first lecture was devoted to the aims of the first settlers of Boston to show that they came with a very definite plan, and that was to put into shape in a new world their experiments in government and religion, the essence of the Christian belief, to form a company of Christian believers coextensive with the state—who should as citizens be governed by the legislation drawn from the Mosaic code of the Old Testament.

After referring to some traits of the Puritan character he proceeded to show that their experiment had failed, and to give reasons for it. In doing this he drew a contrast between the Boston of long ago and the Boston of today, and gave statistics to show how rapidly it is becoming the city of foreigners. The main reasons for the failure of the original experiment were as follows: First their scheme was impracticable because of the very elements of which any city must be composed until the millennium shall dawn. There is no possibility yet of a city of the saints. Then again the Jewish legislation was inapplicable except in its spirit to any other people. The Hebrews had to fulfill a peculiar destiny in preparing for the world's Redeemer and hence one aim of their legislation was to keep them as a people by themselves. But the main reason was the influx of strangers who were not in sympathy with the aims of the founders, especially the coming of the large foreign population of later years.

He closed by saying that we are not to look forward with gloomy anticipations to the future of Boston. The foreign elements, however numerous, are not strong enough to neutralize the beneficent leaven left behind by the Puritans, but they will be moulded by what remains of the old vigor and integrity and moral earnestness of the Puritan character.

As years go on out of these new elements will grow types far better than these which exist now, so that although the Boston of the future will not be what its first settlers hoped to make it—it will be a grand city wherein shall dwell peace and righteousness.

An Hour at the Newton Hospital.

A gentleman in our city says that he had occasion, one day last week, to visit the Hospital to inquire about the admission of a patient. He had quite a time to wait, for the matron and nurses were all busy. Wounds were being dressed, fever patients were being fed and the few convalescents were being made ready to sit up. When the matron could at last be seen she kept stalling away at some work as if she had no time to lose, every minute must be utilized. It required some calculation before she could say positively whether or not the new patient could be admitted, for the beds were nearly all occupied, and some of the doctors had patients whom they wanted to send.

It was quite a perplexity to know how to dispose of that one bed. What if there was an accident case? What if some one's life depended upon being admitted? Only a little while ago a carriage drove up with a typhoid fever patient, and every bed was full. What were they to do? They were to send the patient away, and so they routed one of the younger women out of her bed, giving her a lounge to sleep on, while they placed the poor, weak typhoid patient in this vacated bed.

It is pitiable to know that when there are sick people in our city who need treatment at the Hospital, they cannot be sure of getting it. The success of the Hospital has greatly embarrassed it for when it was started no one thought it would treat more than 50 patients a year. It has averaged 100 for each of three years.

The reputation of its doctors and nurses has gone out far and wide, and numerous private patients, able to pay for their own support, would be glad to come if there was room for them. Perhaps the only necessary to have these facts known and then some of the well to do people in Newton will send word to the treasurer, Mr. Geo. S. Bullen, that they will bear the expense of another ward for private patients.

It need not cost more than $5000. The largest amount of satisfaction anyone could get out of that sum of money would come from putting it into this greatly needed new ward.

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after suffering as I was, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th St., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came from the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Common Sense
Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. A catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common-sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this peculiar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by many testimonials from people who have found relief upon using it when for the cure failed. A book containing statements of cures sent on receipt of two-cent stamp, by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

There is no more fruitful source of disease than vitiated blood. It involves every organ and function of the body, and if not immediately corrected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sooner or later leads to fatal results. Be warned in time.

See What
The well-known manager of excursions to Washington, California, and the White Mountains, L. A. Whitcomb, says: "I have never had anything do me so much good as your Sulphur Bitters. It is the best spring medicine I ever used. I would advise all who suffer from biliousness and dyspepsia to use Sulphur Bitters, or I know they cured me."

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, of application, and one that will reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past obliges us to admit that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms yield to it.

ARE YOU AWARE
That a pure blooded body cannot be diseased or that no-bis can be so charged with tainted secretions that it cannot be entirely disintegrated by fuming it? (while perspiring) in the Compound Vapor? This method has now over 50 years' experience and happy witnesses ready to testify to its efficiency in disintegrating the human system of those elements which defeat the reconstructive work of mother nature. For family protection or public practice it is alike successful. Indisputed evidence furnished by Dr. CONANT, Skowhegan, Maine. Agents wanted in every community.

—The "Lake-side club" held its regular meeting Monday evening, at the residence of M. Scandlin, Walnut street, and sang a delightful hour with Mrs. Browning, church progressed till 10.30. It is an erroneous impression that the club indulges "Nationalism." The vote actually stood 16 to 4 against it at the close of the discussion.

—We hear with pleasure that the Chautauqua lecture here to make arrangements with Mr. Geo. A. Frost to lecture at Newton Highlands at an early date. Those who were unable to hear Mr. Geo. Kenman's recent lectures in Boston will surely embrace this opportunity of hearing Mr. F. who was his companion and photographer in his Siberian travels.

—The meeting of the Lyceum on Wednesday evening was well attended and was of much interest, and many new members were added. The exercises consisted of violin solos by Master Roland Brown of Roslindale, and singing by Mrs. Tewksbury; also debate on the question, "Do wealth and prosperity have a favorable tendency on the morals of the people," which was debated with much animation by several speakers, who held the close attention of the audience to the close.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Bernard Billings removed to his new house on High street this week.

—Rev. Mr. Holman has accepted the call extended him some months ago, by the Baptist church. The arrangements for his installation are not yet perfected.

—A mad dog was about the village Monday and Tuesday dogs belonging to Express man Cahill of Boylston street, snapping at Mr. Bacon, and then bit several cows on Beacon street. Officer Purcell took care of the canine.

—Another paper stated last week that Ward 3 never had a mayor, and it seems strange that the paper in question should have forgotten Mr. J. E. C. Hyde, our first mayor, who was then from Ward 3, although the line has since been changed to enable him to vote in Ward 6.

—A large number interested in organizing a Improvement society met at Quinobeguin Hall, Saturday evening. The business done was to appoint a committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws, to report at the next meeting, which will be held to-night, when the society will organize in due form.

—A petition was presented to the board of health, Monday evening, requesting similar disposal of house offal as in other parts of the city. Up to this time no provision has been made in this respect, and our citizens have at last had to petition the board of health for action. The petition contained the names of our most prominent citizens, and the board has authorized its agent to act in the matter.

—The dogs owned in the neighborhood that have already caused so much mischief, have been at it again this week. The dog belonging to H. A. Sherman, Jr., was again set upon a few weeks since, was again set upon a few nights ago and terribly bitten, the ear being actually torn out, inflicting so serious a wound as to warrant Officer Purcell in shooting it. The animal was a valuable one, especially so at this time, and Mr. Sherman will seek damages from the city. From here the dogs went to Daniel Collins's, and although Mr. Collins had covered his pen since their last attack, the dogs managed to reach the pig and bite it badly. Mr. Collins was aroused and chased away the dogs, one of which he shot.

—Initial steps towards forming a Village Improvement Society were taken Saturday evening by thirty representative men who met in Quinobeguin Hall. A temporary organization was effected by the election of Councilman Frank Hale as chairman.

William Hopkins of the Boston Globe was made secretary and J. W. Mitchell, who read the call for the meeting, was chosen treasurer and Charles Hussey, Oil-Pettie and Dr. Thompson were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws.

Messrs. Pettie, Everett, Ellis, Hussey, Threlfall and others, Charles Hussey, Oil-Pettie and Dr. Thompson were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws.

Messrs. Hopkins and Fanning were instructed to post a public call for the next meeting which will be held this Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Ladies will be cordially welcomed by the new society.

—On Wednesday evening of last week Mrs. Prudence C. Bass, widow of the late Moses Bass of Boston, after an illness of a few weeks, passed quietly away at her home on Summer street. She had reached the advanced age of 87 years, 11 months.

Although her strength had been waning for the past two years her mental faculties remained unimpaired to the last. In the death of Mrs. Bass our village suffers a great loss. She was a friend to everybody, particularly to those in distress, and the number of people who have been the recipients of her thoughtful attention and attentions of her bounty are innumerable.

Mrs. Bass was of a retiring disposition and her good deeds were performed in such an unassuming manner they could but carry with them the conviction that they were the promptings of a kind and loving heart.

Fifty years ago she united with the First Baptist church in Boston, now located on Commonwealth street. She had been in this village thirty years ago and has worshipped regularly in the Baptist church at Upper Falls, though she never severed her connection with her early church home.

With her characteristic thoughtfulness, she made careful preparations for the end of life which she fully realized was close at hand, and when the summons came she was ready to go. There was nothing left for the friends to do but to see that the plans so explicitly made were carried out.

Her funeral was attended at her late home, last Saturday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. T. W. Whitman of Andover, former pastor of the Baptist church here. A quartet, composed of Mrs. W. R. Dresser, Mrs. J. A. Gould, Jr., and Messrs. Newell and Easterbrook, rendered in an acceptable manner the appropriate hymns "Gathering Home" and "Abide with me."

The casket, covered with beautiful flowers, the offerings of loving friends, was borne to Newton center, where it was laid in state in the parlors of the hotel, and the pastor in his closing remarks, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

OUR TEETH.

AND WHAT IS SEEN IN A DENTAL OFFICE.

In the far gone days of our ancestors, when man became so unfortunate as to lose his teeth it was believed that he had run his allotted course. He had become old, his days of usefulness were over, the loss of teeth had caused, his cheeks, which were once a mark of healthfulness and beauty, to fall in and the next step was his downward descent. But as the earth keeps revolving on its axis, civilization reveals new light to us that we may seek knowledge, and to such an extent has the science of dentistry been carried the substitution of art for nature, that it matters not whether man has his own teeth which were given him or not, for to-day, those who are so unfortunate as to lose their teeth can for a very few dollars make good any deficiency.

Dr. Young, whose name will be readily called to mind, has been long recognized as a very skillful Operative, Mechanical and Surgeon Dentist, by all who have needed his services, and to him is due praise for his success in carrying the art of making artificial teeth to such perfection that he can not only supply sets in the space of four hours and at a very low figure, but he will give a written guarantee that each and every set will give perfect satisfaction and is made purely of the best rubber and teeth.

It may be well to mention here that Dr. Young, of 23 Tremont street, Boston, only uses his own Imperial Stenon Rubber, which is made expressly for him and cannot be procured elsewhere. The gold suction air-chamber which he claims keeps the mouth cool and free from irritation, which so often occurs at the roof of the mouth to those who are obliged to wear artificial teeth, is meeting with wonderful success. Those who are now wearing teeth can have one of those air chambers inserted by making their old sets over again and it costs only a trifle. He also claims that a plate with one of those gold air chambers inserted will never drop down in the mouth. What a blessing to some people this will be.

Dr. Young works with the latest and most improved instruments in every discharge of his duty and though he is hard at work inserting artificial teeth, making all kinds of crown and bridge work, and extracting and filling teeth from morning till night, pain is something entirely unknown in his office.

One goes in with a fragment of a very poor natural set given to pains and aches, and he comes forth with a beautiful set, fitting as perfectly as if nature had placed them in his mouth, warranted to wear as long as he has occasion to use them, and free from all possibility of pain or ache. Teeth filling in any of its varieties in gold, silver or cement is done at Dr. Young's with the utmost expedition and skill and at a price astonishingly reasonable. If you need any of these attentions such as a dentist can give, it will be satisfaction in your heart, money in your pocket, and good teeth in your head to call upon him.

COMMONWEALTH SOAP CO.,

This soap will absolutely wash any clothing perfectly clean without rubbing in fifteen to twenty minutes, by using it according to directions on each package. It will make the clothes white every time they are washed. It will not injure the fine fabric or strength of the clothes, nor skin of the most tender hands. For washing woolen goods and fine laces it is not surpassed. It will remove grease spots and paint from carpets, clothing and any kind of goods, cotton, silk or woolen. It will restore colors in silk, cotton or woolen goods. For washing floors, oil clothes, marble, slate or tile, and cleaning paint it has no superior. For cleaning gold and silverware, and scouring brass and tin, it has no equal. It is most excellent disinfectant.

—Rev. Mr. Spaulding closed his very interesting course of lectures on Rome at the Channing chapel on Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance in spite of the rain.

—Sunday, Nov. 24th, is Hospital Sunday. Collections are asked in all the Newton churches on that day, or on some other convenient Sunday. Last year about $2200 were contributed.

—The Rev. J. A. Evans, the general missionary agent of the New England Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Zion church, is in Newton collecting aid for the above named conference.

—If you will remember the boys at Pine Farm this year and send them something for their Thanksgiving dinner a day or two before hand, you will enjoy your own turkey with its fixings ever so much better.

—Fraulein Cordmann of Wellesley College will meet her class in German on Monday, Nov. 18, between 3 and 4 o'clock p. m., at the house of Mrs. H. C. Hardon, 28 Cooper street, Newton. All who would like to join the class are invited to be present.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. Arthur Hallett, Page of Newton, now representing Perry Mason & Co. in New York, to Miss Mina Smith of St. Paul, daughter of the present mayor. The marriage will probably take place about New Year's.

—The November meeting of the Wheaton Seminary Club was held in Boston last Saturday, and Honeysuckle and Home Making were the topics of discussion. Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Miss Lucy Larcum and Mrs. Lincoln were among those present.

—Mr. Tripp, a member of No. 1 Engine Company, who was married a few weeks since, was remembered by a few of his friends. The couple were married on Wednesday evening last and presented with a very handsome clock. Engineer Judkins making the presentation speech.

—The street railway men appeared near the square Wednesday morning and began digging up the centre of the street, preparatory to laying the rails. Their progress attracts much attention and there are many inquiries as to the date when cars will begin to run.

—Mr. W. F. Moore of Everett will give his very interesting "Chalk Talk" on the subject of the Young Men's Christian Association at 4 p. m., Sunday, in Eliot Lower Hall. Mr. Moore's illustrations drew a large audience at 3 p. m. in Tremont Temple, last Sunday.

—Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Thomas Weston and family, the result of bereavement by the death of their daughter Abby, aged 16 years. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, and Rev. Mr. Calkins officiated. There was a very large attendance of friends.

—The scholars of the Newton High school, feeling the great necessity of a reference library, are circulating a subscription paper to raise funds for this object. The scholars are much inconvenienced by the lack of reference books, and it is hoped that the aid and support of this worthy cause by the citizens of Newton.

—Aban Trowbridge & Co. have rented the Richards house, No. 40 Carlton street, to Mr. W. F. Rand of Wellesley Hills; also the house northeast corner of Washington and Thornton streets to J. J. O'Shea; also the northwest apartment of the Renton block, Church street, to Mr. Powers of So. Boston.

—Mr. Charles F. Rogers of Sargent street has bought out the real estate business of the late Charles F. Rand, and will continue it in the same location in Brock's new block. Mr. Rogers was in business here for so many years that it will seem quite natural to see him established so near his former store, and he knows the city so well that he is sure to succeed in his new business.

—The voters of Wards One and Seven should turn out at the caucuses Saturday night and show their interest in city affairs by selecting five of the best men in each ward for delegates to the city convention. Local affairs are of much more importance to every voter than national politics, as the former affect directly their pocket books, and the caucuses should be largely attended.

—Vesper service at the Channing church next Sunday, Nov. 17, at 7:30. An attractive selection of music has been arranged. Beautiful solos will be sung by Mr. Burnett, tenor, and Miss Stark, alto. Miss Stark's magnificent voice is attracting considerable attention, and a fine future is prophesied for her. Good judges think she has as fine a natural voice as Miss Emma Hayden Eames.

—Notwithstanding the very stormy weather, the second rehearsal of the new vocal society was held with an increased attendance, which speaks well for the outlook of the society. All singers in any part of the city are cordially invited to join this organization. All applications for membership should be addressed to Box 146, Newton, and upon receipt of such applications notice of rehearsals, etc., will be immediately forwarded.

—One member of the school committee from Ward One and one from Ward Seven are to be chosen this year. Mr. Chas. A. Drew, who was chosen to fill out the unexpired term of Dr. Pierce, should, and undoubtedly will, be re-elected, but who is to succeed Dr. Shinn is the question. It will be hard work to find a successor equally well fitted, and active in all that pertains to the best interests of the schools, and the choice should be carefully made.

—There will be an all day meeting in Eliot Lower Hall, Thursday, Nov. 21st '89, under the auspices of the Newton branch of "The Christian Alliance" in connection with the local branches in and about Boston.

Services at 9:30 a. m., and 7 and 7 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

—The first of the series of subscription recitals to be given at the residence of Mr. Carlyle Petersilea the coming winter took place on Thursday evening of this week. Mr. Petersilea was assisted by Mrs. Carlyle Petersilea, Mr. Willis E. Nowell, and Miss Milo Benedict. The program consisted of the Kreutzer Sonata of Beethoven, played by Messrs. Petersilea and Nowell, Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques, Op. 13, arranged for 2 pianos and played by Mrs. Petersilea and Mr. Benedict, and two shorter pieces for violin and piano, the Bach aria from the suite in D, and a Chanson Polonoise by Wieniawski, played by Mr. Nowell and Mrs. Petersilea. Lack of space forbids extended notice of the program, but it was one which gave rare enjoyment to those fortunate enough to be present.

—The barn on the estate of Mr. Dexter D. Bowman, Nonantum Hill, near the Brighton line, was burned to the ground, Friday evening, with its contents, consisting of a wagon, 5 sleighs, 15 tons of hay and a quantity of farming tools. An alarm was rung in from box 871 in the Brighton district and the fire apparatus from that place answered the call and reached the conflagration a short time before the arrival of Chief Bixby and engine 1 of this city. The fire was extinguished, but at once, but the flames could not be arrested as there was no water in the vicinity and the spray from the chemical proved futile. The loss on the building is estimated at about $1200; on contents, $1000, insured.

—The first meeting of the Channing Literary Class was held Tuesday evening in the Channing church parlors, and the attendance was so large that the supply of chairs was exhausted, but more have since been printed and can be secured at the Misses Parker's. The subject was Tennyson, and Rev. Mr. Hornbroke gave the introductory remarks on the life and works of the poet, after which readings of several poems with discussion followed. Sir Galahad and The Dream of Fair Women were read by Rev. Mr. Spaulding; The Grandmother by Mrs. May Brown; The Spotted Letter by Mrs. J. F. Finner Brown, and the Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington and the Defence of Lucknow by Rev. Mr. Hornbroke. The first meeting was a very successful one and the course promises to be very popular.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Neff celebrated informally their golden wedding at their residence on Richardson street, last Saturday. A number of friends called during the day and evening and offered congratulations and good wishes. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful floral offerings and gifts useful and ornamental. Among others who called upon the occasion of the anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Shinn, D. D. Mrs. Henry Bates, Madame Linder, Mr. S. Wells Holmes of this city, and other friends from Boston and elsewhere. Telegrams and letters were received from those at a distance unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Neff were married in Nashua, N. H., Nov. 10, 1839, by the late Rev. Samuel Osborn, D. D. Mrs. Neff is the daughter of Maj. Turner Crocker, who served with distinction in the war of 1812, under Gen. Winfield Scott. In the days of her early womanhood she engaged in the corset business in Boston and acquired a national reputation, being the first importer of French corsets and the first noted American manufacturer in the East. She continued in the business nearly 50 years. A quarter century ago she was afflicted with an accident, which resulted in permanent lameness. For the past 6 years she has been unable to walk. Her brother commanded the marriage of the young couple in his famous encounter with the Abnema, and her son, who enlisted in the 3d Mass., was reported among the "missing" after the battle of Spotsylvania. Mr. Neff, who also enlisted in the 3d Mass., in the Newton campaign, came home after 9 months' absence, his sight seriously affected and he is now nearly blind. Mr. and Mrs. Neff first came to Newton to reside about 30 years ago, and lived in the city for a few years, and later again came to Newton about 15 years since, where they have since resided with the exception of 3 years, spent at Hingham.

The Pomroy Home.

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Rebecca Pomroy Newton Home for the aged will be held at the Home, on Hovey street, Saturday, Nov. 16, at 3:30 p. m. From 2:30 until 3:30 the Home will be open for inspection, together with some specimens of the girls' handiwork. Donors to the home are cordially invited.

—Loyalty lodge of Good Templars is increasing in numbers very rapidly at the present time. Special attention is paid to the "good of the order," a fine entertainment being furnished every evening. Aside from uniting in a noble object, all who become members will find it a pleasant and profitable place to spend an evening. All interested in the promotion of the temperance cause can materially assist us in our work by becoming members of Loyalty lodge. Ours is practical work, and should have the support of all interested in the great cause. Any desirous of becoming a member will confer a favor by sending their name to W. H. Rand.

—The Boston Sunday Gazette says that Mr. George A. Field has the sympathy of his friends in that he has had the unfortunate honor to be drawn upon the jury. Newton men would perhaps accept this fate with somewhat more grace were they not forced to go either to Cambridge or Lowell to serve.

AUSTIN STREET EXTENSION.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE PROJECTED WORK.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

The importance of a straight road from Newtonville to West Newton, south of the railroad, as per the petition of ex-Mayor Kimball and many others, is by some of the petitioners deemed so great as to request its publication, with the names asking for it.

The hope is, that the Boston & Albany road will, on condition that the crossing at Greenwood avenue is given up, take the road over their rails to Washington street, at their own expense, the benefits of which to both the railroad and the city can hardly be over-estimated. And if then, in the future, which we anticipate, Austin street should be continued to Chestnut street, west, and Bowers street should be extended through the vacant land east to Church street, all the villages would become connected by carriage road without crossing the rails: From Newton to Newtonville, through Church and Bowers streets; from Newtonville to West Newton, through Austin street; from West Newton to Auburndale, through Auburn street; thence to the Lower and Upper Falls to the Centre, and through Centre street back to Newton, affording much relief to the most important crossings, and a matter of easy accomplishment, because of benefit to all owners as well as citizens.

THE PETITION.

The petition is as follows, with the signatures:

To his Honor the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Newton:

The subscribers respectfully petition that Austin street, from the point already accepted by the city, be extended west, and accepted by the city, in a straight line to Greenwood avenue, as per the plans submitted by T. H. Carter, which they believe to be of much importance to the city, as providing a nearly straight road between West Newton and Newtonville, south of the railroad.

Chrysanthemum Show.

The annual Chrysanthemum Show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society was held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week in Horticultural Hall, Boston. In a number of features the show exceeded the previous ones, although the display of plants in pots was not up to last year's standard. The hall, which was partially destroyed by fire, has been well fitted up, and it was arranged with flowers and plants in a happy manner. In dark days or evenings it is lighted with electric lights, which are a vast improvement over the gas lights which they superseded. The society has spared no pains to make the show a success, and great credit is due to those in charge for their untiring labors and good arrangements. Those who are lovers of harmonious blending of colors should go in the gallery over the upper hall, for there one could see as fine a panorama of distinct, in shades of color, as could be seen in any other show. The society offers prizes to the amount of nearly $600. On entering the lower hall the first exhibit is that of E. Fewkes & Son. This display is superb and was awarded the Josiah Bradley plate. At the other end of the hall there was the extensive display of John Simpkins (also cut blooms); some of them measured seven inches in diameter, but in the writer's opinion their quality was sacrificed to their size. Perhaps the most striking display was from Galvin Bros., who showed flowers of the Jardin des Plantes and W. H. Lincoln, both deep yellows abounding in color; Mrs. Alpheus Hardy, pure white, about which there was such a furor when it was first introduced and for the stock of which Mr. A. Mania is said to have paid $1500; Kioto, a rich yellow, different in form and shade from the two before mentioned; Chillingford, an intense deep crimson red. All of these were distinct and characteristic of their variety.

The first prize for twenty plants was awarded to Walter Hunnewell, whose plants were good in variety and well grown.

Some chrysanthemums are grown as standards, having their heads high in the air and showing the long spindling stems but their beauty is questionable, except when placed so that the stem is hidden. Messrs. E. Fewkes & Son and A. E. Wood well represented Newton's interest in horticulture and took away a fair share of prizes. Fitcher & Manda of Summit, N. J., showed the orchid Cypripedium Massacrellianum, said to be the only one of its kind in existence—a hybrid being—a cross between the Cyp. Specierianum and Cyp. Chantini, and valued at $1000. It is undoubtedly worth that if the name is included in the price.

If you think of buying a house in Boston you should attend the auction at 108 Charles street, Boston, at 12 o'clock noon, next Wednesday, Nov. 20. This house, which is taxed for $13.00, is one of the best built in Boston. It will be open for inspection on Monday and Tuesday from 2 to 4 p. m. The ladies ought to examine it because the arrangements for housekeeping are superb.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL BEFORE THE LOWER BRANCH.

Both branches of the city government met Monday night, the aldermen in extra session to declare the result of the election, and the common council to consider the appropriation bill for 1890.

In the board of aldermen Mayor Burr presided and Aldermen Johnson, Hamblen, Harbach, Chadwick and Tolman were present. A communication was received from the Newton Street Railway company accepting the order granting them a location on Crafts and Washington streets.

BEMIS BRIDGE.

Alderman Harbach read a petition from Dudley H. Bradley, the bondsman of the contractor for Bemis bridge, stating that the contract had been taken for $10,150, and shortly after the work was begun the contractor left and the engineer in charge had done likewise. He had accordingly taken hold of the work and had expended $8,500 for materials and $12,500 for labor, as his accounts would show. He had been at great disadvantage from the unusual height of the water and the bad weather, which had caused great delay to the work, and caused him to build dams, which were overflown and undermined, the banks were also undermined, and yet he had pushed forward the work all in his power, at one time employing a night gang of men, by electric light. He had followed all the suggestions of the city engineer, and had gone ahead with the bridge in spite of the mistake in the estimates of the engineer who estimated for the contract, and in the opinion of competent engineers the bridge could not be duplicated for $15,000 under favorable conditions. He hoped the city council would consider favorably his petition to allow him $2,000 over the contract price; he did not ask them to compensate him for the whole, but a small part of the loss. The bridge was now completed save the pointing of stones now under water, and he asked to have the contract price paid in full as soon as possible and he would give bonds to do the work to the satisfaction of the city engineers as soon as the water would allow. He had not consulted legal advice, but had gone ahead, believing that the city council would take into consideration faithful work and the great disadvantages in the way of weather and high water that he had encountered. Referred to the committee on claims.

The purpose of the petition is that he be paid the amount of the next lowest bid.

The mayor then declared the result of the recent election, no one objecting.

Ezra Hawks and others asked for street lamp on Beacon street, in front of former's residence, there being no light within 500 feet on either side; referred.

Chas. T. Upham for Gen. P. E. Moore of the Salvation Army asked for license to build wooden one-story building on Washington street, next to Woodberry's grocery store, for place for meetings. On motion of Alderman Tolman, who said he knew nothing of the feeling in the ward, in regard to a permanent building for such an organization, the petition was laid on the table.

Mayor Burr appointed Geo. Watson of the Salvation Army a police officer to serve without pay.

BONDS FOR DRAINS.

Alderman Harbach presented an order authorizing the mayor to petition the General Court for authority for the city to issue $200,000 in bonds, for building of drains and culverts, not more than $20,000 to be issued in any one year. Referred to the finance committee.

WATER BONDS.

On motion of Alderman Tolman the city treasurer was authorized to issue, under approval of finance committee, four per cent. water bonds to the amount of $400,000, the amount realized to be used for water construction.

ELECTION EXPENSES.

On motion of Alderman Tolman, $3,000 was transferred from the appropriation for city loans temporary, to that for elections and registration of voters, which had been exhausted by the extra cost of the new system of voting, for apparatus, etc.

D. S. Farnham was granted a license for stable on the corner of Alderman Johnson, on vacant lot near Centre and Beacon streets.

U. W. Sherman was also granted license to build stable on Station street, to be of wood and protected by fire proof paint.

MAD DOGS.

C. A. Wiswall and others of Lower Falls called attention to the mad dog that had passed through that village Nov. 5, and had bitten a number of other dogs, which their owners neglected to chain up or confine, and that these dogs menaced the safety of school children and others. They asked that some disposition be made of these animals.

On motion of Alderman Johnson the petition was tabled, as the matter was to come up later.

Mr. Wm. Seaver of Lower Falls was granted permission to address the board and said that great alarm existed among the parents at Lower Falls, and that tomorrow was the day for the madness to show itself in the bitten dogs, and he hoped some action would be taken to-night.

An order was passed requiring the dogs of John McCourt, Mrs. G. B. Green and Lars Christian Peterson, which had been bitten by the mad dog, to be muzzled for 30 days, and that a special service of the order should at once be made on the persons named.

Alderman Harbach was appointed by the mayor to fill the vacancy on the board of health, after which, at 10.15, the board adjourned.

COMMON COUNCIL.

In the common council, Monday evening, President Bond presided. All the members were present. Papers from the board of aldermen were passed in conference, after which Councilman Hyde moved that action on the appropriation docket for 1890, submitted for the finance committee by Councilman Fenno, be postponed until the next meeting. Discussion ensued, Councilman Luke expressing the belief that it would be better to consider the matter, at least the items over which there was no contest. Councilman Fenno said that it would be necessary to pass upon the items at this meeting of the council in order to bring the appropriation budget before the aldermen at the next meeting. Councilmen Richardson and Hall could see no reason for delay and Councilman Hyde withdrew his motion. It was then voted, on motion of Councilman Luke, to go into a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the appropriation budget. President Bond appointed Councilman Luke chairman of the committee of the whole. On motion of Councilman Fenno, it was voted to consider the items seriatim. In cases where no objection was made, the item to stand approved; in cases where objection was urged the item to lay over. All the items were passed, agreeably to the recommendation of the finance committee with the exception of the following: Board of health, $5500; six permanent drivers of horse carriages, $3250; forty horse and truckmen, $4000; new fire alarm stations, $800; horse, $200; vaccination, $100; July, $400; all the highway department items; evening schools, $1000; general school appropriation, $108,500; water maintenance and water department salaries, $14,800.

The contested items were then considered. The item $5500 for board of health, recommended by the finance committee, as against $7,000 recommended by the several committees, was taken up and after brief discussion the item passed as recommended by the finance committee. The item for six permanent horse drivers brought out considerable discussion. Councilman Fenno moved that the amount recommended by the several committees, $3900, be approved. In support of the motion he said that it was the policy of the fire department to add permanent drivers as rapidly as possible. Last year two permanent men were added, one at Auburndale and one at Newton Centre, with the understanding that Lower Falls should have a permanent driver next year. The fire committee think that the appropriation, as recommended, should pass. The Lower Falls is an important station in the fire service. The city owns unimproved property there and there is a large amount of other valuable property needing protection. The No. 6 hose is the first piece of fire apparatus to reach the Cottage Hospital and the Woodland Park Hotel in case of fire. It is also the nearest apparatus to the city poor house. The efficiency of the fire department is affected by this appropriation and no good reason can be presented against granting the extra amount required for a permanent man for horse No. 6.

Councilman Fenno said that the finance committee in considering the question, saw that it would be necessary to provide an extra horse as well as man. The committee wanted to keep the appropriation down and thought that it would be advisable to wait another year before providing for a permanent man for horse No. 6. The finance committee had been also informed that owing to the proximity of the residences of the members of the horse 6 company that the boxes were answered just as quickly as they would be with a permanent driver. Councilman Moody said that he voted to reduce the item at the meeting of the finance committee, knowing that the members of the company lived very near the horse station and feeling, therefore, that the efficiency of the service would not be materially affected.

Councilman Richardson endorsed Councilman Fenno's view of the case. He said that an extra horse would be required, as the highway department horses in the same building could be used. The chair then put Councilman Fenno's motion and the item, $3900, recommended by the finance committee, was passed.

The item, $900, in the fire department budget, for one extra man for chief, was next considered. This sum, said Councilman Hall, was recommended by the fire committee to provide for additional service required in order to give to permanent members of the fire department leave of absence of 24 hours every month, agreeably to the custom in other cities. It was only just, he added, that the permanent men should be granted such a leave of absence. They were on duty continuously and could only absent themselves by permission of the chief. They were obliged, if granted leave of absence, to put a man in their place at their own expense.

President Bond said that the permanent members of the fire department were paid good salaries in consideration of the large amount of time required in the discharge of their duties. Their salaries were based upon the time required rather than the labor involved. They were also granted a two weeks' vacation without loss of pay. Councilman Hall's motion, that the item $900 stand, was put by the chair and resulted in a tie vote, 6 to 6. The chair voted against the motion and was therefore lost.

On the item for new fire alarm stations, the fire committee recommended an appropriation of $1100 and the finance committee $900. Councilman Richardson moved that the item stand as recommended by the fire committee. The extra $200, he said, was needed for a new box, California street. Councilman Fenno said the extra amount was necessary as the district named was some distance at present from a fire-alarm box. It was voted to pass the item at $900, agreeably to the recommendation of the finance committee. The items, $800 for horse falls called attention to the mad dog that had passed through that village Nov. 5, and had bitten a number of other dogs, which their owners neglected to chain up or confine, and that these dogs menaced the safety of school children and others. They asked that some disposition be made of these animals.

On motion of Alderman Johnson the petition was tabled, as the matter was to come up later.

The chair then put Councilman Fenno's motion and the item, $3900, recommended by the finance committee, was passed.

Mr. Glover, the present water registrar, was a very capable man who deserved recognition for faithful services rendered in the interests of the city.

Councilman Richardson's motion to make the salary $1000 was not seconded and the council voted to pass the salary item recommended by the finance committee, only one vote being recorded in the negative.

THE CITY ELECTION.

The new ballot law causes the nominations for city officials to be made earlier than usual this year, and this is an excellent thing, as it gives the people a chance to think over the candidates and decide who are the men best fitted to take charge of the interests of the city, instead of having to wait until election morning to know for whom they are going to vote. With two sets of candidates in the field this extra time will be of advantage, and will allow of a serious and conscientious consideration of the rival candidates. The best man ought to stand a good chance of winning in every case, and in local contests the majority of Newton voters rightly pay little attention to party lines or to dictation from any quarter.

There will, of course, be more or less of contest for mayor, but as Mayor Burr has only held office one term, he will be re-elected without much opposition, and the Citizens' committee are probably only trying to keep matters in trim for next year, when a new mayor will have to be chosen. Mayor Burr has well earned the customary honor of a re-election, as he has worked hard for the interests of the city, has kept the expenses within the appropriations, and has enforced the laws so vigorously as to make his administration at least equal in that respect of any Newton has ever had. He has given his time generously to the city business, and has been wide awake and progressive in overseeing all the departments. His straightforward course in city affairs has won for him the respect of all who have watched his doings, and even in the few cases where there have been differences of opinion, no one has doubted the honesty and sincerity of his views, nor that he was actuated by a regard for the best interests of the city.

Any city is fortunate when this can be said with truth of its chief official, and we do not think that even his political opponents will put much earnestness into their canvas, as far as the mayor is concerned. The GRAPHIC has usually supported the Citizens' ticket, because it believes in non-partisanship in city affairs and it thinks that the Citizens' convention would do itself credit this year by endorsing Mayor Burr, and this action would also show their regard for the city's interests and would help their campaign next year, when they may have a fair chance of winning.

THE ALDERMEN.

There are likely to be some changes in the Board of Aldermen for another year. It is reported that the Republican candidate in Ward one will be ex-Councilman Lewis E. Coffin, and if Alderman Childs declines a re-nomination, the former will have no opposition to speak of. The ward will certainly be fortunate in having such a representative. In Ward seven Alderman Hamblen will be the Republican candidate, and as he has already proved himself a useful member of the board his re-election is certain. In Ward two Alderman Chadwick, who has served four years, two as councilman and two in the upper branch, says that he has done his duty by the city and will refuse to serve again. He will be much missed, as he has been a faithful attendant and conservative member, but the ward has two excellent councilmen from whom to choose his successor, and Mr. Fenn will probably be chosen and Mr. Wiswell reserved for president of the Council. In Ward three Alderman Tolman declines absolutely to serve again, much to the regret of the ward, as he has been an excellent member. President Bond is marked out for promotion, and will be a worthy successor to Mr. Tolman. In Ward four it seems to be the unanimous opinion that Alderman Johnson must accept another term at least. His success in securing such a favorable street light contract for a term of years is only one instance of his usefulness to the city, and he would be certain of a unanimous election. Ward five will probably send Alderman Pettie again whether he wishes it or not, as the board would hardly be complete without him, and Ward six is so well satisfied with Mr. Harbach that he will also have to come back. The highway committee, to say nothing of other committees and the board of health, could not get along without him. The board is such a satisfactory one as it stands that it would seem to be difficult to improve upon it.

One of the numerous needs of Newton is a Y. M. C. A. building with gymnasium attached, and it is sure to come in time.

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

One of the most interesting contests in the coming election will be over the six members of the school board to be chosen this year—One each in Wards one and seven and two each in Wards five and six.

Mr. Chas. A. Drew, who was chosen to fill out the unexpired term of Rev. Dr. Pierce, will be re-elected without opposition, as he represents the kind of men who are needed on the school board. Mr. Frank J. Hale, the successor of Mr. Frost, also deserves a re-election. This leaves four places which are either vacant or over which there will be a contest.

Rev. Dr. Shinn's refusal to serve again makes the choice of a new man necessary in Ward seven; and Messrs. Barton and Philbrick in Ward six, and Putney in Ward five, are three of the outgoing members for whom the people have been longing to vote for several years. Without entering into old troubles at all, it would be much better to choose new men unaffected by any past contests, and who would command the entire confidence of the whole community. The welfare of the schools is of much more importance than any one man or half-dozen men, and the selection of new men would restore that public confidence and pride in our school system that existed up to a few years ago.

Whether there are any grounds or not, there is a widespread feeling of dissatisfaction which is too evident to be mistaken, and for this reason a change is desirable. The school board is such an autocratic body, so independent of all control from outside, that a partial change in its make-up is more necessary than in any other branch of the city government, and there is no question but that the people desire a change. The Australian ballot law will give an opportunity for independent voting this year, so that there will be no use of forcing unpopular candidates on the ticket. The conventions should give us a set of new men and let the school board start off again with a fair chance of winning and keeping popular approval.

THE COUNCILMEN.

The Common Council of 1889 promises to show many changes, as a number of the old members have announced their intention of withdrawing. In Ward one, in addition to Councilmen Rice and Forknall, the names of A. S. March, Jr., J. B. Murphy, E. W. Converse, Jr., and E. J. H. Estabrook are mentioned as those of men whom the voters would like to have represent them. In Ward two, Councilman Fenn will probably be promoted to the board of aldermen, and Councilman Wiswall is talked of as the coming president of the Council. He is also needed on the water board to complete the work already begun. For the other member, Robert C. Bridgman and E. W. Bailey are both mentioned, and the choice will probably be made between them.

In Ward three President Bond will probably be chosen to succeed Alderman Tolman, as he has well earned the honor by his faithful and intelligent work. Councilman Luke will be returned as he has been a very useful member, and the new member will probably be either George Eddy, Frank Hunter, or George H. Ingraham.

Ward four will send two new men, as Councilman Moody refuses a re-nomination and Councilman Rantlett is chosen as a representative. Auburndale will probably send E. E. Hardy and Lower Falls Fred Crehore—two admirable selections.

Ward five and Ward six will probably return Councilmen Hyde and Collins, and Councilmen Richardson and Roff. Ward seven will send Councilmen Hall and Bates unless the Citizens make stronger nominations, and they are reported to be making vigorous preparations.

ATTEND THE CAUCUSES.

Every Republican who is interested in Newton should attend the caucuses Saturday night. When citizens are found willing to give their time and attention to the duties of mayor and the other offices, it is the least that their fellow-citizens can do to give up a part of one evening in the year to attendance at a caucus. In the case of Mayor Burr, for instance, who is to be given the usual honor of a second term, citizens should show their appreciation by going out to caucuses and giving this evidence of their indorsement. The same holds true of the aldermen and councilmen, who give their time generously to caring for the interests of the city. Let there be an old-fashioned attendance and give the coming mayor a good board of aldermen and a good common council to back him up.

It has been shown often enough in the past how easy it is for a few men to capture a caucus by getting their friends to come out and secure an endorsement of men or measures that would not have passed a full caucus. The caucus is the stronghold of our system of government, and let it be corrupted and the whole fabric is endangered. It is the duty of every good citizen to attend the caucuses, and this year is no exception to the rule. The candidates for the Common Council will be chosen at the caucuses and also, practically, the aldermen and the members of the school board, so that every citizen who has any interest in these matters ought to make it a point to be present.

of the State House." This is good as far as it goes, and it is also pretty emphatic against the late speaker, who hardly seems to answer these requirements. The best man should be chosen, and one whose name and character would bring strength to the party.

A LETTER in another column calls attention to the project of extending Austin street, and gives the petition and signatures recently presented to the city council. It would be an excellent idea to extend it to Chestnut street, as this would give another direct street to West Newton free from street car tracks, and it could be made wide enough to make it a pleasant place to drive.

The collection for the Cottage Hospital will be taken up in the city churches on Sunday, Nov. 24, and notice of this will be given in all the churches next Sunday. The hospital is proving itself such a public necessity, and is doing such good work for the poor, that the collection at each church ought to be larger than usual, to meet the expense of caring for so many sick people.

—The marriage of William McIntyre and Miss Bertha Wood will take place in the Methodist church Wednesday evening, Nov. 20. After the ceremony, a reception will be held at the residence of the groom on Murray street.

—As Alderman Chadwick announces that he does not wish another term, there is a good deal of interest in the question of his successor, and Councilman Fenno is being very prominently mentioned, with Councilman Wiswall named for President of the Council.

—A GRAPHIC man saw Mr. Bradshaw in reference to progress on his building on Washington street. When the building is completed, said Mr. Bradshaw, "When I fire out the corner stone, I'll take my place; and labor hard from day to day, to sweeten up the race."

—The Newtonville Women's Guild will hold a fair in the interest of the Cottage Hospital, in the vestry of the Methodist church, on November 20th and 21st, evening of Wednesday and afternoon and evening of Thursday. There will be candy, domestic, apron, fancy and art tables. In connection with the fair, there will be an art loan exhibition of paintings (pastoral, scenes, portraits, and military pieces) statuary and curiosities. Many of the artists are well known in Newtonville, but never exhibited before.

—Last Saturday afternoon, Louis S. Ross, a son of H. P. Ross, was accidentally shot by William Hale. It was another case of boy pistol and youthful carelessness. Hale was firing at a target and the ball glanced off, striking young Ross in the left corner of the mouth, passing along the line of the jaw bone and lodging in the neck. The bullet was extracted by Dr. W. O. and Dr. O. E. Hunt and no serious consequences are anticipated. The ball was extracted with considerable difficulty as it was in the vicinity of numerous arteries.

—The Woman's Guild held their usual fortnightly meeting in the Methodist vestry on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. William B. Claflin being the guest of the hour. Mrs. Claflin gave an interesting sketch of her "Experiences among the Poor" in a manner indicating her sympathy for the needy and suffering. In closing she gave two very amusing incidents. A short discussion followed. A question on heredity by Mrs. Martin was answered by Miss Beecher in her clear, concise manner and an informal business meeting closed the afternoon.

—Alderman Chadwick retires from office at the close of the present year. The general sentiment is strongly in favor of Councilman John A. Fenno as his successor in the upper branch of the city council and he, undoubtedly, will receive the unanimous endorsement of the caucus. Mr. Fenno is in the line of promotion and would ably represent his ward and the city, as he has in the past. For Councilman, Mr. Robert C. Bridgman seems to be the choice of the majority. He is a wide-awake business man, familiar with Newton affairs and in every way qualified for the position. Councilman Wiswall will, of course, be returned, as he is well known on the water board to conclude the work already begun. He will also probably be the president of the council, quite an honor for this ward.

—The committee appointed to draft resolutions relative to the death of Robert P. Gould have adopted the following: Where as death has removed from our midst our friend and brother, Robert P. Gould, be it resolved, that, while we recall him as a member of the Universalist Club, always interested in its prosperity, punctual and regular in his attendance upon its meetings, and while we remember him as one possessing the graces of a refined manhood, which made of him a most agreeable companion and associate, we honor him especially for the sterling character which we knew him to possess, his purity, his probity and his quiet, though not unobtrusive, resolve, that, in lasting token of our regard for our brother, this resolution be written upon the records of the Universalist Club, and that it be forwarded with our sincere sympathy to our sister church, Mr. Gould was a resident of Newtonville for many years and his friends here are a host.

—The art loan exhibition, under the auspices of the ladies' sewing circle of the Universalist church, opened Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, the attendance was not so large as had been expected. The collection shown embraced many pretty and valuable articles arranged in a tasteful and attractive manner. Among the variety of attractions were noticed a crayon of Rev. R. A. White by Mrs. Mendell, chair cushion with child's head in water colors, Mrs. B. S. Grant, beautiful specimens embroidery, Mrs. George Hill, Mrs. William F. Kimball, Miss Alice Jones, Miss Holt, easel scarf, Mrs. George Pope, exquisite water colors, Mr. Walter Chatter, roses and cypripediums in water color, Miss Fannie Tewksbury, painted plaque, Miss Barlow, painted china, Mrs. Kingsbury, dog's head in oil, Miss Emma Pack, Mexican easel scarf, Mrs. Lewis, plush painted banner, Miss Maud Davis, carnations and pinks in oil, Miss Snow. Yesterday afternoon and last evening there was a larger attendance and much interest manifested in the exhibit.

He Got It.

Among the passengers on a Western train recently was a woman, very much over-dressed, accompanied by a bright-looking nurse-girl and a self-willed tyrannical boy of about three years.

The boy aroused the indignation of the passengers by his continued shrieks, and kicks, and screams, and his viciousness toward his patient nurse. He tore her bonnet, scratched her hands, and finally spat in her face without a word of remorse from the mother.

When the nurse manifested any firmness the mother chided her sharply. Finally the mother composed herself for a nap, and about the time the boy had slapped the nurse for the fifth time, a wasp came sailing in and flew on the window of the nurse's seat. The boy at once tried to catch it.

The nurse caught his hand and said coaxingly:—

"Harry mustn't touch. Bug bite Harry." Harry screamed savagely and began to kick and pound the nurse.

The mother, without opening her eyes or lifting her head, cried out sharply:—

"Why do you tease that child so, Mary? Let him have what he wants at once."

"But, ma'am, it's a—"

"Let him have it, I say."

The nurse caught the boy by the wrist and the wasp and caught it. The scream that followed brought tears of joy to the passengers' eyes.

The mother awoke again.

"Mary," she cried, "let him have it!" Mary turned in her seat and said, confusedly:—

"He's got it, ma'am!"—Boston Journal.

Companion Pictures.

Another handsome reminder of the continued enterprise of The Youth's Companion, the favorite family paper, has come to us in the form of a Colored Announcement Card, printed in fourteen colors. It is folded in the centre, and has on either cover companion pictures. Spring is represented by a beautiful maiden who is returning through the fields, her hands filled with trailing arbutus—those delicate spring flower which grows so plentifully in many localities. On the companion page, the farmer's daughter is pictured coming through the harvested grain, carrying a well-filled pitcher and basket. The bearer of the noon-day lunch is a welcome sight to the hungry reapers. The interior of the card contains an array of authors and articles for the coming volume unsurpassed by any paper.

This beautiful Card is only an indication of the great enterprise of The Companion which has made it a National Family Paper, with more than 430,000 subscribers. Nowhere can there be obtained so much entertainment and instruction for so little money (only $1.75 a year).

If you subscribe now you will receive the paper free to Jan. 1, 1890, and for a full year from that date. The publishers offer to send specimen copies of this Colored Announcement Card free. Address The Youth's Companion, Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Partington and Ike.

When the name of Mrs. Partington was mentioned, B. P. Shillaber of Boston, the author of that famous lady's sayings, stated to a Detroit Free Press correspondent:

"The old lady has gone to her grave. I have written a book about her, and have decided not to publish it, because nowadays the publisher wants all the profits. It was quite by accident that the old lady became famous at first. It was in 1847 that my Mrs. Partington was born. One night we had some news about breadstuffs from New England, and I printed the comment that Mrs. Partington could continue to pay 50 cents for a half-dollar's worth of flour, same as ever. It went the rounds of the country."

"How did you happen to write about Ike?"

"Ike was the universal human boy," answered Mr. Shillaber, as his mind looked backward lovingly. "They have always seemed like real people to me. A friend of mine in Tennessee was at an eating house and heard a discussion between two men about Mrs. Partington, one saying that she was a real woman, the other maintaining that it was a man, till the first party rose up, and, striking the table with his hand, shouted: 'I know, she is a woman for I have seen her!'"

A Reply to Druggist Keyes' Letter.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

In your paper of last week's issue you published a letter from Druggist Keyes which should not pass unnoticed. As much of the letter has no bearing upon the present case, we touch upon a portion only. He asks, "Why should not a druggist be allowed the right to sell alcoholics for proper purposes?" Why such a question? Has anyone disputed that right? He says, "I have been called in question for my non-compliance to the letter of the law." From this one would think that Mr. Keyes was the victim of a conspiracy and that an innocent man was suffering unjust treatment. He cites the instance of my calling, as requested by some ladies of the W. C. T. U., and gives what purports to be our conversation at the time. He writes, "On being asked if I made everyone sign the voucher, to whom I said, I said that in every instance I did not and I explained my reasons for so doing." On the contrary, I was given to understand most emphatically that the signatures of buyers were obtained, and that he was particular on this point, and so I reported to the ladies of the W. C. T. U. I went away satisfied—satisfied that I knew about as much after my visit as I did before it. However, in speaking with the ladies of the W. C. T. U. I said, "I find nothing that I think it would be wise to take action upon, and moreover I think our druggist should be entitled to our confidence and patronage until evidence is produced that would prove the contrary."

Mr. Keyes' book showed an average sale of liquors of about one day, or thirty sales a month. I confess I didn't believe this to be true.

Now it may be interesting to many to know that my visit several months ago had nothing to do with the present case against Mr. Keyes. It was because parties claiming to know, volunteered the information concerning the illegal sale of liquors in our village, that action was taken.

If what was said could be proven it was thought to be a violation of more than the mere letter of the law. The claim was made that anyone could buy liquors without signing their names or producing a physician's prescription. If strangers could buy liquors at any time—week-days and Sundays, then the claim seemed to be confirmed. The readers of the GRAPHIC know the result—not once was a party challenged—not once were they asked to sign their names—not once was a physician's prescription called for; could anything be clearer. Mr. Keyes writes, "Perhaps Messrs. Henry, Davidson, etc., would like me to adhere more strictly to the wording of the law, while at the same time, I doubled or tripled my liquor sales." We think adherence to the wording of the law most desirable, we regret to say we think it would make little difference in the number of liquor sales.

I would now like to call attention to the means used—the employment of detectives or "spotters" if you please. We are used to hearing spotters spoken of as an unprincipled class of men, who will lie or use any means to deceive. Particular attention is called to the fact that these officers of the Law and Order League were not this kind of men. At the trial it was not once shown or attempted, that either of them told a lie in order to procure liquor. We take the stand if they lied in one case they would in another. Their story was straightforward, and Lawyer Goodrich's most searching examination produced nothing against them.

In the Boston Herald of Nov. 5th is a long account of "a detective's experience in the Maine woods." The case was as follows:—

Commissioner Stillwell employed a Boston detective named Wm. McNamara to go to Maine and assist in the arrest of "Jock" Darling, the Lowell outlaw. This man had persistently violated the law, so it was believed by chasing and killing deer by the use of dogs. It was difficult to obtain evidence, and in order to do so, McNamara, with a third party named Swanton, made their way to Darling's camp and engaged quarters with him. They also hired his guides and dogs to help them with paying well for them. They remained five days and during that time collected all the evidence they could be used against Darling and his guides. They were out each day with the dogs, Jock putting out the dogs twice each day for three days, the guides doing the business the other two days. They killed four deer, one each themselves, Darling one and a guide one. They came upon Darling after the dog had run the deer into the water, just after he had shot him. They heard the report of the rifle, which was still smoking when they came up, and the deer was still warm. McNamara says they were obliged to kill their deer to accomplish the purpose for which they went there.

This is the way spotters (one from Boston) are used in Maine—does the fact of one case being violation of the liquor law and in Massachusetts, and the other violation of game law in Maine change the principle. They in Maine went further in their plans than we in Massachusetts. One was in behalf of deer—the other in behalf of man. That is reported to be a brilliant story, why not the other?

In behalf of Law and Order League,

FRANK F. DAVIDSON.

"I don't think Jones has been indulging too much," said his kindly believing spouse; "but still I thought it rather odd of him that he should wrench the knocker off the front door and bring it up to me as I sat in bed, saying that he'd gathered another rose for me out of the garden; poor, dear, simple boy! He's just as loving and sentimental as ever he was."—Troy Press.

We heartily recommend the Rock Island Excursion to our readers going west. They run through Pullman Tourist Cars from Boston every two weeks, use Union Depots, are personally escorted by the Western Ticket Agent, and write E. W. Thompson, N. E. P. A., 236 Washington street, Boston.

CONSUMPTION.

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eldson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted a severe cold that fastened upon me. I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

—Who are to be chosen to succeed Messrs. Barton and Philbrick on the school board is the question. It ought not to be difficult to find two enlightened and liberal men, who are interested in educational matters, and will work intelligently for the best interests of the schools. Ward Six should be anxious to get the best.

—Friday of last week the Young Men's Association was organized in the rooms of the Iron Hall, with 22 members, and these officers: Frank E. Kipland, president; Joseph Mahan, vice president; P. L. Linahan, treasurer; T. G. Woodman, secretary. The club rooms will be open each evening, except Sunday, and will be closed at 10 p. m. Daily and weekly papers, books and athletic games will serve for attractions.

—On Thursday evening the fair given by the Women's club of this village, in aid of the boys' playground, was opened. At 7 o'clock several well known city officials and Gov.-elect Brackett passed, and took seats in the hall to the platform, where they took seats. The picture which met their eyes was a very pretty one, for immediately in front of the platform was the flower table, which was remarkably pretty and on both sides of the hall tables handsomely decorated and filled with useful and ornamental articles. Mr. Chester, president of the Improvement society, in a few words introduced Judge Robert B. Bishop, who was to preside, and the latter commended the club for its efforts in the preparation of the festival, and said the affair would surely prove a success. No doubt, he added, you will derive nearly the sum, $15,000, needed, which added to the amount contributed, $10,000, by the city council, will enable you to secure an excellent park and playground at Newton Centre. In conclusion, he introduced Governor-elect Brackett, and said that it was certainly appropriate that he, as the people's representative, should formally open this festival. When the Governor-elect stepped forward he was greeted with hearty cheers. After the applause had subsided he said: I thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for the great and thoughtful shown to me as a representative of the commonwealth, and extend to you the best wishes of the commonwealth for your future prosperity and happiness. The welfare of communities depends on the care of on having proper parks and playgrounds for the recreation of the people, and public-spirited persons never fail to make provision for the adult and comfort and happiness of all citizens. The festival ought to be a success, and in formally opening it I can only urge all good citizens to be liberal in their patronage, thus adding a most worthy object. In conclusion, he said, I must declare this festival formally opened. Mr. Brackett was then escorted about the hall by Judge Bishop, Col. L. F. Kingsbury and Mr. Dwight Chester. There were in a few tables, or rather booths, all different, and one as tasteful as another in regard to decoration. The two in the centre were the flower and doll tables. The former was a canopy of fir boughs made like a thatched roof and hung with colored glass lamps, which gave a particularly attractive light. This table was in charge of Mrs. Edward H. Mason, who was aided by Miss Mabel Mason. The doll table was covered with dolls of all nationalities and in the care of Mrs. Gammons and Mrs. Weston. The table next the door was draped in white bunting and was presided over by Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Chas. S. Davis, who sold a large variety of candles. The next booth was Chinese and was the Tuesday table. Holders, iron, etc., were sold by a real Chinese laundryman, we understand. This table was in the care of Mrs. Hawthorne and Mrs. Bassett. The next booth was hung in cardinal bunting and was shaped as a little parlor where tea and biscuits were served by Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Parker, and Mrs. Delano. The Saturday table was where preserves of all kinds could be bought. Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Bartholomew had the care of them. The luncheon department was in the care of Mrs. Furber, who had several able assistants. The Friday table seemed to be bristling with duster, brooms, etc., enough to keep the village clean for years. Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Shannon were in charge. The Wednesday or fancy table was in care of Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Scudder, and Mrs. L. J. Melcher. This table was hung in flags.

The Monday table was covered with an assortment of clothes-pins, starch, etc. Mrs. Degan and Mrs. Sylvester were in charge. The hall was crowded all the evening. The city government were given a supper by the ladies in the small hall. During the evening the orchestra rendered selections, and a little illustration of the song "A Bird in the Hand" was given in costume by six young ladies. In the middle of the evening Judge Bishop introduced Mayor Burr, who made a short address relative to the good cause and the city's interest in it. Wednesday evening at the Festival of days was very profitable. In spite of the rain the hall was full all the evening and the supper room also. At 8 o'clock eighteen young gentlemen and ladies seated themselves on the platform and gave several finely selected selections of songs, guitars and mandolins. This being home talent was highly appreciated, as it well deserved to be, and won hearty applause. This orchestra music owed its success to the efforts of Miss Belle Bassett and Mrs. Thomas Rogers, who got the orchestra together and directed it. One of the features of the evening was the singing of two solos with guitar and mandolin accompaniments. The first was a Spanish song given by Miss Belle Bassett and sung finely. She was presented with flowers and encores. The next was sung by Mrs. Daniel White and was heartily enjoyed. Both songs were very odd and much enjoyed by the large audience. The music was so successful that the managers were asked to repeat it on Thursday evening. A thirty-five cent supper was served in the annex and a great deal of credit should be given to Mrs. Cobb of Pleasant street, as chairman of the supper committee. Everything was admirably managed and a good supper served. The sales were large both Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The music of Wednesday was repeated on Thursday evening. The receipts of the three evenings were large but cannot be stated definitely until next week.

TEN PAGES.

This issue of the GRAPHIC consists of ten pages, to which every patron is entitled. The overcrowding of our advertising columns, the many meetings this week, and matters connected with the city election made an enlargement necessary, as the GRAPHIC intends to give all the news. Among the more valuable articles will be found a very amusing poem in the Tariff Reform Club's column.

NEWTON.

—A small line of light weight single brass steads, $20 each, Putnam & Co.

—The Watertown W. C. T. U. give an oyster supper and entertainment at their Town Hall, Dec. 2nd.

—The annual business meeting of the T. L. S. Society will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 3, in West Newton.

—Mr. Carl Baermann's first chamber concert at Union Hall, Boston, Thursday evening, was a brilliant success.

—Mr. J. Henry Bacon has just returned from New York with a fine list of holiday goods for Francis Murdoch & Co. The opening will be next Tuesday.

—Mr. W. P. Goodwin of Waban, who has designed a number of handsome residences in that vicinity, is the architect of Mr. Damon's new house on Brighton Hill.

—Mrs. J. M. Brackett has just returned from New York, and is now prepared to make ladies' costumes, especially those for dress occasions. See card in another column.

—The Newton Social Science Club adjourned to meet at Mrs. J. N. Kellar's, Park street, Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 10 A. M. Business meeting. The meeting next week is to be omitted on account of Thanksgiving.

—The store of Mrs. Mary A. Murray, Cook street, was entered by thieves Tuesday evening while she was at supper. Seven pairs of shoes and $27 in money was stolen. Entrance was effected by the use of nippers.

—In another column will be found a very interesting account of the Gala Week at Charleston, S. C., from the pen of Rev. R. G. Brackett, whose many friends here in Newton will be glad to learn that he is to give us occasional contributions.

—Dr. Shinn's next lecture will be on "The Brook Farm Experiment." Although the scene of this experiment was so near Newton, very few people living here have any clear ideas as to who the Brook Farm people were, and what they wanted to do.

—To make your homes comfortable and maintain in all weather uniform heat at any desired degree, have electric heat radiator applied to your furnace, steam or hot water heater. Send for circular and see Harris E. Johnson's advertisement in another column.

—The ladies of the Methodist Church will hold a "Festival of Days," for the sale of useful and fancy articles on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 4 and 5, in the vestry of the church, which has been recently much improved in convenience by the addition of a supper room, cloak room and other ante rooms.

—Mrs. Timothy Kinchilla, residing on Hawthorne street, was found by her son about 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, at the foot of the cellar stairs in an unconscious condition, her skull being fractured. She regained consciousness a few hours later and hopes of her recovery are entertained.

—A union devotional service of praise will be held at Eliot Church next Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The service will be chiefly a choral one, with remarks by Rev. Dr. McKewen of the Methodist Church. The following music will be sung by the full chorus choir, "Anthem, While the earth remaineth, Tunes: Anthem, "Thine be all the glory," Stainer; Choir Hymn, Selected; Selection, choir and congregation.

—At Channing Church on Thanksgiving day Rev. Mr. Hornbroke will follow the request made of all the ministers in the country, and make an address on "Civil Service Reform, and purity in politics." There is no subject which more needs discussion in the pulpits of the land, and it is to be hoped that the clergy generally will heed the request. Rev. Mr. Hornbroke ought to have a large congregation on that day.

—General George P. Irlie of Port Townsend, in the new state of Washington, is mentioned by the Port Townsend Call as a promising "dark horse" in the senatorial contest in that state. Gen. Irlie is well known in Newton, his wife being an aunt of Mrs. Carlyle Petersilea, and his friends would be glad to congratulate him on securing an honor so well deserved. Gen. Irlie was formerly a member of Gen. Grant's staff and is prominent in the G. A. R.

—The contest for Councilman in Ward Seven is a three cornered affair. Mr. Bates being on both tickets and Mr. Hall being on the Republican and Mr. Bothfeld on the Citizens. Mr. Hall has served one year, and has worked hard and faithfully in the discharge of his duties, so that he has really earned a reelection. Mr. Bothfeld is one of the wide awake and progressive young men in the ward, who does his own thinking. The voters in the ward will have a chance to cross the best two out of the three candidates.

—The Newton C. L. S. C. organized in September last for their winter course of reading with Chas. F. Bacon, President, Geo. A. Mason, Secretary and Treasurer. A very successful and interesting meeting occurred on the evening of the 13th instant, at the house of the President, at which papers were read on science and art, and the exercises were varied by music both instrumental and vocal. The next meeting will take place Dec. 5, to which all interested are invited. The musical numbers of the program are to be from the works of Schubert.

—It seems that there has been a misunderstanding concerning the invitations which were issued to active members at the foundation of the new Choral Society. These invitations were necessarily sent out with the understanding, in conclusion, that the short time before it would be necessary to commence rehearsals, and owing to this haste many names were overlooked which should have been noticed, as well as many friends of the society. A very cordial invitation is extended to all singers in any part of the city to become active members of the society. Applications for such membership should be addressed to Box 146, Newton, and upon receipt of such application notice of rehearsals will be sent. It is earnestly hoped that no one will be prevented from making application on account of having received no invitation as a general invitation is extended to all singers in any part of Newton.

—The sudden death of Miss Bessie Spaulding, daughter of Rev. H. G. Spaulding, has caused great sorrow among a wide circle of friends. She was a general favorite at the High School, where she graduated last June, and much sympathy

HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

Judging from the efforts put forth to make it known there are very few people in our city who have not heard that next Sunday is Hospital Sunday. It may be, however, that some who read this do not realize how important it is that all our citizens should contribute generously.

In the first place it relies for about a third of its means to meet expenses upon the receipts of the collections on this one Sunday. Then its work has grown so large that it could use some thousands of dollars more this year in further extension of its buildings, and last of all its trustees are desirous of adding to the Endowment Funds so that there may be more free beds for those who are unable to pay and for some who ought not to be charged more than a nominal sum.

So there is scarcely any sum too large that can be given. If, by the general liberality of our citizens, a fund of ten, or twenty, or fifty thousand dollars should be rolled up next Sunday every dollar of it could be well used.

The time may come when it will be a matter of course for wealthy citizens to remember the Hospital by will, but we suggest that now is the time that money will do the most good.

We wish success to the Hospital Fund, and shall hope to report generous gifts from rich and poor.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORMERS

HAVE A BANQUET AT WOODLAND PARK HOTEL.

The Newton Tariff Reform Club gave a dinner at the Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, Wednesday evening. It had as its guests Gen. F. A. Walker of the Institute of Technology and Mr. M. M. Holmes of the New England Furniture Exchange. About 50 gentlemen were seated at the tables, and an excellent menu was enjoyed. President E. B. Haskell presided, and spoke in substance as follows:

It is a very strange spectacle of the present time, when so much is being done by railroads and canals to bring nations into closer relations, to see the Legislatures of this world putting restrictions on trade. Protective tariffs have heightened the mountains and widened the oceans which separate nation from nation. From the repeal of the corn law in 1846 the tendency of the British Commons has been toward free trade. Then followed the Canadian reciprocity treaty of 1854, and the reduction of duties in 1857 in this country to less than 15 per cent. The treaty between Great Britain and France in 1860 was followed by treaties of thirty other countries. It is not pleasant to contemplate that our country was the only one which tended the other way. The tariff of 1861 was caused by the demands of the war for an increase of revenue. The arguments of protectionists up to that time would never be recognized now. Although we continued to maintain the tariff, other countries kept on toward freer trade until 1873, when a financial disturbance began in Germany and extended to other countries, and then it was that the countries of Europe, needing more revenue and seeing the prosperity of the United States, in spite of protection, began to levy high tariffs. Russia led off and has now a more excessive tariff than this country. Austria, Hungary, France, Italy, Brazil and nearly every other nation have largely increased their import duties. This is rather a dark day for tariff reform, yet the justice of protection is beginning to be seen, and these are very good times to make a reform seed—the ground is ready and the harvest is promised. Leaving out legislative interference, the situation was never so encouraging for mankind. The increased power of production means a larger share of comforts for every worker. For while production has increased, wages have increased also—appreciably in money price, and much more in purchasing power. Apparently the one thing needed is not artificial obstruction, but freedom for natural laws to operate, so that humanity may profit by human sagacity, ingenuity and enterprise.

was then introduced by Mr. Haskell, and spoke on "Protection and the Protectionists," and in opening put the question: "What is protection?" The word itself, he continued, has a favorable significance, but this word has been applied to various questions whether good or bad. In other countries the principle of protection is applied to agriculture, and in continental Europe the peasantry are demanding the exclusion of breadstuffs of the United States and Australia. Thomas Jefferson was even more of a protectionist than Horace Greeley. When the embargo of 1807-9 had failed to bring England to terms, Jefferson congratulated the country on the fact that commerce had been almost destroyed, the grass was growing in the streets of our trading ports and ships rotting at the wharves. He was eminently right. I may add outrageously a protectionist. Henry Clay, in one of his speeches, said: "No one ever supposed that high protection would be perpetuated." And when the time came in the history of the country when it seemed necessary to extend the free list, Clay took the men to task who opposed such tariff reduction, treating them as disloyal and dishonest.

After the war, an attempt was made to extend the free list, attended with some success, but since the candidacy of James G. Blaine for president of the United States, the Republicans have assumed a defiant protection policy. There has been more Chinese wall tariff talk the past two years than ever before in the history of the discussion of the question. I believe, said the speaker, in conclusion, that there are many Republicans who believe in extending the free list, and who are in favor of moderate protection. The true policy of reform would be to attack the tariff in its features, one by one, without attempting a complete revision at the start. If the Democratic party had gone into the presidential canvass advocating free wool, free lumber, free iron and free coal, Grover Cleveland would probably have been elected, and another step gained in the establishment of free and freer trade. [Applause.]

Mr. M. M. Holmes was next called upon. He spoke in relation to the effect of a high tariff, particularly as it applied to the furniture manufacturing industry, and said that owing to the advantages in the way of machinery and skilled workmen, furniture could be made in this country cheaper than in foreign countries, while the cost of manufacturing plush and other materials used, was less than abroad.

Holiday Opening.

Francis Murdoch & Co., will offer on Tuesday morning, Nov. 26th, a large and beautiful assortment of work boxes, toilet and manicure sets, bronze and brass goods, baskets of every description, albums, embroidered and initial handkerchiefs, silk and cashmere muffers, silk umbrellas, and plush and satin novelties of all kinds, Christmas cards, and all the latest novelties for the Holiday trade. Also a good line of gift books and albums in all grades and prices.

N. H. S. Alumni.

The High School Alumni will hold a meeting in Armory Hall, Dec. 20th. Representatives of a large number of classes have already signified their intention of being present. There will be a business meeting, social meeting, to be followed by music and refreshments. Tickets are $1 and all graduates are urged to be present and to send to the secretary, Eugene Crockett, West Newton, for a ticket.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN DISCUSS THE APPROPRIATIONS.

The board of aldermen met Monday evening with Mayor Burr in the chair and all the members present. Mr. Mudge declined to serve as election officer in Ward 7, and Mr. Lewis H. Farlow was appointed in his place, and Mr. Frank A. Barrows to fill the vacancy caused by promotion of the latter.

Mr. Chas. F. Rogers was appointed auctioneer for one year.

Alderman Johnson read an order for the muzzling and restraining of two dogs belonging to Mrs. Mary E. Johnson of Grove street, Auburndale, for 30 days, said dogs being reported to have been bitten by a mad dog.

Alderman Childs said he did not believe in muzzling dogs unless they had actually been bitten, for nothing made a dog or a man so mad as to be muzzled. If there was any danger, however, he was not opposed to the order. It was then passed and ordered enforced at once.

THE SALVATION ARMY'S petition for license to build their barracks on Washington street, opposite S. F. Cate's stable, caused quite an attendance of remonstrants, and evidently the people of West Newton are not favorably impressed with their designs.

Mr. W. H. Rand appeared in remonstrance and said that when the Army first came they applied for Good Templars' Hall, and it was leased to them. The first meeting left the hall in such a filthy and disgusting state that they were refused any longer use of it and went to Allen's Hall, where they have been a great annoyance to the neighbors and to every one passing along the street in the evening, from the crowd of hoodlums that surround the hall and sidewalks and from the noise made by the Army. Their parades are also a disturbance to the societies that meet in West Newton, the Odd Fellows having their devotional exercises broken up by the noise made by the parades, and the churches having to suspend all exercises until the motley crowd had passed. He thought they had outlived their usefulness in West Newton, if they had ever had any. The general sentiment was that they should be suppressed, and especially their marchings on the street should be forbidden. Their proposed building would render Good Templars' Hall useless, as it could not be rented with a noisy crowd under its windows.

Mr. Russell, who lives next door to the proposed site, protested strongly against the barracks, as it would be an intolerable nuisance. One need only to walk past the present place of holding the meetings in the evening to discover how objectionable such a building would be within a few feet of a dwelling house.

The hearing was then closed.

ASSISTANT CITY CLERK.

An order was presented by Alderman Childs amending a section of the city statutes to provide for the office of assistant city clerk, to be appointed by the city clerk, with the approval and consent of the board, to act in the absence of the city clerk and to give bonds for the satisfactory performance of the work. The order was referred to the committee on ordinances.

CITY ELECTION.

Alderman Pettie read the warrant for the city election and it was ordered printed.

Alderman Tolman presented an order, authorizing the city solicitor to expend $200, for suits against the city; passed.

Alderman Tolman presented the usual order, which was passed, for the collection of interest on unpaid taxes.

Hearings on the laying out of Sewall street, westerly from Prince; Union street from Station to Institution avenue, and Kimball Terrace, southerly from Otis street, were opened and as no one appeared the hearings were closed. Alderman Harbach presented orders for the laying out, grading and acceptance of the streets named and they were passed.

The usual order for the lease of the old Williams schoolhouse at Auburndale to the Village Improvement Society of that place was presented by Alderman Johnson and passed.

Mrs. Lucas gave notice of intention to build a house on Webster place.

An inholder's pool room license was granted to the Woodland Park Hotel.

H. B. Bidwell's petition to build addition to stable on Melrose street was referred to the license committee.

Petitions for two street lamps on Hunter street and two on Webster place were received and referred.

Alderman Tolman reported a substitute order for the one providing for $20,000 in bonds a year for the building of drains. It provided for the city treasurer's borrowing $25,000 on a note of the city, due in 1897, at 4 per cent. interest, for building of drains on the following streets:

Waverly avenue, $5,700

Morse field, 4,500

Brookline street, 1,900

Ash and Woodbine, 500

Auburn and Charles, 1,200

Lexington and Rowe, 250

Walnut street at Walter Allen's, 600

Lincoln street at Newton Highlands, 1,200

Chestnut street, 2,400

Cabot and Harvard streets, 700

Grant avenue, 1,000

Walnut street at cemetery, 1,500

Otis street, 2,000

Contingent, 2,450

Total, $25,000

The order was passed.

THE ANNUAL BUDGET.

The board then went into committee of the whole with Alderman Pettie in the chair, to discuss the appropriations for 1890, as adopted by the common council. Very few changes were made, but the net result of the work was to effect a reduction of $249 from the figures of the lower board.

Alderman Childs moved to make the salary of the chief of fire department $1800, an increase of one hundred. He thought that if any man had earned an increase it was Chief Bixby, who had to be in the city every day and nearly every hour in the year, and whose faithfulness and efficiency deserved recognition. The motion was lost.

On the appropriation for new hose, there was some discussion over the increase to $800, the amount asked for by the fire department committee, and Alderman Chadwick and Pettie advocated it strongly on the ground that an insufficiency of hose rendered the costly fire apparatus useless. Chief Bixby also spoke in its favor and the amount stood as fixed by the council at $800.

Alderman Tolman moved to non-concur in the $1,700 appropriation by the council for a new repeater. Alderman Chadwick said it was very much needed. Chief Bixby said the old one had been in use since 1873, and was overloaded with the great increase in the circuits and had to have constant watching. The Oak Hill circuit was damaged, and a variation of 2 degrees in the current would make it refuse to work. A ten circuit repeater was needed, the old one had done good service, but it was outgrown and the only one of the kind now in use was at Hartford.

Alderman Chadwick called attention to the great length of the circuits, one of them taking in most of Wards Two and Three, and a break in the wire left this whole district without means of giving an alarm.

Alderman Childs called attention to the need of an extra man, so as to give the permanent members of the department two days off in a month, as was done in every other city in the country. $800 was a small amount and he thought this more necessary than a new repeater. Alderman Tolman's motion was then passed, and the $1,700 stricken out, and on motion of Alderman Childs the $900 for an extra man was adopted.

Alderman Pettie called attention to the lack of fire facilities on his side of the city, and urged the appropriation of $2,500 for the purchase of a lot for an engine house at the Highlands, before all the vacant land was built upon.

Alderman Tolman said that the lot would be of no use without a house, and the finance committee thought the proper way would be to provide for this by a note, when the city was ready to build an engine or hose house, as such a matter ought not to go in the tax levy. Alderman Pettie's motion was lost.

Alderman Chadwick moved to put in the $175 for a new wagon for the chief, and said that the city ought to insure his life if he had to use the old one. He had served 10 years, and had run 36 miles a day, except Sundays, during that time, which was about all that could be asked of a wagon.

Alderman Tolman said the committee had left out all not absolutely necessary. The motion to insert the $175 finally prevailed.

Alderman Tolman moved to increase the salary of the assistant city clerk to $1,000 from $825, and Col. Kingsbury spoke of the necessity of having an experienced and reliable assistant, to take charge when he was obliged to be absent, as he was at meetings of the board of registrars, and attending to the duties involved under the new ballot law, which had increased his work tremendously. He paid a high tribute to the efficiency of J. C. Brimblecom, his former assistant, and said that there were many things connected with the duties of the office which made it preferable to have a male assistant. The increase was voted.

Alderman Chadwick asked why the salary of the milk inspector had been cut down from $250 to $50.

Alderman Tolman said that the milk inspector was also agent of the board of health, and had the past year a salary of $1,500. He had proved so unsatisfactory that it was thought $1,300 would be sufficient.

Alderman Chadwick asked if the board of health was not satisfied with his services; they ought to know about the matter better than the aldermen. He moved to lay on the table, to discover if the board of health was satisfied.

Alderman Childs said that the agent compared very favorably with the board of health. If any board in the city works in an unbusinesslike and unsatisfactory manner it was the board of health, and he quoted instances of its contradictory orders. He believed, however, that $50 would be very liberal payment for the milk inspection work. All our milkmen are honest and they are careful to use only pure water. The $50 was then voted.

The appropriation for the hydrant caused some discussion, in the course of which Alderman Johnson said that it would be a good idea for the fire committee to investigate into what was paid for fire alarm boxes in other cities. He was informed that Newton was paying double the prices charged in some other places.

The whole budget was then voted, amounting to $907,861.50, a reduction of $249 from the figures of the lower branch.

DR. SHINN'S SERMON.

REV. DR. SHINN'S LECTURE IN THE GRACE CHURCH SUNDAY EVENING.

Dr. Shinn's third lecture in Grace church on "The Four Experiments" treated of John Eliot's work among the Indians, and was entitled, "The conversion of a Pagan Race to a Christian Civilization." He showed that Eliot aimed not only to evangelize the Indians, but to have them adopt, as far as they could and as fast as they could, the civilization of the 17th century.

A brief sketch of the life of Eliot was given, in which the lecturer said that he regarded Eliot as far in advance of his age, a man of wider sympathies, of keener vision, and of better spirit than most of his contemporaries. He looms up beyond the average men of his time, in the colony and in some important particulars leads them all. Referring to the biographies of Eliot, the lecturer thought it a singular misfortune that a man whose character was so grand and whose work was so unique should have had Cotton Mather as his biographer; and that some others of a later date should have made such sorry work in presenting the career of the Puritan whose name all men would delight to honor if they knew more of his spirit and his undertakings. His life and labors are worthy of being studied, said Dr. Shinn, partly because he was so much better than many men of his generation, and partly because some of his plans for the solving of the Indian problem are the very plans most highly favored to-day by the friends of that race.

The lecturer then gave an account of the careful labors of Eliot in preparing to preach to the Indians, and of his successful missionary work, but more particularly of the Indian Village at South Natick, established by him and which went on so many years so successfully.

But the strong, wise, scholarly statesman and missionary, said the lecturer, lived to see his work swept away before the folly and fury of man. Nothing is left of it here except the memory of a most wonderful experiment. What he did was well done. He is not responsible for its failure. Had others been as wise as he the whole aspect of the Indian question would have been changed in this country.

Although Eliot's Indian villages were swept away and obliterated, the example of such a man must always be an incentive to consecrated efforts. His motto was, "Prayer and pains-taking and faith in Christ, can do anything." The lecturer closed by a reference to the present policy of the nation towards the remnant of the Indian race, and urged the possibility of their being brought under the benign influences of the Christian religion.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

Mayor Burr of Newton is another of the bright, young executive magistrates in our Massachusetts cities who has given good satisfaction and stands a good show of a re-election.

The above from the Boston Herald represents the sentiment of the majority of the voters of Newton, and there is every reason why Mayor Burr should be given a second term, as an endorsement of the faithful service he has given the city. Newton ought not to show itself ungrateful, and every intelligent man who has looked into the matter will confess that the present administration will compare very favorably with any of its predecessors, excellent as some of them were.

There was some talk of extravagance at the citizens' convention, but it was only for effect, as the present is the most economical administration that we have had in years. The fact that the appropriations have not been exceeded, that the tax rate has been reduced, while more has been accomplished with the city money than in former years, shows that there is no basis for such a charge. The convention acknowledged this when it renominated a majority of the present members for the board of aldermen, and also many leading members of the council. If they had really believed in the truth of their assertions, they would have made a total change in these officials, as it is they and not the mayor who make the appropriations, and are responsible for all expenditures. The mayor of Newton is a very limited monarch indeed, and yet Mayor Burr's influence has been on the side of economy.

The only definite charge made was that the salary of two or three City Hall officials had been increased in the present tax levy, by a small amount, so that another year they will get almost as much as a competent clerk or book-keeper. A case in point has happened this year, when the city lost a valuable employe because he was offered nearly double the salary that he received here, and for less work of the same character. Newton can well afford to pay fair salaries, and the slight increases made are hardly worth referring to.

It has always been the policy in Newton to promote a member of the city council to the mayoralty, and this has enabled the city to secure the services of representative and ambitious men, who were inspired to do their best by the hope of promotion. If a different policy is now adopted it will soon be impossible to get good men to serve in the council. A man who has never served in either branch knows very little of the details of the city business and it would take him the best part of his first term to master them. He would have no acquaintance with the members, no knowledge of who were fitted to serve on any special committee, and he would be liable to all sorts of mistakes. The position of mayor of Newton is by no means a sinecure, whose duties can be disposed of in a leisure hour one day in the week, but they take up the best part of a man's time, if he desires to discharge them faithfully, as any mayor of Newton would strive to do. A man without any experience is about as well fitted for mayor, as he would be for president of the Boston &amp; Albany railroad.

It has always been the policy to give the mayor a second term, and there is no reason for departing from it now. Mayor Burr has shown himself a faithful official, earnest in enforcing the laws, and efficient in discharging his duties. He has made enemies, of course, every official who does his duty makes them, and no doubt both they and their friends will work earnestly to secure his defeat but this is all the more reason for giving him a second term, to demonstrate that a mayor of Newton who enforces the laws will be sustained by the people.

THE ALDERMANIC TICKET.

Both parties have nominated good tickets for aldermen, and in Wards Two, Four, Five and Six there are no contests, the people of those wards being satisfied with one good man, without trying to find two. Mr. Fenne in Ward Two has made one of the best councilmen in the lower branch, and there is every reason to expect that he will make fully as good a record as an alderman. Aldermen Johnson, Pettie and Harbach have proved their good qualities and deserve a unanimous vote.

In Ward One the Republicans have nominated Mr. Lewis E. Coffin, a former president of the council, a man who represents the Newton element, as he is a native of the city, and who made a good record in his former term of service. The citizens have nominated Councilman Rice, who has served creditably for the past two years.

In Ward Three the Republicans have made an excellent choice in Mr. Lawrence Bond, the present president of the council, and one of the strongest members of that body. Although a young man, Mr. Bond has presided as wisely as any former president, and has been very efficient on the committees of which he is a member, and also on the school board. He has well earned the honor of a promotion, and ought to be elected, as he probably will be, as the voters of Newton appreciate faithful and efficient service. He will make an excellent successor to Alderman Tolman. The citizens have put up Mr. H. H. Hunt, instead of endorsing Mr. Bond, as they were expected to do, being moved to do this probably by his undesired defeat when a candidate for reelection, on account of the strong partisan feeling prevailing in a presidential year. Mr. Hunt is an excellent gentleman, but the office clearly belongs to Mr. Bond, and as both are of the same party, there is no politics at issue.

In Ward Seven, the only other ward in which there is a contest, the candidates are Alderman Hamblen on the Republican side, and Mr. W. J. Follett on the part of the Citizens. Both are enterprising young business men, of excellent character, yet as Mr. Hamblen has served with credit in the common council and has just begun a term in the upper branch, he is evidently entitled to a reelection. He has done good work in the city council, and has shown an amount of backbone and independence in supporting important measures that have been of great value to the city. Several times it has happened that the passage or defeat of a measure depended upon his vote, and he has always advocated the right side with a heartiness and enthusiasm that have caused it to prevail. He is eminently a member to be depended on, and one who has made his influence felt. He has not been absent from important committee meetings, and it is very rarely that he has been absent from council meetings. The city needs such straight-forward and intelligent men, and for that reason he should be chosen by a good majority. Besides, the Brighton Hill district was fixed up under the former aldermen residing there, it will be much cheaper to elect him, than to choose a man from a new district, who will want the whole of the highway appropriation in his vicinity. Mr. Hamblen has been very efficient in looking after the wants of his constituents, and on highway matters especially he has favored the policy of attending to the main thoroughfares before spending large sums on side streets.

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The nominations for school committee are now all in and with one or two exceptions an excellent choice has been made, men having been chosen who are satisfactory to all classes. It is on election day that the people have some influence over the school board, and members who have treated public opinion with contempt all through their term have on that day to face the music.

In Wards One and Seven, good men have been secured in Messrs. Chas. A. Drew and George C. Travis, and they are so satisfactory that no opposition will be made to them. In Ward Five the two old members have been renominated, Messrs. Frank J. Hale and A. B. Putney. Mr. Hale will be satisfactory to the rest of the city, but it is not possible to say this of Mr. Putney. It is surprising that Ward Five could not find an able man to represent it on the school board, one with liberal views on educational matters and able to act impartially, but probably the ward thinks that Mr. Hale has ability, independence and fairness enough for two. Mr. Putney will probably run far behind his ticket, although as there is no opposition he will be elected.

In Ward Six the real contest will come, both parties having united on Mr. A. D. S. Bill, one of the best selections that have been made, and the Citizens selecting Rev. A. E. Lawrence and the Republicans Mr. C. C. Barton. It is one of the humors of the campaign that the Ward Six Republican caucus, which objected to Councilman Richardson on the ground that he was a Democrat, should endorse such a pronounced Democrat as Mr. Barton, while the Citizens' convention should have refused to nominate him, although he was present in person to look after his fences, and should put up a good Republican in Rev. Mr. Lawrence.

It would have been much wiser for the Republican convention to have refused to revive old troubles by putting up a new man, in spite of the endorsement of the caucus. There have been good precedents for this, notably when Mr. Weed was forced upon Ward Seven, two years ago, in spite of the protest of its caucus. Mr. Weed's vote was not a large one, it will be remembered, and as we have the Australian ballot law this year, the same tactics cannot be employed that succeeded in the case of Mr. Dickinson last year. For the past three years Mr. Barton has been the leader of the school board, and under his autocratic sway measures have been carried through regardless of the wishes of the minority of the members. The public has been plainly told that no petitions would be treated with respect, that did not coincide with his policy, and the result of his management of the High School has caused that institution to lose much of its popularity, while its expenses have been extravagantly increased.

Now the High School is of much more importance to the city than Mr. Barton or any claims that he can possibly have on any party. Every good citizen should desire to see public confidence restored in its management, and to have both parents and pupils look upon it with the old favor. To choose a new man in the place of Mr. Barton would be a step in this direction, especially a man so well qualified as Rev. Mr. Lawrence. Such a change would be beneficial both to the school and to the board, and would be of good hope for the future. The school has lost a large number of boys in the past two years, who were a credit to the school, because their parents were dissatisfied with their progress, and it is even said, though we cannot vouch for its truth, that Mr. Barton has also sent his sons to a private school. It is certainly high time for a change.

NOT A PARTISAN MATTER.

Some of our friends who support the citizens' ticket have expressed their griefed surprise because the GRAPHIC does not support the whole citizens' ticket, but the GRAPHIC is not an organ and believes in supporting the best men, especially in city elections, where it makes no difference in the policy pursued by a candidate, which party nominated him. If the Republicans put up the best men, they ought to be supported. The Republicans this year have shown a commendable degree of non-partisanship, with a few exceptions, as in Ward Six, where Councilman Richardson was nominated by acclamation, and then the vote was reconsidered and he defeated by a small vote. This was a mistake, and is regretted by many prominent Republicans of the ward, who have expressed their intention of voting for Mr. Richardson, who has made an excellent official. Another mistake of the Republicans, this time in convention, was in reviving old troubles by renominating Messrs. Barton and Putney on the school board. It would have been much better to have disposed of the matter finally by choosing new men, and we hope Rev. Mr. Lawrence will be elected. Otherwise the Republican convention did very well, and did not ask a man's politics. The citizens also made mistakes, especially in not nominating Mr. Bond of Ward Three for the board of aldermen. Every citizen has the right this year to select the candidates for whom he wishes to vote, and the best men ought to win, no matter where they got their nomination, or what their politics are. A regular attendance at the meetings of the city council, and a careful observation of city affairs, has furnished some conscientious opinions on the merits of candidates, which are presented in this issue.

THE CITIZENS' CONVENTION.

The citizens' convention was a very enthusiastic affair, and the large attendance showed a commendable interest in city politics. It seemed also to be a very united body of men and there was a good sprinkling of prominent Republicans in the audience, which gave it a non-partisan air. Some noticeable features of the convention were the defeat of Mr. W. H. Mague, who desired a place on the Ward Three committee, and a similar defeat of Mr. C. C. Barton, who was present to secure a nomination from the convention for the school committee. He heard some very plain speeches, especially from Mr. Redpath, who said that the convention owed nothing to Mr. Barton, as he had worked against the Citizens' ticket last year, and done his best to defeat it. It was noticeable that Mr. Barton and Mr. Mague received about the same number of votes in the convention, and the question has been asked if they have formed a partnership.

The citizens no doubt acted with great wisdom in the matter, and their organization seems to be in a very healthy condition. Their leaders express themselves as very hopeful of the success of their ticket, but no one but Mayor Kimball have ever led a Citizens' movement to success as yet, in Newton. They promise to put in some hard work, and at any rate they will keep their organization up and will stand a good show next year, when both parties will have new men in the field. A full report of the proceedings of the convention will be found in another column.

In another column will be found a very interesting account of the vacation school held by the Social Science Club at Nantucket the past summer, and the great success of the experiment. The account is an extract from the notes of the secretary, at the meeting of Nov. 13th.

Mr. William Lloyd Garrison is carrying on a brilliant fight in favor of free wool, which he shows is absolutely necessary to the success of our woolen mills, and the Boston Traveller finds that it is not safe to tackle him.

The City Clerk has a very important notice about the filing of nomination papers for the city election, which the committees having the matter in charge should attend to, in order to have all the names placed on the ticket.

Mr. Elliott J. Hyde of Ward Five will be a candidate for the Presidency of the council, and Mr. E. T. Wiswall's friends have already nominated him, so that there promises to be the usual good-natured contest.

Take Care Of Your Eyes.

When we review the great field of visual difficulties and observe the immense amount of suffering and functional nervous disorders which are now being relieved daily by the proper adjustment of lenses to defective eyes, we cannot fail to understand how important it is to us all to have our eyes diagnosed and our spectacles adjusted by a competent person. The GRAPHIC takes great pleasure in recommending its readers to call at the Optical Institute, 52 Boylston St. which is in charge of Dr. Hathaway and Dr. Draper, who have gained great proficiency in the detection and correction of visual defects with lenses.

NEWTON'S POSTAL CAR ROUTE.

DETAILS OF THE NEW SERVICE FROM BOSTON TO NEWTON, VIA CIRCULAR RAILROAD.

The new postal route on the Boston & Albany railroad, via the Newton circuit railway, to be known as the Newton Circuit Railway Postoffice, commenced operations Monday. The postoffice car starts from Riverside at 6.40 a.m., and arrives in Boston at 7.15 a.m. It will deliver, but not receive mails, on that trip, except at Newton, from which office a mail will be dispatched. The car leaves Boston at 7.35 a.m. on its second trip, by way of Brookline and Newton Centre, making the complete circuit and arriving again in Boston at 8.45 a.m. On its third trip it leaves Boston at 12 m., making the round trip via main line in one hour and ten minutes. The next trip is made via Brookline and Newton Centre, starting at 2.35 p.m. from Boston and arriving at Boston at 3.50 p.m. At 4.25 p.m. the car leaves Boston and makes the trip around the circuit by way of the main line. On its last trip, the car leaves Boston at 6.10 p.m., arriving at Riverside at 6.45 p.m., delivering mails only. The postal car supplies the following post-offices: Allston, Brighton, Newton, Newtonville, West Newton, Auburndale, Newton Lower Falls, Newton Highlands, Newton Centre, Chestnut Hill and Brookline. Under the new arrangement, mails will not be taken from the cranes by the through express trains. The following mails from the Newton office have been discontinued: The 7.40 a.m., 11.20 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4.30 p.m. to Boston. The New York morning mail and the early mail from Boston will be taken on the new postoffice car at Riverside, as will also the afternoon mail from the western mails. No mails will be thrown off from express trains, except the 5 a.m. from Boston and 5.43 a.m. from New York, which will drop mails at Newton as usual. An important feature of the new arrangement will be the arrival of the morning mail from New York and the East nearly an hour earlier at the Auburndale, West Newton and Newtonville postoffices. The exchange of mails between Newton Lower Falls and Auburndale has been discontinued. The postal car has proved to be popular and valuable addition to the mail service in this city and its advantages over the old system are very great, especially regarding time in the receipts of mail. Formerly, letters from Newton to Newtonville (as an example of the old system) were first forwarded to the Boston postoffice and then sent to their ultimate destination. Now, the mail between these points is made up on the postal car and delivered promptly at the station where the postoffice is located. The postal car service was advocated, as was before stated in this paper, by Chief Clerk Shepardson of the U. S. Railway Mail Service, and the plan was approved by the general superintendent of the U. S. railway mail service, Mr. J. Lowrie Bell of Washington, D. C., who authorized the establishment of the new postal car route.

THE POMROY HOME.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS LAST SATURDAY.

The annual meeting of this worthy charity was held at its pleasant home on Hovey street last Saturday, and the old board of directors and officers were unanimously re-elected Miss Boyden, superintendent of the home, made her annual report and Mr. N. T. Allen made the annual report of the directors. It gave briefly the history of the Home, first started by the children's Aid Society of Boston at Newton Centre, under the care of Mrs. Rebecca Pomroy. In 1872 the school was discontinued by the Boston society, for lack of support, and friends in this city determined that the school should be continued, and the present house was secured and the home opened Nov. 8, 1872. Mainly by the aid of the ladies of Newton the Home has been enabled to care for its twenty inmates, and the home was purchased and paid for some five years since. Fifty-two orphans and destitute girls have been connected with the Home, and received its beneficent training. After leaving the home the girls are still followed with parental care and oversight. The board of incorporation is made up of one lady from each of the twenty-seven Protestant churches in Newton, who at the annual meeting elect the directors, upon whom the immediate management of the home devolves. Mr. Allen paid a high tribute to the superintendent and her assistant, who manage everything so excellently, and make such a true home for the children, and endeavor to make them true and noble women, who shall be able to support themselves. The Home is sustained by voluntary gifts from the churches, young ladies in each church assuming charge of the collections. The total annual expense of maintaining the Home is about $2,650.

Before the annual meeting there was an entertainment by the pupils, consisting of music and recitations, much enjoyed by the visitors, and also an exhibition of their needlework, in which special attention was given to the neat specimens of darning and plain needlework, which showed that the pupils are carefully trained. In the kitchen samples of bread made by the pupils and laundry work was shown, and visitors were shown over the house, admiring greatly the perfect order and neatness which always prevails in this model home.

It was found that the local donations for the past year were insufficient to pay the current expenses by about $1,000. Thereupon Mr. George W. Quincy of Boston, who was present, proposed to be one of a number of gentlemen to make up the sum and subscribed $25. The gentlemen of Newton are therefore appealed to, and requested to respond by sending contributions to the Treasurer, Andrew S. March.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A HARMONIOUS AND QUIET GATHERING OF THE LEADERS.

The Republican convention was held at Nickerson's hall, West Newton, on Wednesday evening, and Mr. J. Edward Hollis was chosen chairman and Mr. C. Bowditch Coffin secretary. The credentials committee reported all the delegates present except Mr. H. E. Cobb of Ward 1, who was expected later.

Nominations for mayor were called for and Mr. E. W. Wood presented the name of Herman M. Burr, the present mayor, saying that it was a pleasure to acknowledge the faithful services of Mr. Burr, his constant and regular work for the city, his excellent appointments to committee places, which had had great influence in the satisfactory performance of the city business, his faithful performance of his duties at the school board, visiting personally the city schools. He had been very earnest in enforcing the laws and thus carrying out the expressed wishes of the citizens, as the records of the police court would show, and he believed that his administration was endorsed by a large majority of the citizens, who desired that he should be given another term. Newton had always been fortunate in its mayors, but it was no disparagement of his predecessors to say that one of them had excelled him in faithful attention to the duties of the office, and in efficiency. It was perhaps fortunate that he had had the assistance of a board of aldermen most of whom were men of long experience in city affairs, but no small share of the excellence of the present administration was due to the mayor, and he had the approval of a large majority of the citizens. [Applause.]

Mr. Pickard seconded the nomination and it was made by a rising vote, all the delegates rising.

THE ALDERMEN.

Nominations for aldermen were then called for, and Mr. H. J. Woods presented the name of Lewis E. Coffin of Ward 1, who was chosen unanimously, as were all the candidates, as follows, there being no contests.

Alderman Chadwick presented the name of Councilman John A. Fenuo of Ward 2, who was nominated.

Mr. E. W. Wood seconded the nomination, and the delegates re-elected Alderman Fenuo, who had refused to serve again from Ward 3, but they could follow civil service reform principles and present the name of Mr. Lawrence Bond, president of the council, who had well earned a promotion.

Mr. E. H. Hardy presented the name of Alderman Frederick Johnson of Ward 4; Mr. J. W. Mitchell presented Alderman Geo. E. Pettie's name of Ward 5, and Mr. Robert H. Gardner presented Alderman Wm. F. Harbach as the choice of Ward 6, all of whom were chosen.

Mr. W. P. Ellison presented the name of Alderman E. S. Hamblen, who had served faithfully in the Common Council and had just been chosen alderman to fill a vacancy. Mr. Hamblen was chosen unanimously.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Nominations for school committee were made without speeches, as follows: Ward 1, Chas. A. Drew; Ward 2, Frank J. Hale, A. B. Putney; Ward 3, C. C. Barton, A. D. S. Bell; Ward 4, Geo. C. Travis. On motion of Mr. W. E. Webster, the ward and city committee were authorized to fill vacancies and the convention adjourned, after a very short session.

THIEVES ON THE RAMPAGE.

SEVEN HOUSES ENTERED—SILVER, MONEY AND JEWELRY STOLEN.

Newton was visited by professional house breakers at an early hour Monday morning. Seven residences were entered, but the thieves were not successful in capturing a large amount of booty. At L. S. Ward's house, corner of Homer and Pleasant streets, two gold breast pins and a small sum of money were taken; at Henry Ross' house, Walnut street, the thieves captured 12 silver teaspoons, two silver tablespoons, one sugar spoon and $2 in money. The residences of Arthur Neilson, Homer street; Mrs. E. T. Eldredge and C. W. Leonard, Forest avenue, and Simon White, Clinton street, were also entered, but nothing of value taken. A new vacant house, corner of Waverly avenue and Tremont street, was entered and a quantity of carpenter's tools valued at $10 were stolen. Entrance was effected generally by the use of nippers. At Neilson's house, the thieves entered through the bulkhead; at Mr. Ross' house, the rear window fastening was forced, and the same method was adopted in gaining admission to the Leonard house. The police of the central station are working on the cases.

Industrial Education.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club, held Nov. 13th, the matter of Industrial Education in Newton was considered, reports of the vacation schools being the main feature of the morning's discussion. There was some delay in planning the season's work, as it was hoped the city would see the need of establishing such a school in a suitable location. But that not being the case, a sewing school was opened at Nonantum under the management of some members of the Club in the rooms generously provided for that use by Mr. H. W. Wellington. The teachers of that school feel that a good work was accomplished, a beginning made, and opportunities disclosed for more extended work. A large field is opened, and need was shown not only for sewing and carpentry schools, but for a kindergarten, and a cooking school. The session of the school was two weeks. At first thirty names were enrolled, but the numbers increased, so that seventy-three were connected with the school during the session. The average membership was fifty-four and average attendance forty. Five teachers were required; the principal, two regular assistants, and two members of the Club, or their friends. Two hundred and fifty garments were completed; aprons, night dresses, undergarments, dresses, pillow cases, besides bags, patch-work and trim work. The session of the school was two weeks. ## THE PONY WHIPPED THE BEAR.

Young Dungan Declined to Accept the Bear in Payment for the Service.

Two men who belong to a tribe of wandering Russians now camping in Wisconsin woods, were nearly killed by a big brown grizzly bear last evening after a desperate battle, on Dark Run lane, near Trenton avenue. They were rescued by the bravery of Albert Dungan, the 15-year-old son of Lieut. Dungan, of the Fifteenth police district.

The bear belongs to the two men who were attacked, and they make a precarious living by taking him on dancing tours. When on these tours he is always securely muzzled and led by a chain. Yesterday the men thought they would see how the bear would behave while off the chain and released of his muzzle. The animal acted in a docile manner for the greater part of the day, and the men thought that he had become entirely domesticated. About 6 o'clock in the evening they sat down by the roadside in Dark Run lane and began eating some slices of bread which they carried in their pockets.

They were entirely oblivious of bruin, who was hungry, too. The powerful brute finally decided to seize a share of the feast, and he crawled up to one of the men and seized the unsuspecting wanderer in his claws. The victim shouted, and his companion sprang to his help. He tried to get his friend from the bear's clutches, but his efforts only served to further anger the beast. He held his victim with one powerful front paw, while he extended the other and drew the second man to him.

When both men found themselves fairly in the bear's clutches they screamed in terror. They struggled in every way to release themselves from the vice like grasp, but were unsuccessful. While they were fighting against almost certain death young Dungan, who was riding a mustang not far away, heard their piteous appeals for help and dashed to the rescue.

He took in the situation at a glance and bravely tried to ride his pony head first into the bear. This was more than his spirited steed could be forced to do. Failing in this the boy turned the horse's head around and backed it up against bruin. He was just in time.

The bear was about to bring his ponderous jaws down on one of the men's shoulders when the little mustang, provoked by contact with the unyielding mass, let fly his heels with such force as to literally kick the bear grizzly half across the lane. The bear was so surprised by this sudden and unexpected attack that he dropped his human load and started to turn to face his new enemy. Before he could get fairly into a fighting position the little mustang's heels again flew out and again the bear now thoroughly confused and vanquished, dropped in a heap.

It was the work of only a few moments' time to place the chain and muzzle on the defeated brute. The two men were almost stripped. Their clothing was in rags and they were badly scratched and bruised in their encounter. They were so grateful to young Dungan that they wanted to make him a present of the bear, but the boy sensibly declined. His timely presence and novel method of warfare undoubtedly saved the lives of the two men. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Making the Sun Work.

One of the most notable inventions displayed at the Paris exhibition is an apparatus for transforming the heat of the sun into motive power for pumping water and other mechanical uses. It is the device of a French inventor named Charles Tellier.

This apparatus is of great interest as foreshadowing the time when solar heat, in combination with electric transmission of force, will be made to furnish motive power for all engines, and take the place of coal and steam—a change which will vastly cheapen manufactures and travel, and greatly enhance human comfort the world over.

The heat which comes to the earth in the sun's beams is, as has long been known, the equivalent of from one to five or more horse power for every square yard of the earth's surface, according to the latitude and the season of the year.

The utilization of this waste heat, its conversion into usable power, has been the study of inventors, and much time and great sums of money have been spent upon it. M. Tellier's contrivance aims to accomplish this object. —Swedenborg News.

A Famous Wooden Leg.

A celebrated wooden leg has been discovered in an old Vincennes shop, which was once a smithy. There is abundant evidence that the relic in question is the sham limb which replaced the leg which Gen. Daumesnil lost in the big wars of the first Napoleon. This rugged old warrior defended the fortress of Vincennes against the allied army, and is famous for having said to the invaders, when summoned to give up the place: "Bring me back my leg which you shot off and you shall have my keys!" The wooden leg now found had been sent by Daumesnil to a Vincennes smith in order to be "shod," as the general himself expressed it. Before the article was sent back the old warrior died suddenly, and his sham limb remained in the ancient smithy until the present day. It will now be placed in the artillery museum of the Hotel des Invalides among many other martial and historic souvenirs. —London Telegraph.

Leprosy in the Northwest.

Dr. Armar Hanson, a Norwegian savant, recently visited this country, and in Wisconsin and Minnesota examined a number of lepers who had emigrated from Norway. He arrived at the interesting result that of 100 of such emigrants the offspring has remained free to the third generation. This, the author believes, shows emphatically that leprosy is not a hereditary disease. He thinks that the different mode of life in the new country does not afford the same opportunity of contagion as given by the peculiar conditions of life in Norway. —Chicago Tribune.

His Ear All Right.

Everybody who travels on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad knows Conductor John Dinges. He is one of the greatest jokers in the service, and when not punching tickets is busy telling stories or perpetrating a joke. Conductor Dinges' ears are historical. They are remarkable, not for their size, but for their wonderful pliability. His favorite trick is to double up his ears and then stuff them far into the orifice. This makes them look as if they had been mashed with a crowbar.

The other night, while the train was speeding along toward Altoona at the rate of fifty-five miles an hour, Dinges doubled his ears and passed through the fourth car. Nearly all the passengers were ladies. They regarded Dinges with amazement. The conductor's face wore a look of superb unconsciousness. One old lady with iron-gray curls and a pug nose could not take her eyes from the ears. When Dinges passed through the car again her curiosity was so great that she could not resist the temptation to stop him.

"What's the matter with your ears, conductor?" she asked.

"Nothing," he replied, innocently, as he elevated his eyebrows, and the ears flew back to their normal position.

The old lady nearly fainted. —Philadelphia North American.

The Discovery of America.

A special from Albany tells of a discovery made by Professor Mulvill Dewey, director of the New York state library, while visiting the national library of France. He went into the manuscript department, and there saw a fine looking man, with white mustache, with his nose in a yellow and musty manuscript. As he approached, the man raised his head and disclosed his identity. He was none other than Gen. Daniel Butterfield. The manuscript in which he was interested was one of St. Brendan, a notable abbot in the Sixth century. The Latin manuscript, which was poorly written, seemed to relate to the discovery of America. Gen. Butterfield told Professor Dewey that he had discovered the manuscript by accident, about three weeks previously, and had become so interested in it that he would remain until he completed reading it. "He had pored over it so long," said Professor Dewey, "that he could read it faster than I could. I must give him credit for that. There is some discussion now over the story that a party of abbots discovered America long before Christopher Columbus did, and it would seem strange at this time, when we are talking about the four hundredth anniversary celebration, if Gen. Butterfield were to discover evidence which bore out the facts." —Philadelphia Ledger.

The "June Bug" Poem.

Edwin C. Colgan, editor of The Cumberland Gap, a weekly newspaper at Middleborough, Ky., died suddenly in this city last Monday of pneumonia. Mr. Colgan was author of the famous "June Bug" poem, which is familiar to every newspaper reader, and has been parodied in a thousand forms. Others laid claim to its composition, but Colgan could prove indisputably that he was its author. He wrote it about eight years ago, when he was a reporter on The Courier Journal of this city. It originally appeared as follows:

The June bug has a gaudy wing,
The lightning bug has fame;
But he gets there all the same.

One night when news was scarce Mr. Colgan handed in this little poem with his batch of copy. The city editor allowed it to get into type, but the managing editor promptly killed it. The next day Mr. Colgan rewrote it and took it to Mr. Donald G. Padman, who was contributing a column of humorous paragraphs to the editorial page of The Courier-Journal. Mr. Padman placed it at the head of his column, and it appeared there on the following day.

The bit of rhyme was at once taken up by the press of the country, and has been recited in every village and town of the Union. —Louisville Telegram.

A Talking Pensioner.

A man down in Colerain township, Lancaster county, lost his pension a short time ago in a way that he thought for a time was rather mysterious, but he now understands. Three or four years ago he was allowed a pension for total disability, and he received the sum of $1,500, which he claimed to be due him. After that he received $14 a month. About two months ago the pensioner, who makes posts and rails and sets fence, was at work near his home, when a well dressed and pleasant looking stranger came by and engaged him in conversation. As the pensioner heaved the posts, the new comer began talking about that kind of work, and asked him how much he could do in a week. The pensioner, who is inclined to brag about himself, said that he could make more posts and set more fence in a day than any other man in the neighborhood. The stranger soon went away, and since that time the countryman has not received a pension. He has since learned that the stranger was a detective in the employ of the government, who had been sent there to find out whether he was as badly disabled as he claimed to be. —Reading (Pa.) Times.

Growing Peanuts in Hartford.

A lady who lives on Farmington avenue has a servant who is very fond of plants and flowers. Last spring, as an experiment, she planted some peanuts. They were placed in the earth under the lee of the house, and in a spot where they would get as much sun as possible. They came up and by careful watching and very tender treatment were induced to grow quite well. Recently she went out and dug two handfuls of very excellent peanuts. —Hartford Courant.

A new gem, the pierre Tonquinoise, is in the market. When cut like the diamond, it is said to be very beautiful. Its color is a dark blue, more brilliant than sapphire, though some varieties have a purple or red tinge.

BLACK BASS BY NIGHT.

Lake Keuka Fishermen Have a Singular Way of Catching Them.

Black bass fishing by night during the fall is a sport peculiar to Lake Keuka, it being the belief of the fishermen along the lake, which results would seem to justify, that the bigger black bass do their feeding at night during that season. The bass evidently have peculiar ideas, too, about what they are willing to try in the way of something to eat at night. In fishing for black bass during the day the angler on Keuka is particular to have the choicest of live bait—minnows, crawfish or dobson. Minnows are the bait most used.

The fisherman drifts slowly in his boat along the shores, following the curves of the quiet coves and rounding the many points that jut into the lake on both sides. He keeps his line in about twenty feet of water, and uses no sinker, or, if any, a light one. The bait must be constantly lively on the hook, or the bass will not come near it. At night the fisherman seeks places where the water is forty or fifty feet deep. Instead of a single hook and a live bait he uses a gang of at least ten hooks, tied in pairs an inch apart. They are tied to strong gut, and are but little larger than an ordinary trout fly hook. The bait used is golden shiner, which is caught in the lake. It is hooked to the gang at the lip and tail, in a curve, so that when it is trolled through the water the bait will whirl, the shiner, of course, being dead. Where the leader, six feet long, and the line are joined another line is attached. This is six or eight feet long. To its pendant end is attached a half pound lead sinker. This is let to the bottom. The gang and shiner play in the water the length of the sinker line above the bottom. This rig is used at the end of 150 feet of line. The boat drifts or is rowed very slowly.

The black bass that are caught by this peculiar tackle in the great depth of water where it is used are always immense specimens. A catch of twenty made by Doc Stephens at Bluff Point the other night weighed sixty-five pounds. The same rig has been tried time and again in the day time, but with little success. Bluff Point, a bold promontory rising more than 800 feet above the lake, at the junction of the lake proper and its west branch, is the favorite locality for night bass fishing. The shores are rocky and the water deep.

If a person is rugged and tough, and likes a dash of the weird and uncanny mingled with his surroundings, he will enjoy black bass fishing at night on Lake Keuka. There is a thrill in the wind that disturbs the lake's surface that goes straight to the marrow. The numbness of fingers that follows the handling of a wet line, and the adjusting anew of a bait is not calculated to give joy to the ordinary angler. The shadows of Bluff Point are dark, and the front of the bluff itself rises like a grim specter on the scene. The cry of the loon, wailing, demoniacal, blood curdling, sometimes bursting upon one almost at his side, and then coming from afar with the chasing waves, is among the attendant diversions, and one that does not add much to the cheerfulness of the surroundings, nor add zest to the sport. That this novel way of bass fishing is popular on Lake Keuka, however, was well testified to the other night, when no less than fifty boats were drifting about in the shadows off Blue Point, each containing from one to three fishermen. The catch of big bass that night ran far up into the hundreds. Ordinary everyday black bass fishing, always excellent on Lake Keuka, was never better than it is this fall. —Hampdonsport Cor. New York Sun.

The Rats Took the Morning Paper.

A family of rats here have amazingly disturbed the family in whose cellar they dwell. For several days in succession the morning paper, which was left upon the front steps of the house early every morning, was missing. Complaint was made at the office of the paper, and it was found that the sheet had been properly delivered right along. Some days later a neighbor, who had arisen early in the morning, happened to look out of his window, saw two large rats upon the doorstep of the house opposite. He watched their movements for a while, and saw them take the morning paper and disappear with it under the piazza. He reported what he had seen, and an investigation showed that the rats had burrowed down from beneath the porch to the cellar, and, in a secluded spot, had built a nest and were rearing a promising batch of young. The nest was constructed out of Hartford morning newspapers. —Hartford Telegram.

Moving a Bridge.

The Norwich Bulletin says recently the Pennsylvania railroad wanted a big iron bridge, 258 feet long and weighing 25,000 tons, moved from its place over Mill Creek, near Lancaster, to a new site forty-five feet away. Master Carpenter Beard took the job. He had 100 men to help him. He made his preparations leisurely, and, when the last train had passed over the bridge, with his hundred men and his trestles, rollers, jacks and cranes he set to work. In just fifty-eight minutes from the time the work began the bridge was in its new place and a freight train of such size as to require two locomotives was passing over it. Now the ancients couldn't have done that in the same time if they had had 10,000 men. What we know about iron and its uses and how to work it is worth more to the world than all the lost arts of all past ages combined.

Very Funny, Indeed.

Two very humorous boys are in jail at Burlington, Ia. They had a tame crane and a funny idea. The idea was to catch another smaller boy and hold him while they made the crane peck at him. They did this, and the crane pecked out one of the small boy's eyes. The judge sent the boys to jail for fifteen and thirty days. When they got out the victim of their humor ought to organize a posse and capture them; and tie them up and have a little fun with the crane himself. This would appeal strongly to their moral natures. —Chicago Mail.

HELP YOUR NEIGHBOR.

A Little Bit of Altruism Has Power to Bestow Unpurchasable Happiness.

An organization has recently been formed in this country, formed of men and women—the latter preponderating—whose motive and creed are as simple as they are lofty. To become a member and subscribe to the tenets of this organization, it is necessary to agree to one thing, to be pledged to one act. It is that each member shall, each and every day of his life, perform at least one act for the good of a fellow being.

In this age of selfishness it is refreshing to learn that an assemblage of human beings can be found whose watchword is altruism, and who bind themselves to forget self at least once every twenty-four hours. The age in which we live seems one in which the plant unselfishness finds a poor soil indeed. It grows sporadically, not generally, and is too often a stunted and weakly affair. And yet the need of altruism, of self forgetting, is more widespread every year.

The rich grow richer, and, vice versa, the poor grow poorer. Selfishness, on the one hand, and sorrow on the other are growing quantities. Any measure that will lead toward warming into life the chilling embers of altruism must have the sanction and support of all right minded men and women. It is a small thing, indeed, to devote one impulse, one act each day, to the enlightening of some other mortal's life burdens. Opportunities offer to all of us at home and in the bustle and whirl of business life.

There are heavy hearts all about us that we may make brighter; there are gloom and despair, and there are "gray days" that we can render more endurable by the sunshine of a kindly deed or sincerely spoken words. It is not necessary to bear the badge of the Red Cross society to bind up the wounded or alleviate pain. The keenest hurts do not flow blood, and the sorest bruises are not those of the flesh. They can be reached and cured by the exercise of the divine qualities of sympathy and unselfishness, and can be healed by those that never graduated in a school for trained nurses.

In every eighteen hours of waking life there are at least as many opportunities for the display of a practical, unostentatious bit of unselfishness that will make the recipient happier and the bestower happy as well. The organization referred to is one that should find encouragement from all that can realize what it is to be poor and friendless and hopeless. And even if they can not, it will at least be possible to give intelligent sympathy, to perform a small act of pure unselfishness for the mere pleasure which such doing confers. They will find that a little bit of altruism has power to bestow a happiness not purchasable and a delight beyond the scope of a bank note or a check to bestow. The sum of human happiness is not a great thing; individuals may not add thereto, and it is far easier to do this than most people imagine. —Pittsburg Bulletin.

Signs of the Times.

It is said that there is no surer test of hard times than can be found in the advertisements of the newspapers. When the columns are filled with advertisements offering expensive articles for sale it is to be considered ominous, because the rich are the first to feel the pressure and begin retrenchment by getting rid of some of their luxuries. If there is anything in this rule, hard times are in the near future, for the papers during the past two or three weeks have been literally crowded with the offers of gentlemen who are in apparent distress and are offering dog carts, broughams, victorias, horses and all the other accessories of private stables, as well as bronzes and bits of bric-a-brac, to the highest bidder. It does not seem, from casual observation, that anybody in New York can be very hard pushed for money. The display which is made in the streets and at the theatre indicates boundless wealth. Wall street, however, shows some signs of distress. Money has been very tight during the past three months. A few days ago it had got up to 10 per cent, though in the early part of the summer, and when business is usually supposed to be stagnant, 2 and 4 per cent. ruled easily. —Once a Week.

Her Mother's Ghost.

A marriage which was to have taken place at Camden the other night, was interrupted in an unexpected way. The contracting parties, Henry Brown and Miss Mary Morgan, stood before Rev. Mr. Clayton, preparatory to becoming man and wife. A portion of the service had been already read, about fifty witnesses being present, when the bride uttered a loud scream. All eyes were immediately fixed upon her. She was seen to raise her hand and point toward a corner of the church. The next moment she fell on the floor in a swoon and had to be carried out. Physicians worked with her for nearly an hour before she was restored to consciousness. When fully recovered she gave a curious explanation of her conduct. Her mother, who died four months ago, was opposed to her marriage with Brown. The marriage was for a time delayed, but after Mrs. Morgan's death arrangements for it were pushed. Miss Morgan says that just when she was about to pronounce the binding words she raised her eyes and saw her mother's ghost; then she fainted. The wedding was postponed for several days. —New York Journal.

First Dairy School in America.

The state university can boast of having established the first dairy school in America. In this school will be given a thorough course in dairying, including butter and cheese making and the analysis of milk. Mr. O'Connell, a practical cheese maker, who has studied with Professor Robertson in Canada, and has given instructions in Sheboygan county under the auspices of the State Dairyman's association, will give instructions in cheese making, and Dr. Babcock in butter making and milk analysis. The dairy house will be provided with the wonderful Swedish butter extractor, which takes the butter directly from the milk. —Madison (Wis.) Telegram.

Churchill's nomination for the common council gives great satisfaction to his many friends throughout the ward, and especially to the people on the north side of the track, who think they should have some representative. The district in the vicinity of Watertown and Crafts streets has not had a representative since Mr. Towne, and they feel that they should have some one to look after their interests, and they persuaded Mr. Churchill to allow the use of his name. Mr. Fennel will take care of the south side of the track, and Mr. Wiswall of the north-western part of the ward, and the north side people will work hard for Mr. Churchill, who is just the kind of man the city needs in the council. Mr. Churchill did not seek for the honor, and it was only at the earnest solicitation of the people that he promised not to refuse a nomination. Mr. Wiswall and Mr. Churchill would make a strong team, so the people are saying, but Mr. Wiswall always gets good men to represent.

As the procession passed down the aisle, the organist rendered the beautiful wedding march from Lohengrin. At the pulpit, the bride and her attendants were met by the groom and best man and the couple were united in marriage by Rev. G. S. Butters, pastor of the church. The bride wore a cream white silk, court train, the usual tulle veil and orange blossoms. —Many citizens here are much gratified at the nomination of Rev. A. E. Lawrence for the school board, as he has the confidence and respect of all classes, and is also an authority on educational matters. He ought to secure a large vote in the ward.

—Messrs. W. O. Knapp & Co. have leased the back half of the vacant store next to theirs, recently occupied by Mr. D. H. McWain, and are fitting it for a store room. It gives them just one half as much more room and will allow them much more floor room in the main store.

—Mr. Geo. A. Frost, who accompanied Mr. Kennan in his Russian journey and who illustrated the articles written by Kennan for the Century, will speak in Newton Highlands, Lincoln Hall, Saturday evening of next week. Tickets twenty-five cents. Lecture at eight o'clock.

—On Friday evening last twenty-five of the friends and neighbors of Mr. G. N. B. Sherman surprised him at his home on 25th street, the occasion being his 25th birthday. He was presented with a very handsome marble clock and a parlor lamp, and his guests partook of an oyster supper.

—Mr. Eugene Pratt and Miss Beatrice Hill were united in marriage Wednesday evening by Dr. Stearns, at the residence of Councilman Roffe. Presents were received from Mr. S. L. Pratt, Councilman Roffe and other friends of the happy couple, who will take rooms in Roffe's block.

—On Monday morning the new postal car for the circuit was put on, necessitating change in the closing of mails as follows: 7:45 a. m., 12:30, 2:45, 5:50 p. m., and arriving, 8:25 a. m., 1:15, 3:10, 5:20, 7:15 p. m., giving us one additional mail, and one daily. The late arrival of the last mail necessitates keeping the office open each evening in the week until 8 o'clock.

—The "Thespians" announce an Amateur Theatrical entertainment for the evening of Dec. 4th, at Associates Hall. The proceeds will go to the Improvement Society. The club will be assisted by a full orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Robert S. Loring of this village, composed of local talent. Tickets will be sold at J. J. Noble's Drug Store on and after Monday, Nov. 25th.

—The tickets for the theatrical entertainment by "The Thespians," to be given in Associates Hall, Dec. 4th, for the benefit of the Improvement Society, are on sale at J. J. Noble's, Monday, Nov. 25th. The two plays to be presented are "The Cool Collegians" and "The Little Rebel." The entertainment being for the same object as the "Festival of Days," which was such a success financially, it is hoped that the same enthusiasm will be manifested in the purchasing of tickets next Monday.

—Wednesday evening in the parlor of the new Baptist Church Mr. Lewis, a returned missionary from the Congo Valley, gave the second of his illustrated lectures, under the auspices of the Baptist Missionary Society here. He gave a very thrilling description of his life in that country, a country of magnificent flowers, and venomous reptiles. He said the people there had no religion, no marriage ceremony, wives were bought of the parents, and could also be offered a second time if a higher price was offered.

prominent Republicans have expressed their disapproval of this action and have gone to Mr. Richardson and pledged to him their support. He has made a very active member of the City Council, regular in attendance and efficient in the discharge of his duties, and it is only fair to give him another term. It is very convenient to have a member who can always be found easily when a citizen has started with the city, and Mr. Richardson has always been very obliging. As the caucus endorsed Mr. C. C. Barton for the school committee, who may be called the leading Democrat in the city, without any conscientious scruples, it was hardly fair play to signal out Mr. Richardson, as he has been acceptable to all classes of citizens.

—The "Centre Club" has organized with the following officers: President, Frank A. Mason; Treasurer, Charles M. Scuderi; Secretary, Harry A. Tomlinson; Executive Committee, Harry A. Tomlinson, Frank E. Fennessy, David B. Harding, J. Edwards Harlow, Samuel A. Shannon, Frank A. Mason. The organization has a list of forty charter members, and now have over forty more who have been proposed by members, for membership. The suite of rooms to be occupied by the club, include about one half of the entire second floor in White's block, and will contain when fitted up, a writing room, parlor with a fine toned, Ivers & Pond upright piano which arrived last week, two card rooms, reading room containing papers and periodicals, the pool room, which will contain pool and billiard tables, and a bath-room. This includes three entrances, affording direct communication with the street or cars from any part of the suite. The club expects to occupy and have the whole suite fitted in first-class style soon after the first of December. The object of the Centre Club is for the promotion of entertainments and social gatherings here during the winter months especially. On the desk in the writing room was noticed a handsome brass table lamp which was presented to the club, last week Thursday, by the young ladies of the village. The Club rooms are open to members each day, and except on Sunday when the rooms will be closed. The rooms are leased for one year from Dec. 1st, and the Club starts in successfully both financially, and in membership and equipment.

—The Lyceum held their meeting on Wednesday evening in Lincoln Hall at which there was a good attendance. The question, "Resolved, that the placing of iron ore, coal and pig iron on the free list will be for the interest of the people and the manufacturers of New England," was ably debated by Mr. George A. Gleason, Mr. G. F. Leonard and Mr. Samuel Shaw.

—Those people who were not able to hear Kennan when he was in Boston will be glad to learn that the Chautauqueans have secured his companion and artist, during the winter, for a lecture tour, to speak in Lincoln Hall, Saturday evening. The name of Mr. Frost has become familiar to all who have read the Century articles and seen his illustrations in them.

Co. are fencing in their property on the line of the road, regardless of houses, coal sheds, etc. The Linden street crossing to the Pettee Machine works has been closed, several buildings which encroached on their land will have to be moved, and Mr. J. W. Mitchell's coal shed and office will have to be removed, if the line is as rigidly adhered to at that point. ## A BUSINESS MAN FOR MAYOR.

NEWTON, MASS., NOV. 25, 1889.

TO THE VOTERS OF NEWTON:—

Your attention to the action of the CITIZENS' CAUCUS, held in West Newton, November 18, 1889, is respectfully solicited, with the hope that you, as also many others, will be interested in the movement that seeks to place a man of business at the head of our city government.

Mr. HERMON E. HIBBARD,

the subject of this sketch, and the

Citizens' Candidate for Mayor of Newton,

Was born in North Hero, Vt., March 28, 1848. In 1866, having decided to enter upon an enlarged sphere of action, he came to the City of Boston where he met the full quota of disappointments and discouragements which usually beset a country boy upon his advent to city life. His indomitable will conquered all the obstacles that came in his way, and in 1868 he became the owner of the Bryant and Stratton Commercial School of Boston, an institution now numbering six hundred pupils in daily attendance, the far-reaching influence of which would be difficult to estimate.

In 1873, Mr. HIBBARD became a resident of the City of Newton. He has shown his interest and love for the city he has chosen for a home by investing largely in real estate, becoming one of our largest tax payers, and evincing in a most substantial way his interest in her improvements, charities and churches.

Thorough and painstaking in everything, he has learned the value of sound business principles applied to all that pertains to every-day life, and his success in his chosen vocation is not only an apt illustration of the practical application of those principles to educational purposes, but is a fact which should receive the careful consideration of all who are interested in the advancement of the educational interests of our city.

In presenting Mr. HIBBARD'S name to the citizens of Newton as a candidate for the office of Mayor, his friends recommend him as a thorough man of business, upright in all his dealings, thoroughly alive to the needs of the hour, and one who consented to allow his name to be used only after the most earnest and continued solicitation; avowing that no consideration could induce him to seek the office, or to accept it if elected, except the free and unsolicited call of his fellow citizens.

In his business he has never for a moment wavered in his determination to achieve the highest attainable results, and we confidently assume that if elected to the office of Mayor of Newton, he would apply equally successful methods in the administration of the affairs of the city.

Respectfully,

SAMUEL SHAW, Chairman,
For the Committee.

RATHER SUGGESTIVE.

AN ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE'S RECORD ON ILLEGAL LIQUOR SELLING.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

When Mr. M. J. Duane, who had previously pleaded guilty to keeping a liquor nuisance, came up on the first of November of the current year for sentence in the Newton Police Court, Mr. William J. Follett, the Citizens' nominee for Alderman from Ward Seven, being moved by the ties of tender sympathies and close fellowship with Mr. Duane, sought to extenuate his offense and get the least penalty passed upon him by testifying as follows:—

"I have known Mr. Duane 6 or 7 years and have always found him to be an honest citizen. I never knew of anything in his conduct open to criticism aside from this case. It seems to me that justice demands that the illegal sale of liquor should be stopped, but it certainly does not demand the persecution of a man. I believe that Duane will keep his pledge, and consequently, the purpose of the law in stopping the illegal sale, so far as his case is concerned, will be accomplished."

Mr. Robinson—"What is your ground for that belief and why do you think that he will keep his promise any more than previous promises given which he has not respected?"

Mr. Follett—"If I did not sincerely believe that he would keep his promise made under oath, I certainly should not appear in his behalf. I believe that he has seen the error of his ways and that he will no longer defy the law. I think that a sentence of imprisonment, under the circumstances, will result in injury to the temperance cause in this city. If the sentence is pressed it will make votes for license."

It is evident from this testimony that Mr. Follett thinks that, whatever may be the demands of justice, his warm friend Duane should not be punished for frequently and repeatedly violating the law, and his declaration that "if the sentence of imprisonment is pronounced and 'is pressed it will make votes for license' is a threat by implication that if his friend Duane is punished, Newton will be made a license city."

The Board of Aldermen is a power in the enforcement of the law against the illegal sale of liquor and crime of every kind: the Board also is a power in the matter of licenses, and the issue in this election, as far as Mr. Follett is concerned, is simply whether the people of Newton, who have heretofore planted themselves on the side of order and sobriety, are prepared to back upon their former record and put Mr. Duane's friend and political representative in the possession and power of an Alderman?

JESSE C. IVY.

Applications for aid may be made to any of the above officers, and donations of money or offers of assistance may be sent to the Secretary or Treasurer.

WOODLAND.

—Again the Woodland station has been the scene of the operations of worthless rascals who for sake of small plunder are willing to inflict serious damage to private property. At an early hour yesterday morning the safe was blown open, the noise of the explosion being heard in all the surrounding villages. The thieves took $15 from the safe and the station agent's revolver was also stolen. Two half-burned $5 bills were found on the floor. The force of the explosion blew out the half-round windows in the ticket office and shattered the glass badly.

Endorse Mayor BURR.

We the undersigned, citizens of Newton, endorse the administration of MAYOR BURR and earnestly advocate his re-election:

Because he has kept every pledge made in his inaugural address.

Because he has given to the city a first-class business administration.

Because he has kept department expenses within the appropriations.

Because he has fearlessly enforced the liquor and Sabbath laws.

Because the city owes it to its own fair fame to stand steadfastly by a faithful public servant.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

RESIGNATION OF WATER REGISTRAR GLOVER.

Both branches of the city government were in session Monday night, and the event of the session was the reading of the resignation of Water Registrar Glover, to take effect Jan. 1st, as he has accepted a position elsewhere at about double his present salary.

In the board of aldermen all the members were present. The resignation of Chas. N. Hahn as deputy inspector in Ward 1 was received and accepted, as he is to be absent from the city next Tuesday.

Alderman E. O. Childs resigned from the committee on revision of city ordinances, as he had not the time to attend to the duties.

MR. GLOVER'S RESIGNATION.

Quite a sensation was made by the resignation of Water Registrar Glover. Mayor Burr said that at his request Mr. Glover had consented to serve until Jan. 1st, as many important matters were to come up meantime, and for which Mr. Glover's thorough knowledge of the subject would be of great value to the water board. The high service matter would be brought up during that time, as the board was nearly ready to report. I have known that his resignation was pending for two or three months, and have regretted it as Mr. Glover has been an efficient and faithful servant of the city and his loss will be felt. The resignation was accepted.

L. H. Farlow and Frank A. Barrows were confirmed as election officers of Ward 7.

A communication was received from Capt. Applin of the Clifton Guards, asking that the lower hall at the armory be used for elections, as the putting up of the railings prevented any drill on Monday night, and so many screws in the floor would soon ruin it. There were 130 screw holes after the recent election. He also asked for a week's notice hereafter when the city desired to use the hall as according to the new regulations Armory Hall could not be let for any purpose without the permission of the adjutant general. Referred to the committee on elections.

Alderman Johnson moved that the petition of the Salvation Army be taken from the table and Mr. N. T. Allen be given an opportunity to be heard. Mr. Allen said he appeared at the request of the Salvation Army. He was much surprised and pained at the remarks made last week, for the reason that he thought it was wrong to prescribe any person or persons on account of their religion, when they desired to benefit their fellow men. It was also a reflection on him for allowing the army to use his hall. They had come to him just before he started on his vacation, to get the use of his hall, and he had gone with them to the police office, and found that the marshal had given them permission to march on the streets, and had no objection, so he gave them the use of the hall, and he considered them as honest as any other missionaries. They had kept the hall in an excellent condition. He had been at one of their meetings and found them as orderly as the Methodists were 40 years ago, and conducted their meetings in much the same manner. He thought their labors beneficial as they went down to the people whom the other sects did not reach. Mr. Allen said he had called on Rev. H. J. Patrick, who said that he had met the head man of the army in England, and that they had done immense good there. He did think it was out of character to have that kind of work in West Newton, but he must confess that there was need of it, judging from recent offences against the law. He had known of several cases where people had been benefited, in particular one young man who had been awakened and had started on a better life. He had come to him and asked to be admitted to his school, and was supported by the church by night meetings and morning. He thought we should have utter religious freedom in this country. It they make a disturbance they should be stopped. When a lot was sold here for a Catholic church some people were very indignant, but now no one could say that the church had not done a great deal of good here.

Deacon Stone said that he had never been disturbed by the meetings of the army, and he was satisfied that they were doing good.

Alderman Johnson asked if they could not get some location where the abbots would not object.

Mr. Allen said he would be in favor of this.

Captain Upham said that they did not use their drums on Sunday and were careful to stop drumming when passing the churches. Now that they had a special policeman they were able to keep order at their meetings. Their faith was the same as the Baptists, but stricter, as they did not allow dress, and thought Christians should have some badge by which they could be known. They were a branch of the American order, incorporated as the Christian Crusaders.

Alderman Tolman asked if Upham did not hear their head man, Mr. Moore, promise him that if they got the building they would cease the use of their drums.

Mr. Upham said that Mr. Moore said they had made no such promise.

Alderman Tolman asked if Mr. Moore had made such a promise, distinctly, and in Mr. Upham's presence.

Mr. Upham said Mr. Rand had said they left the hall filthy. It was not so, he had looked it over carefully and had found only four or five spots made by tobacco, and his mouth had washed them out. Beside the carpet and hall were full of dust and they had swept it out leaving it much neater than when they found it.

The hearing then closed and the petition was referred to the committee on finances. A hearing will be given next Tuesday evening, at 8.15, before the board of aldermen.

SKINNER HILL WANTS.

A numerous signed petition from S. L. Powers, W. J. Follett and others was presented asking that Arlington street, Ward 7, be rebuilt and put in good condition. Referred to highway committee.

J. N. Bailey asked to have his sidewalk, Washington street, Ward 7, concreted and graded; referred.

Alderman Harbach reported from the highway committee favorably on petition to have Fairbanks avenue, from Calver-nia to Lynnwood streets, laid out, graded and accepted, and an order was passed granting a hearing to the property owners interested, on Dec. 16th at 8 p. m., before the board of aldermen, and Dec. 23 before the common council.

AUBURNDALE DOG SCARE.

Alderman Johnson reported an order which was passed, that all the dogs in Ward 4 be muzzled and tied up for a period of 30 days. He said that a large number of people had called to see him on the matter, and there was a good deal of fear among the people, as 20 dogs had been reported to have been bitten by a mad dog. Some of them had been sent to Al. Watts, who had returned them with the statement that there was no such thing as a mad dog, and they were now running at large. There was a good deal of nervousness over the matter, and he read a letter from Mr. Whiting of the Boston Herald, asking for the passage of the order, that the alarm might be quieted.

M. Conlon gave notice of intention to erect a house on Hawthorne street, Ward 2; C. W. Chamberlain, one on Ward street, Ward 6; Thomas McGoon, one on Clinton place; and M. C. Bragdon, one on Lake avenue, Newton Highlands.

Geo. A. Walton was granted license to put up a block 60 by 50 on Chestnut street, Ward 3, for stores and dwellings. The New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. were granted a license to erect poles on Fountain, Highland, Valentine, Homer and Willow streets, under the usual conditions.

On motion of Alderman Childs, the committee on ordinances were requested to report at the next meeting an amendment to an ordinance, providing for the care and maintenance of the police telegraph system.

On motion of Alderman Tolman, the order providing for the sale of $40,000 of 4 per cent. water bonds was rescinded and a substitute passed, with verbal changes to make it more satisfactory. The action of the city treasurer in awarding the contract for the bonds to Blake Brothers & Co. of Boston, at the rate of $1124.10 and accrued interest for each $1,000 bond, was ratified.

An order was passed for the laying out, grading and acceptance of Union street, from Station street to Institution avenue.

On motion of Alderman Harbach $2,014.36 was appropriated in addition to the contract price for the building of the stone bridge at Bemis station, on account of the large amount of extra work done by reason of the wet season, the temporary bridge, electric lights for night work, etc.

An order was also passed for the payment to Dudley H. Bradley, assignee of the contract of Thos. F. Meany & Co., for the building of Bemis bridge of $1,690.87, $300 being kept back until the work to be done next summer when the low water will allow of it.

An order was passed transferring $1500 from the appropriation for interest on city loans, temporary, $1100 to be credited to the miscellaneous account, $200 to the armory appropriation, for the range, and $200 for state aid, which will be returned to the city. The $600 for telephone rentals, $200 for the city solicitor in suits against the city, and other expenses are to be paid by this transfer.

An order was passed granting the free use of City Hall to St. Bernard's Catholic Society for an entertainment Thursday afternoon and evening, Dec. 28.

$27,500 was appropriated for the expenses of the city during December. Orders were passed for one new street lamp on Walnut street, near B. S. Grant's, one on Kendrick street, six on Irving street, two on Chestnut, two on Union avenue, one on Jewett place, electric light on Adams avenue, one lamp on Allen place, two on Walnut place, two on Hawthorne avenue and one on River street.

The board, after concurrent business, adjourned to next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, to receive election returns.

Common Council.

In the Common Council, President Bond occupied the chair. Papers from the board of aldermen were passed in concurrence.

Councilman Bates presented the petition of S. L. Powers, W. J. Follett and others, asking that Arlington street be repaired and put in proper condition for travel. It was referred to the highway committee.

On motion of Councilman Hall, a recess was then taken. Upon reassembling, hearings were opened and closed, no remonstrances appearing on the laying out and acceptance of Union and Sewall streets and Kimball Terrace. An order was passed authorizing the laying out and acceptance of Sewall street.

Councilman Hyde offered an order authorizing the committee on public property to purchase a tract of land at Newton Highlands for a location for an engine house, at an expense not to exceed $3000, and providing for its payment by a five year note, bearing interest not to exceed four per annum.

In support of the order, he said that it had originally been intended to include the sum needed for the purchase of the land and the appropriation budget for 1890, but that the item had been dropped by the finance committee, and he recommended the present order instead.

Councilman Wiswall said that a building for fire department uses was needed at the Highlands, but thought that it was a large price for the land.

Councilman Hyde said that land at the Highlands commanded a good price, and was growing more and more valuable. Two available lots had been looked at by the fire committee, the price of one being $2000. It was hard to find a lot adapted for fire purposes.

Councilman Wiswall asked if it was necessary to secure so large a lot?

Councilman Richardson said that the parties owning the lots looked at by the fire committee would not consent to sell a portion of the land.

Councilman Hyde said that the matter of location and price could be left to the committee, and a suitable lot would be purchased at as low a price as possible.

Councilman Richardson moved to amend, authorizing the committee to purchase land at a price not exceeding $2500.

Councilman Raullett said that if the order passed at $3000, the owners of the property would want to put the price up on the land. He moved the reference of the order to the public property committee.

Councilman Hyde thought it would be unjust to refer the matter again to a committee. The people of Newton Highlands had been waiting patiently and that fire apparatus and a suitable building were much needed.

The motion to refer the order to the public property committee was then put and lost.

After some further discussion, Councilman Wiswall and Hyde participating, the original order was passed, 13 voting in the affirmative; one member absent.

An order, offered by Councilman Hyde, was also adopted, authorizing the public property committee to advertise for plans and proposals for the erection of a building for fire department purposes at Newton Highlands.

A recess was then taken. The board upon reassembling acted on papers from the upper branch, passing them in concurrence.

The appropriation budget for 1890 was considered and passed as amended at the previous meeting of the aldermen.

They Are Public Servants.

To the Editor of the Graphic.

Those who consider that all who desire to see Mr. Barton removed from the School Committee are actuated simply by motives of revenge, on account of the serious error into which he led the committee by Mr. Cutler's dismissal from the High School, have evidently a very indistinct appreciation of the question at issue.

The charge brought with justice against Mr. Barton is that he has not acted in his public capacity as the representative of the citizens of Newton. Private motives have repeatedly influenced his conduct in the School Committee. In the Cutler affair the expressed will of the people was entirely disregarded; the military drill grievance was settled behind closed doors, only one side of the case having been heard; and in the case of Miss Haggood no defence of the committee's action was ever given to the public. In all of these matters Mr. Barton was especially concerned.

These are but samples of his general policy to be influenced more by personal feelings than by public spirit. Therefore, with simple regard for the best interests of the city, it may well be asked whether it is not better to elect from Ward six members of the School Committee who shall remember that they are public servants and not autocrats.

JAMES F. MORTON, JR.

COLLECTOR SALTONSTALL has shown that the Boston Custom House can be run successfully by eliminating politics from appointments, and so much satisfaction has been given that prominent importers who are Republicans say that they wish President Harrison would forget to make any appointment in the office during his term. It is conceded to be impossible for a man of the President's character, and with the demand for spoils that surrounds him, to re-appoint even so good a man as Collector Saltonstall, who was appointed by a Democratic administration. "Efficiency, and not party service," might call for such action, but it is certainly to be hoped that Collector Saltonstall will be allowed to serve out his term and that as good a man will succeed him. Mr. Abbott Lawrence, who is spoken of, would seem to be such a man. Under any other system but that of dividing the spoils by the successful party, the admirable record made by Collector Saltonstall would compel recognition by the government.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Resolutions and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists, will be given the most careful consideration. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

"Every advance towards a free exchange of commodities is an advance in civilization; every obstruction to a free exchange is born of the same narrow, despotic spirit which planted castles upon the Rhine to plunder peaceful commerce; every obstruction to commerce is a tax upon consumption; every facility to a free exchange cheapens commodities, increases trade and production, and promotes civilization. Nothing is worse than sectionalism within a nation, and nothing is better for the peace of nations than unrestricted freedom of commerce and intercourse with each other."

HON. JOHN SHERMAN.

The Dinner.

"It was a grand success," Newton Journal.

First, President Walter showed how protection is an unnatural policy and can only be justified (if at all) as a temporary expedient, a necessary evil.

Then Mr. Holmes showed us how protection was an injury to the furniture trade. What the first speaker had claimed on the broad grounds of political economy, the second illustrated in the special field of a single manufacturing industry.

Finally we laughed together over the preposterous nonsense of Treasury Tariff Decisions, and went home happier and wiser men.

About January 15, we hope to meet again.

THREE WORDS ABOUT WOOL.

1. THE FREE TRADER'S WOOL.

On November 15, before the members of the Harvard Free Wool Club, William Lloyd Garrison delivered the most masterly argument on the wool question that has yet come to our notice. Every one ought to read and re-read. The Secretary will send a full report of the lecture to any one on receipt of four cents in postage stamps. We subjoin a few extracts.

"I am to speak to you this evening upon the relation of the protective tariff to the wool and woolen industries. It is around the fleece of the mild sheep that the battle for reform wages most fiercely. The Ohio politicians, who chiefly constitute the Association of wool-growers, consider that the question of protection hinges upon the wool tax. So little apparently do they care for the other protected interests that they threaten to remove the duties from those whose representatives shall make wool free. On the other hand, the wool traders, like David A. Wells, hold the same view, regarding wool as the keystone of the protective arch and the objective point of assault.

Here, therefore, the whole question of the opposing theories of trade can be discussed concretely. Byron says: 'While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand; when falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall'; and as the Coliseum is to Rome, so is the wool tax to the system of protection."

For a careful diagnosis of the woolen industry of today, I could summon, not outside critics, nor free-trade theorists, but such distinguished manufacturers as Rowland Hazard and Robert Bleakie, but I will only quote the latest utterance of Jesse Metcalf: "We believe that the hardships and sufferings among the woolen manufacturers will continue to increase to a greater rate than the wool clip of the country diminishes in quantity, and that nothing can relieve them from partial annihilation except untaxed wool." Annihilation is a pregnant but fitting word. Taxes never have and never can create. They misplace and annihilate."

"I have had many manufacturers whisper into my ear their desire for free wool, but also their fear that the wool-grower will retaliate and go for free goods. As a prominent politician wrote to Robert Bleakie: 'There are more voters in wool-growing than there are in woolen manufacturing; there are more members of Congress who represent wool-growing districts than there are who represent wool-manufacturing districts; and when you have free wool, free woolen goods will immediately follow.' And when this direct threat is breathed, the thought of Ohio vengeance adds to its terror. The recent election, however, demonstrates what was already expected, that the waiting vengeance was a bogey, and like the wooden guns at Manassas, served to suggest a fabulous force behind. The fierce wool-growers were men in buckram in now shown, and if the revulsion in that State does nothing else, it may serve to emancipate the woolen manufacturer from the intimidating whip of Columbus Delano's Association. I see already evidences of returning courage."

"American slavery yielded not to reason, but to revolution. The folly of the slaveholders in their fanaticism did more for its overthrow than the abolitionists. Let us hope that the fanatics of protection will take a leaf from history. Their system is doomed. Every effort to prolong it, every obstacle thrown in the way of lightening taxation, but adds to the force of the temporarily arrested current. The danger will be double when the dam gives way. But while it is yet time let us seek the protection of freedom which is always safe and expedient. The South, which it was prophesied like Egypt would ruin, enters into undreamed of prosperity through emancipation. So America, instead of paralyzing her industry by free trade, will multiply her flocks and factories and become the workshop of the world.

We will return to our appointed place, First in the vanguard of the human race."

The Tariff Reformer's Word.

Wool is the point of attack in the fight that the tariff reformers are making against the present high tariff. The wool-growers and woolen manufacturers recognize that they are in the front rank of the battle and stand together against reform. If the manufacturers did not fear that a move by them for free wool would be followed by a retaliatory move by the wool-growers for free manufactured woolen goods, it is very likely that they would petition congress for the abolition of their duties, in order that they might get their raw material free.

But the fear of the wool-growers that they will be ruined by foreign competition is absurd in the light of the official figures of our wool imports. Last year the United States imported $39,000,000 worth of woolen manufactures and, besides this, $14,000,000 worth of raw wool. Late figures demonstrate fully the incapacity of our wool-growers to meet the home demand, for imports are constantly increasing, though it was predicted that the large imports, due to the bad administration (as it was charged) of President Cleveland, would fall off. For the nine months ending September 30, 1889, the imports of woolen dress goods were valued at $17,228,027 and of woolen cloths at $9,304,300. For the corresponding months of 1888 the figures were respectively $16,326,448 and $8,554,060, while for 1887 they were respectively $15,213,925 and $8,491,327. Taken by yards instead of by dollars, the imports show about the same steady increase, so that the incapacity of our wool-growers and manufacturers is evidently increasing.

If the protective policy tended to encourage sheep raising and wool manufacturing, as all there are many kinds of wool which cannot be raised here, but must be imported, and the duty on them might well be reduced to one-fifth of revenue only. But the high protective wool tariff of 1867, somehow, did not encourage wool-growing nor manufacturers as it was designed to do. In 1867 there were 30,000,000 sheep east of the Mississippi river. Now there are but 13,000,000. Between 1870 and 1880, the woolen mills which disappeared from the government census reports numbered 875, with 2,405 sets of woolen machinery, or 28 1/2 per cent of the whole. The tariff has not helped wool-growers nor manufacturing, but it has put an immense burden upon all the consumers of wool. It is time for a change.

R. L.

The High Protectionist's Word.

"I will say, with regard to the duty on wool and woolens, that I regard it, not as an intentional fraud, but as operating as though it were a fraud, upon the great body of people of the United States. I allude to the wool tariff, a law the effect of which has been to materially injure the sheep-husbandry of this country. In a single county in the State of Iowa, between 1867 and 1880, the number of sheep was reduced from 22,000 to 18,000 in two years; and what is true of that county is true to a greater or less extent of other counties in Iowa; and during this time the price of wool has been constantly depreciated.

As the law now is, the tariff upon fine wools of a character not produced in this country is 100 per cent upon the cost. The tariff upon wools of the same class is only about 50 per cent, so that the finer woolen goods are imported, and the coarser fabrics. Before the tariff of 1867 our manufacturers of fine goods mixed, with fine wools with our domestic products, and were thus able to compete successfully with the foreign manufacturer of similar wools. But being prohibited from importing this class of wools, these fine goods cannot now be produced in this country as cheaply as they were formerly imported. Consequently, mills that were formerly engaged in producing these goods have been compelled to abandon business or manufacture the coarser fabrics. If they could afford to manufacture these fine goods, they would make a market, which we do not now have, for our fine wools to be mixed with other fine wools of a different character from abroad. This want of a market, as I understand it, is the reason why our fine wools now command so low a price. There is no demand for them at home, and we cannot export them in competition with fine wools grown in other countries."

HON. WM. B. ALLISON.

An Odious Comparison.

The Argentine Republic of So. America imports annually more than $100,000,000 of merchandise. The United States furnish $7,000,000 of this amount, which is less than the sum sent by the little Kingdom of Belgium, only one fifth as large as the State of Illinois.

That Dredge Again.

Last summer the Tariff Reformer had some correspondence with customs collectors and owners of Dredges here and there in collecting the materials for the verses in last week's GRAPHIC. Monday, Nov. 25th, the following letter was received:

88 West 5th Street, Oswego N. Y., Nov. 23, 1889.

C. HOWARD WILSON, Newton Centre, Mass. Dear Sir:—Having finished my government contract at Soda Pt., (which is the place I had some correspondence with you) I am desirous of disposing of my dredge.

If you wish to purchase a cheap plant, I will be pleased to give you terms and description.

WM. S. MALCOLM JR.

Here is a chance for the doubting to investigate the story, and for the curious to purchase a memorial of barbarism as suggestive in its way as a quilltine or a pillory.

This soap will absolutely wash any clothing perfectly clean without rubbing in fifteen to twenty minutes, by using it according to directions on each package. It will make the clothes whiter every time they are washed. It will not injure the finest fabric or strength of the clothes, nor the skin of the most tender hands. For washing woolen goods and fine laces it is not surpassed. It will remove grease spots and paint from carpets, clothing and any kind of goods, cotton, silk or woolen. It will restore colors in silk, cotton or woolen goods. For washing floors, oil cloths, marble, slate or tile, and cleaning paint it has no superior. For cleaning gold and silverware, and scouring brass and tin, it has no equal. It is a most excellent disinfectant.

RE NEWTON TRANSCRIPT HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

TEN PAGES.

This number of the GRAPHIC consists of ten pages, to which every patron is entitled. The issues involved in the city election are presented and that they may be read by every voter a special effort will be made to give this number a wide circulation. Owing to lack of space, a great number of letters in favor of Mr. Lawrence for school committee, have been crowded out, together with much local news. But the election is now the main topic of importance, and other matters will have to wait. Every one who receives a copy may consider it a special invitation to subscribe. Price, $2.00 a year.

BURR VS. HIBBARD.

Newton is fortunate in having such good citizens willing to serve it for Mayor, as the two candidates of this year. Both are men of high standing in the community, of proved character and ability, and the contest has become of great interest to the great majority of citizens, although it is rather overshadowed by the stubborn opposition to Mr. Barton, which to many appears the great issue of the present election.

There is one point to be considered, however. Newton pays to its Mayor a salary that is so small it does not pay the necessary official expenses. For this reason the city owes something to a Mayor who does his duty faithfully and efficiently, and this has been the case with Mayor Hibbard. He has been recognized by giving an official a second term as a compliment. No one disputes that Mayor Burr has been one of the most able, efficient and faithful Mayors the city has ever had. Why, then, should not the usual practice be followed in his case? The salary does not pay for the Mayor's services, but there is a certain honor about having the office for two terms that makes up for the lack of salary. If Mr. Burr should happen to be defeated, the city would be deeply in debt to him, and a debt which could not well be repaid.

It has also been the custom, hitherto, to nominate a man for Mayor who has served in the city council, and knew something about city affairs. This has given the new Mayor a great advantage, as it enabled him to take up the city business intelligently, from the point where it was left by the preceding administration, and has prevented costly mistakes, which a new man could not well help making. A railroad does not put a green man in charge of a locomotive, and tell him to learn to run it by experience, as such a practice would be neither safe for the man nor the locomotive. The same thing holds true in the case of the Mayor of a city; he ought to have had some experience before being placed in the Mayor's chair, over the heads of men who have served for years, and who might naturally expect promotion for faithful service, as they receive no other payment for their arduous labors.

It is said that Mr. Hibbard would introduce a great reign of economy and reform. But he could do nothing without the support of the city council, which makes the appropriation and spends the money. We have seen many men elected to the city council on the economy issue, and it has always been almost laughable to see how soon they began to demand increased expenditures in their district, and how speedily they recognized the fact that the economy of the city was not only not extravagant, but that they could not be reduced much below the present standard. The cry of economy in city affairs does very well as an anti-election issue, but it never is heard of after election. A cheese-faring policy might possibly save a few hundred or a few thousand dollars, about as much as Mayor Burr's administration has saved by the new street light contract, but any man who says that the city could be run for half the present expenditures simply shows that he does not know what he is talking about. The most eloquent pleader for economy will at once condemn any administration that refuses to fix up his street, even if it be a new side street on which no team ever passes but his own. In fact Newton wants all the modern improvements, and is willing to pay for them, and any City Council that refused to make improvements would find itself voted out of existence.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

All citizens of Newton are interested in the High School and all that pertains to it, and it is this school which in the past has attracted many parents to Newton, and thus added largely to the population of our city. When Mr. Barton was first chosen to the school board he found a prosperous school, a contented and ambitious set of scholars, and perfect sympathy between pupils and teachers. Mr. Barton has peculiar ideas on education, which he seems to think consists mainly in discipline, and in governing young people chiefly by fear. At Deer Island such ideas might be not unsuccessful, but an application of them in Newton has been productive of the most deplorable results.

When re-elected for the second time Mr. Barton found opportunity to carry his ideas into effect, and supported by a trusty band of followers, he has had his own way in all things. He was opposed to a headmaster who believed that young people were reasonable beings and could be ruled through the better elements in their nature. He succeeded in getting such obnoxious views out of the way by removing the teacher referred to, and at an extra expense of some $3,000 a year he began to run the school in his own way.

The result is seen in the appeal from the High School which we publish today, from pupils of the highest standing in their studies, and who would be recognized as the better element in any school. An effort has been made to set forth in an impartial manner the actual condition of things, and from various other sources we are confident that the picture is but little overdrawn. We doubt if even Mr. Barton can look upon the result of his labors with much satisfaction, and all parents who have or expect to have children there will look at it with even less. The article in question will speak for itself, and there is no need of extended comments.

But the question must be at once brought home to every one who is at all interested in our schools, and it is not high time for a change. What are the claims of Mr. Barton on any party or on the citizens, that his ambition should be gratified at the expense of the prosperity of the High School, and of its future success. Does he want the position for life that he is so anxious to be returned, or what is his object? He has shown what he can do with a successful and prosperous school, and ought we not to now try other methods, to elect a man like Amos E. Lawrence, who will have the fullest confidence and respect of pupils, parents and citizens. With Mr. Lawrence, Mr. Bell and the other new members who will be added, the board would again have the confidence and esteem of the public, so nearly destroyed under the rule of Mr. Barton.

THE ALDERMANIC TICKET.

The election of the best men for aldermen is of quite as much importance as choosing the best man for Mayor. The latter occupies the throne and gets the blame for whatever goes wrong, but the aldermen hold the real power, and without them the Mayor can do very little. Newton has now an excellent body of men in the upper branch of the city council and it is gratifying that three out of the seven have been renominated by both parties. Councilman Fenno, one of the leaders of the common council, has been renominated by both parties, so that next year's administration is sure of being a good one, and also of carrying out the excellent policy pursued this year, no matter who is chosen Mayor.

The only alderman at present holding a position, whose seat is contested, is Alderman Hamblen. Ward Seven, has his opponent Mr. W. J. Follet. It is an excellent policy to take the aldermen from the Common Council, as it is very difficult for a new man, unless he has unusual ability, to make as good a public servant as one who has had experience. Mr. Hamblen made an excellent record in the lower branch, being faithful in the discharge of his duties and intelligent in the conception of them. Since his election to succeed Judge Kennedy, some months ago, he has made one of the best aldermen Ward Seven ever had. He has an intuitive faculty of seeing on the right side of public measures, and has shown himself on every occasion an official to be trusted. He has been careful in looking after the interests of his constituents, his residence is easily accessible, and there is no good reason for making a change. Besides, he has taken a genuine interest in the city, and has not asked for the whole appropriation expended on his own driveway. The stand Mr. Hamblen took against the electric light contract nearly a year ago, and in favor of the Gamewell police signal system, ought to win for him the respect of all.

In Ward One Ex-Councilman Lewis E. Coffin and Councilman Rice are the candidates; both are men of experience in city affairs and both have made excellent records in the lower branch. In Ward Three there is a warm contest between President Bond of the Common Council and Ex-Councilman H. H. Bond. Mr. Bond has made such an excellent member of the lower branch, that it would be for the city's interest to elect him alderman. Although a young man, he has shown conspicuous ability and it is an excellent thing for our municipal politics to secure such men to represent the city. He should have had the nomination of both conventions, if he had been given to ability, fidelity and a faithful and honest performance of public duties.

THEY LIKE COURAGE.

We have been asked to try the "deadly parallel column" on our local contemporary. Only two weeks ago it said of Mayor Burr:

"He has made an exceptionally good mayor, dignified, attentive to the duties of his office, and prudent. We have become a firm believer in the ability of Mayor Burr, and hope he will be renominated and re-elected. The duties of office have been administered on business methods and the voters of the city have no real reason to refuse him the usual second term. We hope the citizens may also renominate Mayor Burr." Last week it climbed the political fence with such celerity that it barely escaped dropping over on the other side. It certainly does take some courage to stand up for one's honest convictions in a local contest, when both candidates are honored and respected citizens, and have powerful friends whose influence might be lost by any opposition to their wishes.

But the true Newton citizen is the most liberal man; he does not ask that a paper should always agree with him, as he likes to see what can be said on the other side, and there are not half a dozen men in the city who would refuse to patronize a paper that has convictions, and expresses them fairly. Our weak-kneed contemporary should think of this and brace up.

A WARNING.

The experience of last year ought to teach people not to take stock in any stories started at the last moment, in order to defeat candidates for the school board. The false and malicious stories circulated about Rev. Mr. White of Newtonville without doubt caused his defeat, as his friends had no anticipation of any such roosterbacks, and were not on their guard against them. It is different this year, and it is hardly possible that Amos E. Lawrence can be defeated in the same manner. He is so well known and so universally respected and esteemed that his accession to the school board would be hailed on all sides with satisfaction, as the dawn of a better order of things, when people could have confidence that statement put forth by the board were fair and honest, without any twist to make things different than they really were. With Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Bell, Mr. Hornbroke and Mr. Travis, Mr. Hollis and Mr. Drew, the three wards at this end of the city would be more than well represented, and the influence of such men could not help being felt for good even in the lowest room in the primary schools. Don't give any credence to any election day stories against Mr. Lawrence. Last year's election showed what his opponents can do in that line, but forwarned is forearmed.

THE CITY SALARIES.

Mr. Glover's resignation only emphasizes our statement of last week that the salaries at City Hall are far from being extravagant, and is a complete answer to the cheap criticisms that have been heard of late. When a private corporation offers Mr. Glover additional duties, it is a very effective answer. The item of salaries makes but a very small part of Newton's expenses, if we leave out the police and firemen, the total being less than $20,000 out of a total of over $800,000, and the whole amount, whether it will be paid or not, is made about it. Mayor Burr's opponents are evidently hard up for ammunition, if this is the worst fault they can find, and the beauty of it is that the very city officials who advocated the paltry increase of salaries are the ones who were renominated by the Citizens, while Mayor Burr had nothing to do with it. If they could show how their candidate could save the city one or two hundred thousand, we might be willing to advocate a change, but a few paltry hundreds do not sensibly increase any one's tax bill. The talk about high wages has been going on for some time, but the quarter and the Citizens Committee have been compelled to issue a manifesto that they never intended to reduce the wages or the work furnished to laboring men. There are several hundred of these in Newton and their votes count on election day. Whether they will be able to induce the laboring men to believe this remains to be seen.

No one can call this a dull campaign, for ever since the nominations were made there has been the liveliest kind of work being done all over the city. Municipal elections were never more heated, even in the year when Mr. Powers was so badly defeated by Mayor Kimball. The school board question enters into the campaign to complicate matters, so that it will be impossible to predict the result, especially as the Australian ballot system will also be used. Number of candidates, including a competent executive, who has given more than the usual amount of time to the city business, and who has been very efficient, as is shown by the great improvement in the police department, and the extraordinary number of prosecutions for illegal liquor selling, for which Mayor Burr has certainly earned great credit. He would have made his reelection easier if he had let things go their usual course, but he had a high ideal of duty and strove to live up to it.

The campaign against Mayor Burr reached its height early in the week and since then has been steadily declining. The arguments against him have been as for instance that he should be given no credit for enforcing the liquor law, because he was away when one arrest was made. This is so absurd as to defeat its own object. The truth is that the arrest in question was the culmination of a policy planned out carefully by Mayor Burr at the beginning of the year. The argument simply shows that Mayor Burr's enforcement of the liquor law makes him a very strong candidate with all the temperance and no license voters of Newton. No other Mayor for years has made such a creditable record in this respect.

The letter in the GRAPHIC last week, asserting that Mr. Barton himself had withdrawn his sons from the High School, was characterized by some of his hasty defenders as a falsehood, etc. The fact is, however, that when Mr. Barton left the High School, Mr. Barton withdrew his son Clarence and sent him to a private school. This year, however, a younger brother has entered the first class at the school. Mr. Barton's lack of confidence in the school after Mr. Cutler left, as shown by his own acts, occasioned much adverse comment at the time.

It is said that the public have no confidence in Mr. Barton as a member of the school board. The feeling seems to be mutual, as Mr. Barton has all along shown that he had no confidence in the public. When such a condition of things exists between two parties, the only reasonable thing to do is to apply for a divorce, which will be done at next Tuesday's election.

The cause of No License should not be forgotten by the voters, this year, in the excitement of trying to mark out a straight ticket under the new ballot law. Newton does not desire to become a license city, and as the law has been vigorously enforced this year, no license means something.

NEWTON.

The communion will be observed at the Channing church next Sunday, immediately after the morning service. Mr. Paxton has a very attractive assortment of fancy boxes, and Christmas tree decorations, just received.

The Newton C. L. S. C. will meet with L. D. Whittemore next Monday evening, at his residence, 12 Fayette street.

The Waltham Tribune reports that the Newton street railway will begin operation early next spring, over its whole line.

The ladies of the Methodist Church advertise in this issue a "Festival of Days" to be held Dec. 4, and 5, in the vestry of their church.

An Old Folks Concert will be given at Channing church parlors, Dec. 11th, by Mr. Arthur F. Burnett's chorus of young people. There will also be a supper, and a very enjoyable affair is anticipated.

Thanksgiving came this year in a drenching rain storm, and it was a beautiful day to stay at home. Those whose engagements called them out were very sympathetic in their remarks about the weather.

The Rev. J. A. Evans the general agent of the New England Conference of the A. M. E. Zion church, takes pleasure in returning thanks to the people of Newton, Mass., for the sum of $27.17. He has left Newton for Boston.

In Ward Seven the Republican Candidates are Councilman Hall and Bates, the former of whom has served a full term and has made a good record. The Citizens have nominated Mr. H. E. Bothfield and Councilman Bates.

In Ward One the candidates for Common Council are Councilman Forknall, who has done excellent service the past year, and E. J. H. Easterbrooke, of the Republican ticket, and Messrs. Bruce R. Ware and W. R. Grace are the Citizens candidates.

The next rehearsal of the new Choral society will be held on Thursday evening of next week instead of on Wednesday, as usual. A full attendance is particularly requested, as important business is to be transacted.

Elletts church—A full church service of thanksgiving, with the choice selections announced last week for Thanksgiving day, will be given next Sunday evening, Dec. 1. The lecture on John Wyclif will be postponed till the following Sunday evening.

The latest demand for street improvement comes from Skinner Hill, where Messrs. Powers, Follett and others are anxious to have Arlington street reconstructed. Evidently the cry for economy in city affairs is only favored where it affects the streets in some other ward.

Donations for the Pomroy Home during the last three weeks are as follows:—Newton Centre, box of pens, barrel of apples, milk; Unitarian Stebbins' aid society, 9 garments; Upper Falls, clothing; West Newton, clothing; Newton, clothing, cranberries, potatoes; G. A. R., rolls; Newton Baptist Church, ham, cold tongue, butter. Thanksgiving offerings will be noticed in next week's paper.

Mr. Lewis E. Coffin intends to build a number of houses next spring on his vacant land on Bellevue and adjacent streets, and for that purpose will free himself of some degree of business cares in Boston. This would give him plenty of time to attend to the duties of Alderman from Ward One, if he should be elected, and city officials need plenty of time for their duties. Mr. Coffin made an excellent record in his term in the Common Council, and was President of that body in his last term.

Mr. Henry Fuller was run into and knocked down by a team containing two ladies, about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, at the corner of Hall and Centre streets. They did not stop to see the result of their carelessness but drove off as rapidly as possible. Mr. Fuller was helped up by the Sunday School children of the latter's store. In spite of some severe bruises he fortunately escaped serious injury, but the humanity of the occupants of the carriage was commented on by all who saw the accident.

The Newton foot ball eleven played the Newton Centre second eleven last Friday. Though the teams were about equal in weight, the Newtons won easily, 28 to 0. The features of the game were the rushing of Ellison, Blake and Smith, the tackling of Lord and Ellison and the refereeing of Walworth. The following is the Newton team: Full-back, Whitmore; half-backs, Ellison and Blake; quarter-back, Loom; rushers, Alden, Adams, Pittman, Thompson, Partridge, Whitmore, Linder.

The Newton Natural History Society will hold its regular monthly meeting in Elliot Lower Hall on Monday evening next. The usual reports of the members will be given by the members, and the meeting will be followed by a lecture from Dr. J. Walter Fawkes on the life, habits and characteristics of the Zulus. All who are interested in the history and development of the country will enjoy the evening and are cordially invited to be present.

The Channing Literary class met Tuesday evening, over one hundred being present. The members read a paper describing the poems of the evening, the time at which they appeared, the lessons they taught and the changes made by Tennyson, since they first appeared; Miss Bellot, "The Lotus and the Lotus"; Miss Effie Bigelow, "St. Simeon Stylites"; and Rev. Mr. Hornbroke, "The Two Voices." The class has representatives from many of the wards and is unusually successful this year.

Devoted to the Laboring Man.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.
Many of our opponents are circulating the absurd story that Mr. Hibbard, our candidate for mayor, and Mr. Follett, our candidate for alderman, from Ward 1, are in favor of a reduction of the wages of our working men.
This is utterly false and untrue in every particular. They are opposed to increased salaries for well paid officials, and although favoring an economical administration, do not believe a reduction of work and labor wages true economy. This is not a campaign document but a true statement. Here's to our laborers, whom the opponents of Mr. Hibbard are trying to influence to vote against him by false statements.

—The politicians are engaging in a very large amount of missionary work. Every body has been seen in the interest of candidates. There seems to be an undercurrent of union with regard to choice in this ward, a fact which is not so apparent in the other wards of the city.

—An account of the meeting of the Goddard Literary Union, supposed to have been held last Tuesday evening, was published in another paper with various comments. The only strange thing about it is that the meeting was postponed, as was announced in this paper last week.

A report of the proceedings will be found elsewhere.

The topic for discussion was "The Necessity of an Appropriation of $2,000,000 for advancing commerce between the United States and South America." At the next meeting of the lyceum the discussion will be in reference to the advisability of supporting the third party. The debate will be an interesting one.

Selections from Hiawatha, "The Moving" and "The Famine" were given entire, and selections from "Building of the Ship" and "Miss Standish." Mrs. Walton gave many interesting incidents in the life of our beloved poet. She has the talent of interpreting the thought of a writer in the fullest appreciation of the sentiment. Miss Alice Jones sang "Day Break" in her own exquisite way, and Mrs. Chas. Cunningham gave "The Arrow and the Song" with fine effect. The next meeting of the Guild occurs Dec. 10th, when George Montague Towle, the popular writer and speaker, will address the club. Topic: "Empress Eugenie."

—Friends of Mr. Lawrence Bond, president of the Common Council, and he has hundreds of them all over the city, should see to it that he is elected Alderman from Ward Three. He has served the city faithfully and intelligently and such conscientious work for the city ought to be encouraged.

Patrick. A fine musical program was rendered by the choir, including Psalm 93, composed by Mr. J. E. Trowbridge. The psalm was first read responsively. It is written for five parts with solos for soprano, tenor and bass. The solo parts were well sustained and the chorus singing deserved commendation.

He will enter upon his new duties Jan. 1, Mr. Glover was appointed water registrar of Newton in July, 1879, and has held the position since, his salary having been increased $300 per annum by the city council. Before coming to Newton he was for four years in the service of the Boston water board. Mr. Glover for several years served as clerk of the common council, succeeding Mr. Hosea Hyde. The city loses the services of a valuable official.

—The Rainbow sale which is to be given next Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 6th, in the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton, promises to be a very brilliant affair. Supper can be obtained and refreshments will be on sale during the evening.

—The late Warren Pope, colored man, about 30 years of age, was found dead at the foot of the cellar staircase at Col. Leonard's residence, Washington street, last Sunday morning. He had been doing the chores and had been down to the cellar to get a fit. "Warren" has been a familiar figure in ward 3 for a number of years. His peculiar costume and tall white hat were remembered by many residents. His mind was affected, yet he was a very fellow who tried to earn his living honestly. For some time, he had occupied a loft over Mr. Jenkinson's stable for a sleeping apartment and there he slumbered in the cold and warm weather, without the simplest comfort which even the poor are not altogether denied. The remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of S. F. Cate and the burial took place from the Myrtle Baptist church, Tuesday, the colored people of the society providing for the funeral and interment, which was made in the Newton cemetery.

A New Element Needed.

Newton, Mass., November 25, 1889. To the Editor of the GRAPHIC: I happen to have a couple of children in the high school and while I do not propose to discuss the management of the school with them so far as the discipline or qualifications of their teachers are concerned, I cannot help having an interest in what is going on. There is something in the atmosphere which denotes a smouldering fire, for it is impossible to have a much more without something being scorched. If gentlemen like Mr. Bell and Mr. Lawrence are ready and willing to accept a position as school committee men, why not carry out your suggestion of last week and see if the trouble which now exists cannot be obviated? I am confident that it will be hard work to find any number of pupils in the high school who feel contented and happy, and in saying this, I cast no reflection upon their teachers.

Now no one can afford to be vindictive, no matter what position one may be placed in. If Mr. Barton is running that his autocratic course may be vindicated, it is a mistake for him, and it will be a mistake if we re-elect him. Certainly if parents will give this a thought, they will see at once that it is advisable to drop Mr. Barton and have a new element in our board.

An Unfortunate Affair.

Newton, Mass., November 25, 1889. To the Editor of the GRAPHIC: It is unfortunate for Newton that there should be any question about the school committee. It is unfortunate for Mr. Barton that he should have allowed himself to take sides in a question of such vital importance. There is a feeling of uncertainty in regard to the management of our school and with this feeling, why is it not well to make a change and see if we cannot get the school back in the position that it was under Mr. Waterhouse.

As a long resident of the city, I should like to ask why Mr. Barton is so anxious to be so long on the committee? Is there any perquisite that goes with the office?

What Entitles Mr. Barton to the Position.

Newton, Mass., November 25, 1889. To the Editor of the GRAPHIC: As a citizen of our city and one who is interested in our schools, I want to thank you for the stand you have taken on the school committee question. It is bold, honest and fearless, and one that you may be proud of. To know the three gentlemen who are nominated is enough. The citizens of Newton are to be congratulated that Messrs. Bell and Lawrence are willing to have their names used for a position which they will fill to the credit both of themselves and the city. What has Barton done that entitles him to re-election? CITIZEN.

Of Course Not.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC: Has Mr. Hibbard's candidacy anything to do with the street improvements on the Silsby estate and Brighton Hill, which are now being undertaken? It is a question of dollars and cents, and it is a question of the improvement of the streets, etc. The development of unimproved land into a city is a question of dollars and cents. Newton should not be an active partner in such projects. CITIZEN.

N. C. E. U.

The Newton Christian Endeavor Union will hold their next meeting at the Methodist church, Auburn street, Wednesday evening, Dec. 6th, at 7.30. The exercises will consist of a concert meeting led by Mr. F. F. Davidson of Auburndale, and addresses by Rev. F. E. Clark, D. D., and Rev. C. A. Dickinson of Berkeley Temple, Boston. Don't forget the date.

N. Y. M. C. A. Building.

Tuesday evening about sixty gentlemen were present at the residence of Mr. Geo. S. Harwood, by invitation, to discuss Y. M. C. A. matters, and especially a new building. Representative Gilmann was chosen Chairman, and Rev. Dr. Keown offered prayer. Rev. Dr. Shinn advocated warmly a new building for the Association and Natural History Society. It was also suggested that the Ladies Social Science Club and the Musical Society would find a home there.

Mr. Russell Sturgis revealed the success of such buildings all over the country, and Mr. Armstrong replied to questions about the benefit Y. M. C. A. would derive from the new building. Messrs. W. C. Bates, Fletcher Barber, Partridge, Ellison, Snow, Goodwin, Dr. Frisbie and others, all spoke in favor. A committee was appointed to find out the cost of a building, and solicit subscriptions, consisting of L. R. Gay, R. F. Cummings, W. F. E. Allen, E. W. Gay, John A. Lethrop, H. J. Woods, and W. C. Bates. Mr. Sturgis urged the importance of the building and said that the building should be under the control of the Association. It was voted unanimously that the building be erected. Later in the evening supper was served to the guests, and a good beginning has been made in the work.

Stearns-Hunter.

The new Baptist church was filled on Wednesday evening with friends of Mr. Chas. K. Stearns and Miss Ethel May Hunter, to witness their marriage ceremony. The church was handsomely decorated with potted plants and white chrysanthemums. On every pew post in the front part of the church was hung a wreath of laurels and white chrysanthemums. Near the front of the church, a gate of laurel and white chrysanthemums, tied with knots of white ribbon, separated to let the bridal party through. This was the first wedding in the church, and the rich coloring of its walls made a beautiful background for the elegant toilets. Mr. Fernando H. Wood presided at the organ and at 6:45 commenced to discourse beautiful appropriate music. A few minutes after, fourteen young ladies, friends of the bride, marched in. They were Miss Carrie Capron, Miss Fannie Capron, Miss Helen Heathorn, Miss Edith Ellis, Miss Collins Smith, Miss Helen Ellis, Miss Anna Bassett, Miss Minnie Peters, Miss Belle Bassett, Miss Mamie Sylvester, Miss Amanda Sylvester, Miss Frankie Gardner, Miss Alice Sylvester, and Miss Lillian Hunter. Following them came Miss Lillian Hunter, a young sister of the bride, with Master Dudley Fanning of New York, a cousin; they opened the flower gate and each carried behind a half, holding it open. Behind them came the four bridesmaids, Miss Mary Fennell in lilac, Miss Marion Nickerson in yellow, Miss Mabel Mason in pink and white, and Miss Lillian Hunter in green. All the dresses were of net over silk and each young lady carried a bunch of white chrysanthemums and ferns tied with long ribbon to match each dress. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Emily Hunter, and the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Fennell. The bride wore a gown of white net, made simply and finished on the back with two rosettes of white ribbon, with long ends. Behind the maid of honor came the bride, Miss Edith Hunter, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Stephen V. A. Hunter. The bride was attired in a remarkably pretty gown, made of white satin and tulle, trimmed with garlands of lilies of the valley. A long tulle veil hanging to the end of the train, was caught on the hair with the same flower. In her hand she carried a bunch of white roses and ferns, tied with white ribbon. After the bride, followed the four ushers, Mr. Clinton Hunter, Mr. Wm. T. May, Mr. P. Mather of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mr. Prendall of Boston. At the altar the bride was met by the groom, Mr. Chas. K. Stearns and his best man, Mr. Howland Spaulding of Boston. Rev. F. J. Holmes of the Congregational church performed the ceremony, the prayer and benediction being given by the father of the groom, Prof. O. A. Stearns. During the benediction the bride and groom remained standing while the bride party passed out. The ushers then escorted out the members of the families of the bride and groom, assisted by Mr. Stephen Hunter, Jr., Mr. M. Kendall, and Mr. J. J. Holmes. At 10 o'clock the residence of the bride's father on Lake avenue was filled with friends going and coming in spite of the rain. An awning reached from the door down the winding walk to the carriage step, under which was laid a carpet. In the dining room an elegant supper was served by Dooning of Boston. Several hundred friends congratulated the bride and groom during the evening. Among the prominent people present were Mr. and Mrs. Bishop of Dorchester, Prof. and Mrs. English, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall O. Rice, President and Mrs. Alvah Hovey, Prof. Burton, Mrs. Lancaster and Misses Lancaster of Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Cobb, Miss Kenrick and Miss Luther of Newton, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Capron, Mr. and Mrs. Chester, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Nickerson, Mrs. Gardner Cobb, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardner, Mrs. Lecompte, Miss Lecompte, Mrs. Thomas Nickerson, Prof. and Mrs. Thomas, Col. and Mrs. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Young, and many others. At about 10:30 the bride and groom drove off, nelted with rice by the young people, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens intending being away about two weeks. We understand that their return they will occupy their new house on Norwood avenue, which will then be completed. The wedding presents were in a room by themselves and were of great value. A great deal of silver in many exquisite designs to be seen there, besides furniture, pictures, vases, desks, lamps, etc., of all kinds. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns will be at home to their friends Jan. 8th, 1890.

—The lecture given at Lincoln Hall on Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Chautauqua club, by Mr. G. A. Frost, late associate of the renowned Kennan in his Siberian travels, did not meet the expectation of the club as to his ability as a lecturer, and did not give the satisfaction which was anticipated by the large audience present. The ladies of the club were led to believe by the representations of the neighboring city that the lecture services were of a desirable character. At the next efforts of the club to entertain the public, we anticipate a rare treat.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson of Upper Falls, the father and mother of Mrs. L. K. Brigham of our village, met with an accident at the Centre street railroad crossing on Tuesday, while returning from a ride to Watertown. The horse became frightened by an approaching train, and to prevent a collision Mr. Richardson guided the horse so that the carriage might be brought to a stop against a post, which demolished the carriage, and the horse cleared himself from the wreck without injury. Mr. Richardson was not injured, and Mrs. Richardson was only slightly bruised.

—There were union services at the Baptist church, Thanksgiving day. Rev. Mr. Holman of the Baptist church delivering the sermon.

—Mr. Chas. Russell of Warren, Mass., and one of our former residents, has secured a position as foreman in a foundry at Lynn.

—Someone makes the remark, "If the politicians are as lively in other parts of Newton as here, the election will be pretty exciting."

—Agent Francis of the Pettie Machine works has given notice that he will leave Jan. 1st, having received a better position in Chicago.

—The Rubber works are figuring for a large contract which, if awarded them, will necessitate the employment of more hands and additional machinery.

—A choir of eight voices has been formed at the Baptist church by the young people, and Mr. J. B. Jones is chosen chorister and Miss Annie Billings organist.

—Nothing of importance was transacted at the meeting of the Newton Improvement Society last Saturday evening, the attendance being very small through unavoidable circumstances.

—An interesting series of Sunday evening topics is being prepared by the Rev. Mr. Holman, which promise to be very popular. Since Mr. Holman came here there has been a marked increase in the attendance, and he is very much liked by all who know him.

—The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor held a sociable in the vestry of the Methodist church last Monday evening. A large number of the young people were in attendance and an interesting entertainment was given by members.

—A large number attended the assembly in Prospect Hall, last Friday evening. Thirty couples were in attendance, and the orchestra was from Boston and ice cream and cake were furnished by Barlow of Newtonville. The social closing at about 1 a. m.

—While Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson were driving in Newton Centre, Monday, their horse became unmanageable and ran, throwing out the occupants and completely demolishing the buggy. Fortunately Mr. Richardson was not injured, but Mr. Richardson's injuries are not serious.

—It seems to be the public sentiment here that we should have a permanent driver for Hose 7. It is a singular fact that Hose 7 has more territory to cover than any other hose in the city, but we have no permanent driver. As we are situated now, the first man to get to the hose house after an alarm has to harness the horse, making a delay of several minutes. In the case of fire in one of our large mills here it is important that there should be timely aid. A large amount of money is invested in the machinery of these mills, which would make a financial loss in many other parts of Newton. There is strong talk among our property holders of presenting a petition to this effect.

Mr. Hunter received a very acceptable gift, a beautiful china dinner set, the presentation speech being made by Rev. A. P. Sharp, Mr. Hunter responding appropriately.
